West May Send Russia 'Final Note' on Berlin; Fear Pervades U. N.

War's Possibility Is Grim Keynote Of Paris Meeting; Reds Given Slight

Paris, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—The United Nations General Assembly opened in the flag-decked Palais de Chaillot today on the grim keynote that a third world war might plunge the world into catastrophe at any time.

That the fear of war will be dominant in all deliberations was made clear.

Even while the opening session was in progress the Russian delegates watched the Big Three foreign ministers leave the meeting hall for a conference on the Berlin crisis.

Auriol Welcomes Delegates

"Three years have gone by since the end of the world conflict," said President Vincent Auriol of France, welcoming the U. N. to Paris. "However, we do not seem to have neared peace.

"Insecurity remains. Passioned interests irritate and complicate oppositions which already exist. Misunderstanding increase. Stubbornness hardens. Negotiations drag on. Treaties are still in a suspended state, and solutions elude us while speeches become more bitter and chaos more prolonged."

"We are confronted with the threat of a new and dreadful conflict," said Juan Bramuglia, Argentine foreign minister, in his keynote speech as temporary president of the Assembly.

Bramuglia urged indirectly that the United States and Russia get together. He said the world cannot be a "dialogue between the two nations, nor can it be a monologue by one of them."

Evatt Elected President

These speakers and Herbert V. Evatt of Australia, who was elected permanent president of the session, also sounded the note that the U. N. alone was the great hope for peace and that a tremendous responsibility rested on the delegates.

"In a situation as grave and difficult as that which exists in the world today, this Assembly can give a lead," Evatt said.

This third annual world gathering of the U. N. was called to order at 3:22 p. m. in the ornate palace overlooking the Seine River and the Eiffel Tower, in the presence of more than 3000 delegates, diplomats, invited guests, correspondents and a handful of Parisians.

Outside, like figures from a pageant, guards of the French Republic clicked about in their blue and scarlet jackets and golden helmets, while the more somberly attired Paris police held back the thousands in the streets.

Division between East and West was emphasized at the start when American and British delegates warmly shook hands with each other, ignoring the Russians who sat beside them in the fourth row.

Reds Given Slight

The first business was to elect a president, and the Assembly chose 54-year-old Evatt, Australia's foreign minister, by 31 votes to 20 for Argentina's Bramuglia, the temporary chairman. Six invalid ballots and one abstention completed the roster.

The Assembly then handed Russia and its satellites a slap by electing members of Western-oriented countries to all six chairmanships of committees. It was the first time in the three-year life of the Assembly that no Russian-bloc chairman was included.

Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian Premier, was named chairman of the hot political committee, where most of the big battles of the 58-nation Assembly are fought.

The Assembly adjourned at 7:40 p. m. until 10:30 a. m. Wednesday, when it will elect seven vice presidents. These probably will include the big five powers, one Latin American country and a representative of Poland.

Irgun Yields To Ultimatum From Israel

By Kenneth Bilby

Tel Aviv, Sept. 21 (NYHT).—Irgun Zvai Leumi capitulated unconditionally today to the ultimatum of the Israeli government and thereby ended its separate existence as the last legal dissident organization within Jewish territory.

Irgun leaders in Jerusalem said they agreed to disband and release their arms because the only alternative would have been civil war.

Truckloads of heavily armed military police moved into the main Irgun base in Jerusalem and emerged with tons of arms and ammunition, several armored cars, a large number of trucks, 3000 uniforms stolen from the British army and other military equipment.

Dr. Walter Eytan, director general of the Israeli Foreign Office, said "this marks the end of terrorism."

Wednesday morning Irgun soldiers in Jerusalem will take the oath of allegiance to the provisional government and be assigned to units of the Jerusalem

Cancer Expert Puts Suspicion On Hot Foods

Gastric Irritations Bring Predisposition, Dr. Andrew Ivy Says

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Hot coffee and hot soups may be digging the graves of future victims of gastric cancers, a noted cancer authority reported yesterday.

The opinion, by Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, professor of physiology and vice president of the University of Illinois, wasn't stated so baldly, but the implication was there.

Dr. Ivy, executive director of the National Advisory Council, told of experiments on effects of hot foods and drinks at his university. He presided at a press conference of the NACC, at the National Institute of Health, in Bethesda, Md., as the council concluded its latest meeting.

At the meeting, Dr. Ivy said, it was decided to call a national conference of medical scientists to study what can be done to reduce the number of deaths from gastric cancer, reported responsible for about 45 per cent of all cancer deaths.

Two-Minute Holdup

5 of 8 Bandits Captured After $60,000 Bank Robbery

Columbia, N. C., Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Eight armed bandits staged a two-minute precision robbery of the East Carolina Bank here today and fled with almost $60,000 but the FBI said tonight that five had been captured and most of the loot recovered.

Charles W. Brown, FBI agent, said two of the bandits were white, the others Negroes. Brown said about 75 law enforcement officers were closing in on the three Negroes still at large in deep woods near Creswell, N. C.

All the gunmen were from Norfolk, Va., Brown said.

Harry Everett Morrison was captured and confessed leading the daring robbery, Brown reported. The FBI quoted him as saying the car broke down and they fled after dividing their loot.

The other white man was identified as Aubrey Whitt Tarkington.

They were listed as Willie Milkins, Jesse Bynum and Christopher C. Ward.

Ward, officers reported, was wounded and was not expected to live.

Brown reported $58,267 of the loot had been recovered.

Officers said the car in which the bandits left the bank was stolen today in Norfolk, Va. A band of masked robbers held up a night club near Norfolk early Sunday and took at least $10,000.

Welles Has Close Call

Ministers Reported Agreed on Another Effort Before Giving Assembly Problem

By Walter Kerr

Paris, Sept. 21 (NYHT).—The Western powers were reported tonight to be prepared to send one last note to the Soviet Union before deciding whether to break off the Moscow talks on Berlin and hand over the problem to the United Nations.

Following the second meeting tonight of the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France, it was said an agreement has been reached to make a final effort to come to an understanding with the Soviet government.

This attempt may be along the lines suggested yesterday by Robert Schuman, French Foreign Minister, to George C. Marshall, American Secretary of State, and Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Secretary. Schuman's proposal was to inform the Russians that the issue would be taken to the United Nations unless some sign was forthcoming there was hope in continued private discussion.

May Wait on Envoys

It is not clear, however, that the three foreign ministers decided upon definite action tonight and it may be their intention to await the arrival in Paris Wednesday of their representatives who have been carrying on negotiations at the Kremlin since the end of July. American Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, Frank Roberts, special British envoy, and French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau are expected here before noon. They flew to Berlin today from the Soviet capital.

Tonight's meeting, which lasted just about one hour and a half, began soon after 6 p. m., with the foreign ministers assisted by their military governors in Germany and the members of their standing committee who have been coordinating policy in London. Included in the United States group was John Foster Dulles, Republican party foreign affairs adviser.

Secretary Marshall was the first to leave, cold and noncommittal as usual. Bevin followed, and later left by train for London, where he must participate Wednesday in a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons. The last to come out of the Quai d'Orsay were Gens. Lucius D. Clay, Sir Brian Robertson and Pierre Koenig, American, British and French military governors of Germany.

Evidence of Progress

(The Associated Press said Bevin had called a special cabinet session at 10 a. m. Wednesday to hear his report on the Paris talks.

Mixed in with the customary "no comment" answers to questions was a certain amount of evidence that some progress had been made.

It was reported the ministers did not intend to get together again until sometime next week, providing time for one last effort at the Kremlin.

According to one story, the intention is to ask Viacheslav M. Molotov, Soviet Foreign Minister, to give a clear indication that agreement is possible on four-power control of the Soviet mark in Berlin.

There is no desire on the part of any Foreign Minister to turn the German problem over to public debate as long as there is a possibility of success in private negotiation.

Police Hint They Know Md. Killer

'Clews' Discovered Where Auto Was Found Declared Obviously Planted

By Philip J. Austensen and Richard Morris
Post Reporters

Police investigating the double slaying of a young Glen Burnie (Md.) couple expressed belief yesterday the killer is a white man and said, "We have a pretty good suspicion who he may be."

The hint that Anne Arundel County investigators, assisted by State police, may be on the track of the murderer, came when a member of each force was at Hyattsville, Md., yesterday morning to question a suspect.

A Maryland State trooper said he believes John H. Mahlan, 25, and Miss Mary C. Kline, 18, were slain from "a jealousy motive."

Robbery Not Motive

"The boy wasn't robbed, because his money was still in his pockets," the trooper said. He said he thought the job was "well planned," and added, "I believe when they find him, it will be a white man. In fact, we have a pretty good suspicion who he may be."

The maimed, disfigured bodies of the young postal clerk and his secretary girl friend—each with a bullet wound in the head—were found late Monday near a lonely road about 6 miles west of Annapolis.

The trooper indicated that police hoped to pick up the latest suspect—seven have already been questioned to no avail—at any moment.

At Anne Arundel police headquarters, however, Chief John H. Souers said late yesterday he had not heard of "any particular" person being sought in connection with the slaying.

Money Statement Disputed

He said he believed that robbery was not the principal motive for the murders. Mahlan was reputed by some sources to have had about $4 in his pockets when he and Miss Kline left on their date.

When his body was found, there was no money in his pockets, Chief Souers said.

Chief Souers said last night that no conclusive clews were drawn from inspection of an abandoned, bloodstained shack which searchers came upon at Marley Creek, 2 miles from the car site.

He said tests showed only that bloodstains on the linoleum floor near an iron bed were type "A," the same type blood which Mahlan had. Chief Souers said Miss Kline's blood was type "O."

He added that police had searched in vain for evidence in and around the house, and a blood-stained canoe nearby and that he had turned his investigation elsewhere.

The fact that the blood, which Baltimore authorities analyzed, was the same type as Mahlan's did not necessarily indicate that it was shed by him, Chief Souers pointed out.

Clews "Too Obvious"

Lieut. Wilbur Wade of the Anne Arundel police force said that clews near the scene of Mahlan's abandoned automobile — found Saturday morning 12 miles from the bodies—were "too obvious."

Wade said it appeared the killer had tried to make police believe someone from a small Negro settlement known as Freetown, in the vicinity of the car near Pipins Corner, had committed the crime.

Miami Escapes Storm Center As Hurricane Turns Inland; Rich Citrus Crops Periled

125 MPH Wind Batters Key West, Unroofing Houses; Gusts Reach 160

By The Associated Press

Miami, Fla., Sept. 21.—Miami escaped the full brunt of a powerful hurricane tonight.

At least two persons were dead. Mrs. Ben J. Kincaid, 56, of Coconut Grove, a Miami suburb, was killed when she touched a fallen live wire in the back yard of her home.

William John Evans, 46, engineer of the Tatum Hotel, was killed when his body hurtled five stories from the roof to a sun deck. Police believed Evans might have been inspecting the roof and was blown off by one of the sudden wind gusts.

Earlier, the storm slammed through Key West with winds of 125 miles per hour and gusts up to 140 miles. Navy wind instruments were blown away. Gusts of 160 miles an hour were reported by Navy Radio at Boca Chica Naval Base, north of Key West.

The hurricane cut all but emergency communications with the 175-mile stretch of the Florida Keys.

Fishing Town in "Eye"

The little fishing town of Everglades was in the eye of the disturbance as it crossed the coastline.

"We have no word from Everglades City," said Norton.

Miami was raked for hours by winds of 50 to 55 miles an hour with gusts ranging beyond hurricane force of 75 miles an hour. Heavy rain fell.

The storm headed in the direction of Lake Okeechobee, scene of a disaster 20 years ago. Norton said its center may pass directly over the lake or just to the west of it.

The immensely rich Florida citrus groves with millions of orange, grapefruit and tangerine trees apparently were in for a heavy tossing. Losses will run into millions of dollars if the citrus crop is hard hit.

Damage Reports Trickle In

Reports of damage began to trickle in. All docks at Tavernier, midway down the Florida keys, were reported washed away. A filling station at Modello, near Homestead, was blown across communication lines, knocking out the wires.

More than 130 persons were transferred from the George Washington Carver School and the South Miami Community House in the Miami area when the storm endangered them. The Red Cross declared the two shelters unsafe.

Many Miami streets were flooded and high water caused cancellation of some bus routes in the city. Only two bus routes operated on Miami Beach.

Thirty privately owned boats were sunk, three Navy craft damaged and two Coast Guard boats driven ashore at Key West.

Roofs were blown off a number of Key West houses and water rose to a depth of 3 feet on the east side of the island.

Capt. Cecil Adel, naval base commandant, was unable to estimate damage to naval facilities immediately.

A Navy message, addressed to the Miami Herald, said hurricane-force winds whirled over Key West

Truman, Dewey Disagree Over Congress' Record Affecting West

Governor Cites Action by GOP In Legislation On Reclamation

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Denver, Colo., Sept. 21.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today worked the State of Colorado like a grubstake prospector, and wound up in Denver tonight with a warm defense of the Eightieth Congress' reclamation record.

Entering the Rocky Mountain area that gave him big majorities in 1944, he told a Denver audience he will put an end to careless policies of the Truman Administration and launch a comprehensive program of conservation.

A crowd estimated at 50,000 welcomed Dewey at Denver, lining the same 15-block route President Truman traveled yesterday. Police said "about as many" greeted Truman.

A blaring band led the Dewey motorcade through the friendly, waving throng to the Brown Palace Hotel. "Little Eva," the Taft elephant that put on an act for the Ohioan at Philadelphia, was at the Denver depot to meet Dewey.

In seven off-the-cuff speeches en route he promised "a lot less talk and a lot more performance."

To the sun-bitten station-side throngs he said: "Sometimes we (Republicans) don't talk so good but we know how to do a job."

There was a reason for his pick and shovel stumping of this State. Colorado is one of the four States outside the South where a Demo-

Stern Curb Put on Export Of Fats, Oils

A drastic slash in export of fats and oils for the October-December quarter was announced last night.

Total exports for the last three months of the year are set at 252 million pounds, as against 452 million last year.

At the same time the Commerce Department announced that "crops indicated for this fall should yield a production of fats and oils from domestic materials of 10.4 billion pounds, 600 million higher than last year, and the largest in our peacetime history."

Production of edible vegetable oils is expected to reach 3.6 billion pounds, the largest on record.

However, butter production this year will be about 1200 million pounds, Commerce added, nearly 170 million under a year ago.

Burmese Rebels Led by Woman

Rangoon, Burma, Sept. 21 (AP).—A government communique said today loyal troops in central Burma had defeated a powerful rebel force commanded by a woman warrior named Ma Khin Nyunt.

The woman rode a white horse and led an attack on Burmese soldiers Sunday. After the battle had raged three hours, reinforcements reached the loyal troops. The rebels retreated, leaving 87 dead, the communique said.

President Hits At Opponent's 'Double Talk' In Fiery Speech

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 21.—President Truman fired another broadside tonight in what he called "the battle of the West," and primed it with a challenge to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

He didn't name his Republican opponent, but called on him to "come out in the open" and tell where he stood on public power, irrigation and reclamation. He implied that Dewey had been dealing in "double talk."

In a fiery speech here in the Mormon Tabernacle, Mr. Truman charged that Utah and the whole West had been "crudely and wickedly cheated by the power lobby in Washington, operating through the Republican Eightieth Congress."

"Under the Republicans," he said, "you get strangulation."

Mr. Truman spoke before an overflow crowd of 11,000, which applauded vigorously.

He won them at the very outset when he told how his grandfather, driving an ox team loaded with merchandise, came to Salt Lake City a century or so ago and was befriended by Brigham Young, the Mormon leader.

He told how he had been met today by George Albert Smith, now president of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) church, and remarked:

"Oh, I wish my old grandfather could see me now."

The audience laughed and then broke into prolonged applause.

The Chief Executive was given a rousing welcome in Salt Lake City. Forty thousand persons gathered along Fourth street and Main street to wave and cheer as he Claims Sufficient Evidence

Rep. McDowell to Urge Trial Of 3 as Wartime Atomic Spies

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The House Committee on Un-American Activities will decide this week whether to issue a report like that of the Royal Commission in the Canadian spy case or hold public hearing on evidence gathered so far in closed sessions, it was disclosed yesterday.

Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) of a subcommittee announced he is prepared to recommend prosecution of three persons on charges of wartime atomic energy espionage.

The evidence has been obtained by the subcommittee in three months of secret hearings, many of them at night, McDowell declared.

He told reporters he is sure the committee has much more information on the cases than the Justice Department.

When the subcommittee reports to the full committee, he said, it will recommend that information gathered on the three persons be turned over to the Justice Department for presentation to a Federal grand jury.

Two of those involved, he said, are American scientists who worked on the wartime atomic bomb project. The third, whose nationality was not disclosed, is not a scientist and was not connected with the atomic project, McDowell declared.

Apparently the committee has given up hope of securing any testimony from mysterious Canadian-educated Arthur Adams, previously described by the committee as one of Russia's most important wartime atomic spies. Adams was the man who could link the Canadian spy case to that of atomic espionage here. He fled the country, however, after an investigation of him by this Government was started.

Plans to hold open sessions, McDowell said, may be canceled to avoid the possibility of accidentally disclosing any of this country's atomic secrets. The committee probably will decide the question at a full meeting Friday, he declared.

In any event the committee will issue a "full and complete" report shortly on a shocking chapter" in the wartime activities of Communist spies assigned to steal atomic energy information.

McDowell and Representative F. Edward Hebert (D., La.) continued closed hearings yesterday starting with a 90-minute questioning of Dr. Joseph Weinberg, a

Indian Signals Revive Hope For Safety of 5 on Lost Plane

From Press Dispatches

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Sept. 21.—Ground signals by Cree Indians tonight revived hope for the safety of two Washington area residents and three others lost September 12 aboard a U. S. Navy plane.

Flashing mirrors and cloth strips on the ground attracted a Royal Canadian Air Force search plane cruising over the community of Skownan, 100 miles from search headquarters at The Pas.

The plane dropped a message asking if the natives knew anything of the Navy aircraft, lost in flight from Churchill to The Pas.

"East in woods on ground," the cloth strips spelled out.

"About 25 miles east," another message said.

The five missing are Capt. Benjamin Scott Custer of 8 Oxford st., Chevy Chase, Md., U. S. Naval Attache at the Embassy at Ottawa; Master Sergt. George Scalise of Fort Belvoir, Va.; Sir Robert Stirling Hamilton, naval adviser to the British High Commissioner at Ottawa; Lieut. Charles Wilcox, East Oskaloosa, Iowa, Navy pilot, and Chief Petty Officer Jack M. Kastner, Tucson, Ariz., also a Navy pilot.

The RCAF has spent $200,000 so far in extensive searches for the missing men.

Yesterday, Indians at Gypsumville, 40 miles east of Skownan, signaled by mirrors to searching planes overhead. However, they failed to make ground signals to explain their use of the mirrors.

The Rev. Ray Horsfield, veteran Indian missionary, alerted the Crees by radio broadcasts in their own language today to aid in the search. He described the missing aircraft and asked the Indians to follow their ancient trails to hunt the plane.

Evatt of Australia Champions Rights Of Small Countries in United Nations

There was a time when Australia was noted for its kangaroos. Then came—in 1945—the San Francisco Conference and the United Nations Charter. Ever since, Australia has been noted for its kangaroos and its Dr. Evatt.

Guides U. N.'s European Session

DR. HERBERT EVATT
His Are World's Problems

Dr. Herbert Vere Evatt (pronounced as in McDevitt), Australia's hefty delegate to the United Nations, yesterday was elected presiding officer of the Assembly at Paris. That's a fitting honor for the scrappy "Doc," who is not only a U. N. founder but also one of its foremost champions.

If any of the delegates voted for the Down Under dynamo with the idea the presidential position might serve to muffle the outspoken Aussie, he did so in vain. Because burly Bert has always spoken out his mind, come hell or high water.

Giant-Socking David

For the past three years "Doc" Evatt has assumed the role of giant-socking David, standing unafraid among the Big Five Goliaths of the United Nations. At one time or another—because he believed he was right—battling Bert has swung an oral haymaker at such stalwarts as Gromyko, Halifax, Wellington Koo and Senator Connally.

Dr. Evatt has fought for three things in the U. N.: the right of the little nations to speak up, freedom of speech and press, and limitation of the veto power. He won the first two battles and lost the third. Even so, he's completely sold on the U. N. He believes, with fervid intensity, that the best interests of Australia and all nations, and the peace of the world, lie in a workable United Nations. He tries to make it work.

Now 54, a bull-shouldered, hulking figure, with unruly iron-gray hair, rebellious tie, and somewhat dishevelled clothes—"Bert" Evatt is a phenominal fellow.

Outstanding College Leader

In his college days he was a super-Frank Merriwell: class leader, outstanding athlete, and triple first-class honor man in scholarship.

He entered law, and so brilliant was he at the bar, that at 36 he was appointed to Australia's highest court.

Meanwhile, Bert had entered politics in his native New South Wales. Of middle class background, Bert joined the Labor Party out of intellectual conviction. He married Iowa-born Mary Alice Sheffer, an artist. They have two children.

In 1940—after 10 years on the bench—Evatt took the unprecedented step of quitting the lifetime post and reentering politics. He was elected to the House of Representatives, and in the following year, when the Labor Party took over, Evatt was named attorney general and Minister of External Affairs.

The second cabinet portfolio, as Foreign Minister, was considered unimportant and given to "Bert" as an extra bone to gnaw on should his tremendous appetite for work be left unsatisfied by the attorney generalship. Australia throughout its history had swung on the coattail's of John Bull's foreign policy and no one expected different.

No Coattail Hanger

"Bert," though, didn't like hanging on the coattails. He demanded and got men and materials for General MacArthur during the war. He engineered the Pacific war council in Washington so that Australia and New Zealand would get a word in on Pacific war operations. Then he went to San Francisco to speak out for Australia and the little nations.

Between international confabs, Attorney General Evatt argues cases before Australia's supreme court and Practical Politician Evatt keeps in close touch with his constituents. As an intellectual, "Bert" is viewed with suspicion by some of the party leaders, but so effective is he as a vote getter and problem solver that only last year he was upped to deputy prime minister. Most Aussies think "Bert's a beaut."

"Doc" Evatt has never lost his love for sports. In Australia he's a rabid cricket fan; in America, he's a red-hot baseball rooter. When the United Nations was considering the possibility of establishing permanent headquarters in Philadelphia, "Bert" objected violently.

"What!" he exclaimed, "put the U. N. in a city with both ball clubs in the cellar!"

Withdrawal Move Revived In Germany

Berlin, Sept. 21 (AP).—The Russians revived today their campaign for withdrawal of all occupation forces from Germany.

The Soviet-inspired press used Russia's announced intention of withdrawing her occupation forces from northern Korea as a springboard for the latest campaign.

The Russians have announced they planned to move their troops out of Korea by some time in October. The Soviet-licensed press pointed to this, and said Russia also wants to take her armed forces out of Germany, but the United States won't go along.

"Colonies and Bases"

The reason, the papers said, is because America wants to convert her occupation zones into "colonies and armed bases for attack against the Soviet Union." The Berlin radio said the Russians wanted to move out of Germany one year after a peace treaty is signed.

The Soviet press whooped up the drive on the front page despite the fact it already has had an answer from Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor.

Clay recently told a news conference the Germans have a great fear of Communist domination and would be very disturbed at withdrawal of American forces.

"I don't know what the hell we came here for in the first place if we are going to get out now," he said.

The western-licensed press said Communist-trained captured German soldiers are being filtered into police forces in the German zone as armed groups to become shock troops in an eventual push for power.

Max Reinmann, Communist chief in west Germany, told a mass meeting in the Ruhr "the time is at hand for a final showdown between capital and the working masses and there will be no possibility of avoiding it."

U. S. Protests Arrest of 2 By Hungary

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—U. S. Minister Selden Chapin has protested to the Hungarian Foreign Ministry against the arrest last Saturday of two American oil men on charges of industrial sabotage, reliable sources said today.

(In Washington, State Department Press Officer Michael J. Mc-Dermott said "the Government of the United States takes a serious view of the action by the Hungarian government, and will follow very closely developments in the case.")

Held by political police

The two Americans, Karl Ruedemann, Hartsdale, N. Y., and George Bannentine, St. Louis, president and vice president respectively of the Hungarian-American Oil Co., were arrested along with four Hungarians on charges that their company increased production for the Nazis and deliberately decreased it after the liberation.

The company is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

Czechs Move To Deport 2800 Slavs

Prague, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Two years of friendly cooperation between Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia ended in bitterness today as this country prepared to deport 2800 young Yugoslavs.

They are industrial apprentices who came here in response to a Czechoslovak offer to train workers to help rebuild Yugoslavia.

The mass deportation ended two weeks of strikes, riots and arrests touched off by the Communist Information Bureau's "excommunication" of Yugoslav Premier Marshal Tito.

Youths who support the Cominform against Tito will be allowed to stay, but both Czechs and Yugoslavs agree that there are "very few" in this category. Yugoslav sources estimated that about 50 would remain.

Apparently Czech Communists urged the apprentices to sign a statement supporting the Cominform against Tito. The Yugoslavs refused.

Czechoslovakia, apparently believing the apprentices acted under pressure from their embassy here, isolated them from diplomatic officials.

The apprentices reacted with stubborn resistance and occasional violence.

Sydney, Sept. 21 (AP).—The Australian government lifted price ceilings yesterday on about 30,000 items. Used cars sold up 20 per cent, and land prices doubled.

U. S. Indorses Bernadotte's Palestine Plan

Paris, Sept. 21 (AP).—The United States backed completely today the late Count Folke Bernadotte's plan for a forced Palestine settlement.

The United States action, the first step taken by a big power, was announced by Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

His statement dominated the opening session of the third regular United Nations Assembly, and aroused immediate opposition from the Arabs, who said they would reopen the whole Palestine situation in the Assembly.

Marshall paid tribute to Bernadotte as a martyr, said he gave his life to bring peace to Palestine, and declared his proposals constituted a sound basis for settlement.

Tributes to Mediator

Delegates and French leaders paid honor to Bernadotte in a brief ceremony at Orly airport.

Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the U. N., also paid tribute to the mediator, and the delegates stood one minute in silence.

Bernadotte's final report recognized the existence of Israel as a state, said its boundaries must be fixed by the U. N. if the Jews and Arabs could not agree on them, and declared peace must be imposed in Palestine by any possible means. It recommended revisions of boundaries set forth in the original partition plan.

Marshall's statement said:

"The United States considers that the conclusions contained in the final report of Count Bernadotte offer a generally fair basis for settlement of the Palestine question.

"My government is of the opinion that the conclusions are sound and strongly urges the parties and the General Assembly to accept them in their entirety as the best possible basis for bringing peace to a distracted land.

Settlement Urged

"No plan could be proposed which would be entirely satisfactory in all respects to every interested party. The United Nations has endeavored to achieve a solution by peaceful adjustment and entrusted the task to its mediator, Count Bernadotte.

"He energetically, courageously and with a spirit of complete fairness, we feel, canvassed all the possibilities and proposed as his last contribution towards a world peace a sound basis for settlement. He gave his life to this effort.

"The complexities of the problem and the violent emotions which have been engendered are such that the details of any plan could be debated endlessly. As a matter of fact, the debate on this question has been carried on for years in almost every kind of public forum.

"It is our sincere hope that the parties concerned will realize that their best interests and the interests of the world community will be served by accepting in a spirit of fair compromise the judgment of Count Bernadotte."

[In London a British Foreign Office spokesman implied that Britain was likely to support Bernadotte's proposals, the United Press stated. He said the government was giving "close and sympathetic" consideration to them.]

Gang Leader Sought in Israel

command under Colonel Moshe Dayan.

The government's 24-hour ultimatum which expired at noon today threatened that the Israeli army would act with all the means at its disposal. The Irgun answer this morning, read in part: "We are not prepared to shed the blood of Haganah soldiers whose lives the government of Israel is so lightly prepared to throw away. Members of Irgun will be told to join the Haganah army."

Saved by Compliance

The Irgunists' grudging but quick compliance probably saved them from being tagged an outlaw organization under the emergency decree. The Stern Gang blamed for the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator, was so designated yesterday and military police took full advantage of the decree today in Tel Aviv.

Raiding squads broke into the offices of "Mivrak," the Sternist daily, seized several workers in the office and even apprehended one man paying a bill. The newspaper was closed.

The number of arrests in the four-day drive was estimated at near 400.

Bernadotte's Body Returned to Sweden

Stockholm, Sept. 21 (NYHT).—The body of Count Bernadotte was returned to his native home today from Palestine.

Strategy Agreed In Case of War

To Lose Guard

Government Denounces De Gaulle

Paris, Sept. 21 (NYHT).—Premier Henri Queuille's government, denouncing Charles de Gaulle in the strongest terms in the National Assembly, warned tonight the state was withdrawing his special police bodyguard.

The Queuille coalition also called for dissolution of a "special police within the Gaullist R.P.F. (Rally of the French People) movement." Jules Moch, Socialist Minister of Interior, said the Gaullist force included 15,000 men. He added it constituted "a private and motorized police which is inadmissible in a democracy.

Moch made it clear he considered the general and his followers a threat to national order.

Cost to State Cited

Moch declared De Gaulle's campaigns in 1948 had cost the state 10,873,000 francs ($36,000) for police protection as "the first hero of the French liberation."

[The French army is giving De Gaulle transportation and gasoline, Moch said, according to the Associated Press. Moch stated the army is furnishing De Gaulle with 750 gallons of gasoline a month and 12 cars and 8 motorcycles as a gesture to a hero begun in October, 1947, when he "still was considered a private citizen and not a politician."]

Moch's announcement was made with the government seemingly in a nervous and weakened situation. Warning strikes of short duration are exploding throughout the nation in protest against the Queuille financial program, which increases taxes but makes no wage adjustments. There is also indecision among the government parties about the advisability of holding elections.

Unions tonight called a two-hour general strike of five million workers for Friday and ordered a day-long "demonstration" October 5.

Thousands quit their jobs during the day. Some Paris suburban trains did not run between 5 and 9 o'clock this morning.

The United States armed forces have a sheaf of strategic plans which tell each service how it will fight if war should come, it was disclosed indirectly yesterday.

The Military Establishment let it be known the Joint Chiefs of Staff have completed and filed with the Munitions Board a listing of the materials needed for a sudden "mobilization day."

Preparation of this list would have been impossible if the hitherto rival armed forces—Army, Navy, Air and Marines—had not finally agreed on the precise mission of each service in war, and what materials would be needed for those missions. This involves allocation of such commodities as steel, weapons such as aircraft, and industrial manpower.

It took an act of Congress, a presidential order and a year of argument, including the military meetings at Key West and Newport, to produce the definite strategic plans.

The major argument over roles in war was between the Navy and Air Forces and revolved around two primary points:

(a) How much strategic bombing of industrial cities should the Navy engage in (the Air Force having the major responsibility); (b) To what extent should the Air Force engage in antisubmarine warfare. There were a variety of other questions, including the size and mission of the Marine Corps.

Navy Planning Big Air Base In Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 21 (AP).—The Navy today disclosed plans for turning this area into a major fleet air base for the Nation's largest carriers.

"The shifting of strategic importance from the Pacific to the Atlantic has made imperative the establishment of such a base," said Vice Admiral John D. Price.

The Navy expects to set up two carrier air groups—about 135 planes each—here by December, he disclosed. These carrier forces later are to be doubled, with berthing facilities for two carriers of the giant Midway class.

In addition the projected base would accommodate six patrol squadrons, two utility squadrons, plus assembly, repair and overhaul facilities.

More than 13,000 civilian and military personnel would be employed.

100 Warships To Be Refitted

London, Sept. 21 (AP).—Britain has speeded up its rearmament program with a decision to refit 100 warships which will be ready for action by next April—sooner if necessary.

This latest defense measure was already preceded by orders to keep conscripts three months overtime in the army and double the production of speedy jet fighter planes.

The Communist Daily Worker commented: "The Communists will fight the rearmament program because they stand for peace and because this program can be carried through only at the expense of wages, reconstruction, housing and social services."

An Admiralty spokesman indicated there would be no carriers among the refitted warships.

Moving In On Tsinian

Shanghai, China, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—President Chiang Kai-shek's government suffered serious military and economic setbacks today.

Chinese Communists appeared to be winning the six-day battle for Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, while on the home front the populace showed lack of confidence in the new gold yuan and went on a wild buying spree.

Radio communications with Tsinan were broken off abruptly and the city's fate was unknown. Last government reports said the Communists had occupied virtually all the heights outside Tsinan.

The fall of Tsinan would cut off Peiping and Tientsin from Shanghai and the capital, Nanking.

Java Rejects Dutch Aid in War on Reds

Batavia, Java, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Republican Premier Mohammed Hatta today rejected all offers of Dutch military aid in putting down the Communist rebellion and ordered Col. Sung Kono, commander of east Java, to march on Madiun, seized by the Reds Saturday.

The offer of the Dutch cooperation came from the Netherlands Foreign Minister Dr. D. U. Stikker, now in Washington, D. C., conferring on Communist activity in southeast Asia.

Kono was appointed to the east Java command only 24 hours after the bloodless Communist coup at Madiun, industrial city on the east-west Java railway. Republican sources said the Communists hold only the city itself.

The size of the Communist force in Madiun was estimated at 3000 by Republican sources and 15,000 by prorebel sources.

First inkling of Communist agitation on the island of Sumatra came early this morning from the Republican radio at Bukittinggi. The briadcast said Republican miltary authorities had directed large-scale arrests in three west coast cities to prevent any recurrence of the Madiun coup.

The broadcast said at least 14 high military and civil officials were held and "only a few military personnel" were killed.

In Jogjakarta, the military commander has imposed censorship under martial law.

Dutch military sources said Indonesians have been infiltrating Dutch ocupied areas of east Java "in increasing numbers" in the past few days.

2 New Yorkers Named to Head ECA Missions

James G. Blaine, New York banker, and Russell H. Dorr, a New York attorney, last night were named to head special ECA missions in Europe.

Blaine was named chief of the group in Belgium while Dorr heads the mission to Turkey.

Blaine, on leave of absence from the presidency of the New York State Chamber of Commerce, expects to sail October 1.

Dorr, 41, has served since 1945 with the State Department as a United States delegate to the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency in Belgium.

The Gallup Poll

Greatest Fear of War Found In U. S., Canada and Italy

By George Gallup
Director American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 21.—Polling organizations in nine nations, affiliates of the World Gallup Polls, put the question of war within 10 years to voters in each country and found that there is greatest fear in Italy, the United States and Canada.

However, in the United States less than one third think we will be involved in war within the next year.

"Do you think there will be another big war within the next 10 years?"

Here are the views of the people in the nine countries:

	Will Be War	Will Not	No Opin.
Italy	58%	26%	16%
UNITED STATES	57	26	17
Canada	56	25	19
Norway	53	27	20
Holland	52	34	14
Denmark	46	22	32
Sweden	36	53	11
England	35	36	29
Finland	28	42	30

The way the people in various countries view the international situation so far as war is concerned will determine how they will vote on issues of national defense, on foreign policy and may determine what kind of leaders they will elect to represent them.

In the United States the poll put to voters in a separate but comparable cross-section a question concerning war in the immediate future, as follows:

"Do you think the United States will find itself in another war within, say, the next year?

UNITED STATES

Yes	32%
No	54
No opinion	14

Those who voted yes were asked: "Who do you think will be responsible for starting the war?" The vote:

Russia	24%
U. S. A.	3
Other	4
Don't know	3
	34*

(*Adds to more than 32% because some respondents gave more than one answer).

Hyderabad Grip Tightened

Hyderabad, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. J. N. Chaudhuri, Indian military governor of Hyderabad, today ordered the princely state's agents abroad to "cease activities immediately."

He issued the order after the Nizam of Hyderabad last night signed a brief proclamation formally relinquishing control of the state which his family ruled for more than 200 years.

The order affected Hyderabad representatives in Paris who were awaiting the Nizam's orders regarding a protest to the United Nations against India's invasion of Hyderabad.

Four daily newspapers in Hyderabad were banned and 12 others were warned not to publish items "calculated to disturb peace and order."

Gen. White Returning

Tokyo, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. Thomas D. White has given up command of the Fifth U. S. Air Force to return to Washington, D. C., for duty. Far East Air Force announced today. White will be succeeded here by Maj. Gen. Earle S. Partridge.

Togliatti Back On Job in Italy

Rome, Sept. 21 (NYHT).—Palermo Togliatti resumed his active role as secretary general of the Italian Communist Party here today as new difficulties brewed on the Italian labor front.

The Communist-led campaign for wage rises for the 1,100,000 employes of the Italian government was intensified with the announcement today that mass meetings will be held in all Italian cities Wednesday. The meetings were called to back the demands of the Communist-run Italian Confederation of Labor (the CGIL).

Togliatti attended a meeting of the 17-man executive committee of the Communist Party today. It was his first appearance since he was shot and seriously wounded by a young Sicilian on July 14.

Togliatti is reported to have been welcomed by his Communist associates "in an atmosphere of joy and emotion."

Bank to Study Loan Plan

By The Associated Press

A Polish proposal to restrict World Bank loans to its members will be taken up at the third annual meeting of the 47 member bank governors opening here today.

Poland advanced the proposal a year ago when there was talk of setting up an arrangement for a loan to boost coal production in the Ruhr district of western Germany.

Since then there has been such a change in Germany's situation that the idea of a Ruhr authority loan has long been inactve, bank officials said.

The Polish proposal, if successful, would bar a loan to Russia, among other nonmember nations, although there has been no indication Russia either wants or could get such a loan.

High United States officials also said this country supports the International Monetary Fund's view that a general rapid devaluation of inflated currencies is out of the question.

They also said the United States will vigorously oppose any move that may develop to increase the price of gold from the present rate of $35 an ounce.

The Fund, with United States backing, is warring against premium prices for gold. The only exceptions it will consider are cases where a government pays a subsidy as a "wage adjustment" for gold miners. But the subsidy must not be in the nature of a bonus for gold production.

The Bank and Monetary Fund meetings are expected to run from next Monday through Friday, attracting a number of finance heads of government throughout the world.

British 'Red Dean' Again Seeks Entry

London, Sept. 21 (U.P.)—The Very Rev. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, "Red Dean" of Canterbury, got a new set of American sponsors today and accepted their invitation to visit the United States.

Johnson was denied a visa recently because his host in the United States was to be the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship, an organization listed as "subversive" by United States Attorney-General Tom Clark.

Today a group of 93 prominent churchmen, educators and others, headed by Harvard Professor Ralph Barton Perry, offered to sponsor Johnson's speaking tour in the United States.

Johnson said he would apply "at once" for a visa and hoped to leave early in November.

A United States State Department spokesman in Washington indicated Johnson would be granted a visa this time.

Johnson said at the Communist Daily Worker, where he is an editorial consultant, that he would warn the American people 300 million eastern Europeans would be arrayed against them in case of war.

Just back from behind the iron curtain, Johnson said: "that tour convinced me that Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Poland and Yugoslavia will all fight with Soviet Russia against the west if war comes.

War will come, he predicted, if the western "capitalist" nations continue in their determination to rebuild Germany, he added:

"Because of the vast spaces, the people who think the atom bomb would end it quickly are quite mistaken.

"I believe we should keep on talking with the Russians, for that is the way to avoid war. I don't think Russia wants war."

Greek Reds Destroy Aid Installations

Athens, Sept. 21 (AP).—Communist-led guerrillas attacked an American contractors' installation near Larisa Sunday night, abducted 50 Greek laborers and caused damage estimated at $100,000.

One laborer was killed by the band of 200 attackers who ripped down an American flag, destroyed three office buildings, an asphalt mixing plant, several fuel dumps, a hospital and 16 vehicles.

Larisa is 135 miles north of Athens.

The installation was a joint venture undertaken by three American companies, Guy F. Atkinson Co., San Francisco; Johnson, Drake and Piper, Minneapolis; Starr, Park and Freeman, New York for road reconstruction.

On the military front a Greek communique said Communist-led guerillas launched a surprise attack in the Vitsi sector Sunday night but met with a major defeat. The communique said 294 guerillas were killed and 59 were captured.

Trial Urged For 3 as Spies

nuclear physicist on the faculty of the University of Minnesota.

Weinberg was employed part-time on the atomic project for 10 months during the war, working in the radiation laboratory at the University of California at Berkeley.

McDowell said he answered all questions fully and has been kept under subpena. Weinberg also told newsmen that he answered all questions put to him by the committee and that he got the impression it was just a "routine inquiry."

He told reporters he did not know Adams or Steve Nelson, Communist Party chairman in Western Pennsylvania, who worked as a party organizer on the West Coast during the war. Nelson appeared before the committee last week, but decined to answer questions on the ground of self-incrimination.

Knows Dr. Kamen

Weinberg told reporters he is acquainted with Dr. Martin D. Kamen, another wartime nuclear physicist recently questioned by the committee. Kamen was dismissed from the wartime atomic energy project for "indiscretions" involving cocktail and musical soiree conversations with Soviet consular officials on the West Coast.

Weinberg became acquainted with Kamen at Berkeley and regarded the latter as an important figure in the project, he said.

He said the committee told him it had found "nothing incriminating" in his background.

The committee also heard in executive session yesterday from Dr. Paul Massing, a sociology professor at Rutgers University, and from Mrs. Massing.

McDowell said Dr. Massing, a refugee from Germany, came to the United States with his wife in 1937 on a permanent immigrant permit.

Charles Clark of Cleveland, Ohio, now an attorney, but a wartime Army intelligence officer, was the last witness of the day. He was with the committee only a few minutes.

Commons Again Passes Bill to Cut Lords' Veto

London, Sept. 21 (AP).—The House of Commons tonight approved, again 323 to 195, a measure cutting the House of Lords' veto power from two years to one year.

Wednesday the House of Lords is expected to vote the measure down again. If so, the Commons may enact the legislation by passing it a third time.

If the veto power of the Lords is cut, Parliament can give quick approval to government measures nationalizing the country's iron and steel industry.

President to Speak In Raleigh October 19

Aboard Truman Campaign Train, Sept. 21 (AP).—President Truman has scheduled a speaking date on "The Farm Problem" at the North Carolina State Fair at Raleigh October 19.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross announced that Mr. Truman accepted by telegram an invitation in a series of wires. Previously he had accepted an invitation to make another speech in Raleigh the same day, at the dedication of a monument to the three North Carolina-born Presidents, Polk, Jackson and Johnson.

The President plans to address the American Legion convention in Miami, Fla., October 18. He is expected to keep both the Miami and Raleigh dates by plane.

Truman Gives Fiery Speech

drove from the station to the Utah Hotel.

He rode in an open Lincoln with Mr. Smith, the Mormon leader.

In his tabernacle speech, Mr. Truman dedicated himself to carrying out the power and reclamation program started by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1930's and then went after his GOP opposition in these words:

"This is the time of year, every four years, when there are a lot of guessing games going on—guessing where some people stand. You have to guess, because some people won't come out in the open and tell you where they really stand.

"Well, you don't have to do any guessing to know where the Democratic Party has stood for 16 years on public power and reclamation—and where it stands today. And you don't have to translate any double talk to know where I have always stood—and where I stand today.

"I stand, and the Democratic Party stands, for rapid and uninterrupted development of the land and forest and water and mineral resources of the West, in the interest of the people. I stand, and the Democratic Party stands, for building a strong Western economy based on full use of our natural resources and healthy development of industry. I stand for the rights of the people.

"But where does the Republican Party stand? Where do its candidates stand?

"The record is clear for all to see."

Gifts for President

On his way to Salt Lake, rolling across mountains and valleys under a dazzling sun, President Truman was greeted at every stop by large and friendly crowds.

Gifts of peaches, celery and other products of the county were brought to his train. In the town of Helper, Utah, he was presented with a black miner's helmet.

The donor was Frank Fox, one of John L. Lewis' lieutenants, who is vice president of District 22 of the United Mine Workers of America. Fox said he was all out for Mr. Truman for a full, four-year term, and promised that the helmet would protect him from "hard knocks."

Political reporters here said that, while Utah had gone Democratic in the last four national elections, there was a strong Republican trend in the State now and that Mr. Truman might lose its four electoral votes in November.

The naming of Gov. Earl Warren of California as Governor Dewey's running mate helped the GOP cause a lot in Utah.

Warren, it was pointed out, has come out for pretty much the same power and reclamation program that the President advocated.

In his speech in Salt Lake City tonight, Mr. Truman excoriated the Eightieth Congress for its treatment of the West.

"The Republican Party has shown in the Congress of the past two years," he said, "that the leopard does not change its spots. It is still the party of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. It is still the party that gave you the phony Coolidge boom and the Hoover depression.

"It is still the party whose money at election time comes from Wall Street. It is still the party which passes bills at the dictation of the lobbies, and sacrifices the interests of the people to the profits of big business."

After describing the Democratic Party as the party of the people, he said, it was trying to prevent the "gluttons of privilege" from "swallowing up the country."

"We are fighting the battle of the West," he said. "Because it is the battle of all the country."

He said that selfish men have always "tried to skim the cream from our natural resources to satisfy their own greed." And their instrument in this effort, he said, has always been the Republican Party.

Reclamation Plea

He recalled that in 1947 he asked Congress to appropriate 160 million dollars to continue the work of reclamation, but that the House Appropriations Committee sliced nearly 90 million dollars off his request.

So great was the storm of protests that arose in the West, Mr. Truman said, that Representative John Taber of New York, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, exclaimed:

"The West is squealing like a stuck pig."

Mr. Truman said that this summed up the Republican attitude toward the West.

"The Republicans are ready to lead you to the slaughter," he said, "and they resent it if you protest."

He said that public pressure from the West forced Congress to appropriate 104 million dollars for reclamation but pointed out that this was still 50 million dollars short of the amount needed to keep the work going.

"While the Republican Eightieth Congress was considering this appropriation," the President continued, "highly paid lobbyists of the power interests poured into Washington. The influence of these agents of big business was plainly marked in the bill that was passed by Congress."

Traveling through Colorado today en route to Salt Lake City, Mr. Truman took a crack at the Republicans who head the Senate and House Appropriations Committees.

"What do they know about the West?" he asked.

He was referring to Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and Taber.

"I don't think either one of them has set foot west of the Appalachian mountains," Mr. Truman said. "The chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the Senate may, sometime or other on some Senate jaunt, have been out here, but he didn't know what he was looking at when he saw it."

The Chief Executive was talking to a crowd of 8000 at Grand Junction, Colo., this morning. The 17-car special stopped off there on the way over the Royal Gorge route through the Rockies.

'No Republican Program'

Here, as elsewhere, he chided the voters for staying home in 1946 and thus making it possible for the Republicans to gain control of Congress.

"The Republicans haven't any program," he said. "They're still crying the same thing they cried in 1946 that there ought to be a change.

"Well, you got a change in 1946, and look what you got. You got your reclamation projects cut down. You got your power projects, in most instances, wiped out. Every appropriation that affects the West was slashed with malice aforethought by the people who were in charge of those Appropriation Committees in the Senate and House."

Talks of Grandfather

Mr. Truman, outlining his own background, told how his grandfather used to run a wagon train from Westport, now a part of Kansas City, Mo., to Salt Lake City and Denver and San Francisco. That was between 1840 and 1860. He recalled stories that his grandfather used to tell him.

"It was a long time ago, you know, before the people east of the Mississippi River could understand that the people out here didn't wear horns and tails," the President said, amidst laughter. "Some of them still think that.

"But you didn't have to bring 'em back, Ethelridge! . . . They're those new 'One-Way' Glass Beer and Ale Bottles—No Deposit—No Return!"
Yes, here's the biggest news since beer was bottled! With new "ONE-WAY" glass bottles, you pay no deposit and you don't have to bring them back! Eightieth Congress Record Warmly Defended by Dewey

Governor Dewey was trying to bump off Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D.), who locally is conceded the edge over William F. Nicholson, the little-known GOP nominee.

His formula was the same as that followed in Illinois and Iowa where Republican Senate prospects are brighter. Nicholson was hoisted aboard at Julesburg, Colo., and was given a flattering personal plug at each stop.

Dewey made a slight slip in Julesburg. "It's good to be in Denver," he told Julesburg's 2000 natives.

In Colorado Governor Dewey ran into the old and bitter seven-State controversy over division of Colorado River waters. He came out foursquare for the seven-State compact dividing the water between the upper and lower basins. And he held a special press conference aboard his train to clear up subsidiary points.

He said he will leave the quarrel between California and Arizona lower basin water "to the experts." He promised to appoint a Western Secretary of the Interior who "has no prejudices" in the dispute, but he said he hasn't picked him yet. And he pledged he will never sign any bill to deprive upper basin States of one drop of water under the compact. Colorado is in the upper basin.

Before some 8000 persons in Sterling, Colo., he toughened his recent tempered criticism of past foreign policy performance. He had said it "wobbled" from one side to another.

"For years we have seemed from one side to be a compromising, weak, lily-livered people," he said. "I want to strengthen our foreign policy so we will have friends everywhere."

Dewey later told reporters that "straight line" course he proposes will differ "to some extent" from that followed in the past two years. He will develop just how it will differ in forthcoming speeches, he said.

In battling for the Republican Congress reclamation record both in Denver tonight and at all stops in Colorado, he in effect promised to do more for the West in a money way than the Democrats had or would.

Only last night in Denver President Truman promised "great new developments for the West" if the voters elect Democrats instead of "puppets of big business."

Governor Dewey didn't exactly outbid him. But he said the record would show that Democrats are "talking through their hats" in charging that Congress was "stingy."

Dewey said the last Democratic Congress appropriated 247 million dollars for the Bureau of Reclamation, more than any other Democratic Congress had in 14 years. But he said the last Republican Congress topped this by voting 389 million dollars, a 50 per cent increase—the highest figure in our history.

"I guess that settled that argument," he said.

He quoted similar figures on the Colorado Transmountain Big Thompson project. The Eightieth Congress voted 37 million dollars for Big Thompson, he said, compared with 13 million dollars provided by its Democratic forerunner.

A reporter asked Dewey if the original Democratic appropriation hadn't contemplated much larger outlays by the last Congress.

"You can never stop Democrats from dreaming up charges," Dewey said.

He told tonight's Denver rally and the thousands who heard him en route, that we have only begun to harness our water resources, that "the mighty rivers of the West should be developed with a view to the widest possible use for conservation, power navigation, flood control and irrigation."

Dewey said he wanted to stop the quarreling and do the conservation job, insisting only that no little superman from Washington be put in centralized control. He said he will insist people in the areas affected share fully in all planning, construction, and operation of projects.

At a press conference he was more explicit. In areas such as the Missouri Valley, the Columbia River Basin, he said the power reclamation, irrigation and other projects should be developed under guidance of a group representing the responsible agencies in Washington, with equal representation for the people of the area whose existence is vitally affected.

He said TVA is unchangeable and will be left as it is, adding "the principle is entirely sound except that I want local representation on the project." Incidentally, he reiterated his support of the proposed TVA steam generating plant at New Johnsonville, Tenn., rejected by the last Congress. At every stop he pounded home his Des Moines opening theme, national unity in a nervous world.

Trim, quiet Mrs. Dewey was presented by her husband and got a hand from every crowd.

At Fort Morgan, Colo., Governor Dewey was greeted by 3000 people and a band. At Greeley, Colo., he stepped off the rear platform to address a cheerfn, crowd of 10,000 from a flag-draped platform erected beside the track.

Work With Congress

Here he promised an Administration that "will work with Congress and not spend its time abusing the elected representatives of the United States."

He said he will bring to Washington a team that will work with each other without quarreling and "if there's anybody who doesn't want to play on the team he can get off."

An airplane with a loudspeaker flew low over the crowd and Dewey cracked that "no friend of mine" sent it up. Six miles up the track he stopped again at La Salle, Colo., to ad lib a brief greeting to 200 gathered there.

About 4000 people at Lupton, Colo., and some 3000 at Brighton Depot also received a short version of his Denver speech, and cheered his train on its way.

Drop Farm Issue, Warren Proposes

St. Louis, Sept. 21 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren tonight called for removal of agriculture as a political campaign issue.

Coming to the heart of the Midwest farming belt, the Republican vice presidential candidate upset time-honored political practice by declaring agricultural problems vital to the Nation should be handled by "both political parties working together."

Also, he declared, the Republicans are not the "pitchfork conspirators" which the Democratic leadership has painted them. The address was a direct reply to President Truman's speech in Dexter, Iowa, where Mr. Truman said "Wall Street reactionaries" and "Republican gluttons of privilege" were ready to "let the bottom drop out of farm prices."

Warren said:

"Agriculture isn't a political issue. It's a vital element in our national life calling for consideration without partisanship.

"We can do it with both political parties working together. We can encourage and assist in every practical American way those who produce the Nation's food."

Warren

Alluding to the Truman speech, Warren said he was "shocked . . . to find that the President of the United States had said the Republican Party had stuck a pitchfork in the farmer's back."

It was, he said, "an absurd and bitter statement, tossed off with a reckless disregard for the political realities of the Nation."

Then, citing "the record" of Republicans on agriculture, Warren listed these points:

Soil conservation—The platform promises, "in words that anyone can understand," to continue and extend the soil conservation program. Also, the House Committee on Agriculture, "under a Republican chairman," is preparing legislation to revise the law and strengthen the administrative setup.

Flood control—The Republican Congress in the last two years has appropriated 711 million dollars for flood control—"almost twice as much as was appropriated for flood control by any other Congress in our history."

Rural electrification: "The present Republican Congress has provided appropriations of 800 million dollars for rural electrification. That is a quarter billion dollars more than was appropriated for the purpose by any previous Congress in history."

Farm cooperatives: "The biggest cooperative is in my State, California, and the second biggest is in New York, and Tom Dewey is a member of it. Do we want to pitchfork the cooperative—and if so, can anybody tell me why?"

Farm support prices: "Doesn't the record show the Republicans have voted repeatedly to give support to those prices and protect the Nation from farm price collapses like those of 1920, 1933? Doesn't the Republican platform pledge us to continue that support?"

Get-Out-Vote Clubs Urged By 2 Parties

Both Republicans and Democrats are urging groups of "approximately 20 members each" to organize in get-out-the-vote clubs.

The Republicans suggest the clubs be named the Dewey-Warren Clubs; the Democrats recommend Truman-Barkley.

The National Dewey-Warren clubs are headed by Victor A. Johnston, administrative assistant to Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) The National Truman-Barkley Clubs are headed by Gov. Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma.

Both have sent out full instructions. "Elect a chairman," says the GOP folder, "a vice chairman and a secretary. Talk over the special qualifications of each member for special duties (i. e., someone engaged in newspaper work or public relations would be well qualified to handle local publicity and advertising.)"

The Republican group also is urged to sponsor four other Dewey-Warren clubs (like a chain letter) "activate a speakers bureau, call on your neighbors and tell them why you're for Dewey for President, and appoint someone to handle publicity."

Philadelphia Speech

Philadelphia, Sept. 21 (AP).—The Evening Bulletin said today President Truman may open his Eastern campaign October 6 with a major address at Philadelphia's Shibe Park.

Barkley Lauds Farm Record Of Democrats

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 21 (AP).—Senator Alben W. Barkley, Democratic vice presidential nominee, opened a Nation-wide speaking tour today with three Delaware speeches in which he stressed the Democratic farm record.

Despite bad weather which drove him indoors at his first speech in Georgetown, the 70-year-old party "wheelhorse" was greeted by large crowds in this Republican agricultural State.

"It has been the Democratic Party that has initiated practically all the legislation in the history of the United States for the benefit of farmers and agriculture," Barkley told an estimated 400 cheering listeners at Georgetown in the heart of Delaware's poultry section.

Statistics show, he said, that farm income in Sussex County increased from four million dollars in 1932 to 85 million dollars last year, making it the third wealthiest agricultural county east of the Mississippi River.

"I don't give all the credit to Democrats," he said, "but it certainly wasn't due to the Republicans."

Democratic administrations, he said, started major farm programs such as rural electrification and soil conservation and kept them alive despite Republican apathy.

Recalling Governor Dewey's promise to maintain price supports for agriculture Barkley said: "Well, isn't that wonderful, but who started that? We are glad to welcome the new candidate for President on the Republican ticket into the Democratic Party."

Ex-Governor Earle Joins Dewey Camp

George H. Earle, former Democratic Governor of Pennsylvania, yesterday came out for the election of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, GOP candidate for President.

Earle, in a statement issued through the Republican National Campaign Headquarters, said the election of Dewey is "our best chance for peace."

He called on all Democrats who "place the very survival of their country before party loyalty" to support the New Yorker.

Earle held several diplomatic posts during the Administration of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Va. Democrats May Duck Truman Issue

Virginia's Democratic leaders were preparing yesterday to sidestep outright indorsement of President Truman, but were consolidating to fight for all other party candidates.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 21 (AP).—The State Democratic Central Committee at its meeting here Saturday is expected to consider a resolution avoiding mention of the presidential situation but urging a determined fight in behalf of all other Democratic candidates, a party leader said today.

The spokesman, who declined to be quoted, predicted the State committee would adopt such a resolution, similar to one adopted recently by the second district committee. The district group resolved to campaign for Senate and House candidates of the party but said nothing of the presidential race.

Augusta Would Leave Choice to Voters

Staunton, Va., Sept. 21 (AP).—The Augusta County Democratic Committee last night passed a resolution designed to return harmony to a Virginia Democratic Party split apart by national loyalties and States rights sympathies.

The 18 committee members unanimously accepted a resolution which "recommends that the State Democratic Central Committee recognize as loyal Democrats, all Democrats who support Hon. Burr Harrison for Congress, Senator A. Willis Robertson for the United States Senate, and vote for electors pledged either to President Truman or Governor Thurmond."

W. Va. Ballot Investigators Alerted Anew

Senate investigators of 1946 election fraud charges in West Virginia are being asked to keep an eye on the 1948 election, Senator Jenner (R., Ind.) said yesterday.

The investigators are gathering data now in the election contest brought against Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.) by Thomas Sweeney, Republican. The official count showed Kilgore winner by 3534 votes.

Jenner, chairman of the Senate investigating committee, said investigators have been alerted "for any indication of a possible duplication of these conditions in the 1948 senatorial election."

Assembly May Put Truman On La. Ballot

By The Associated Press

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 21 (AP).—Gov. Earl K. Long tonight summoned the Louisiana Legislature to a special session Wednesday, considered certain to include action towards restoring President Truman's name to the State's presidential ballot.

Russell Long Predicts Action by Assembly

Russell Long, Democratic nominee for Senator from Louisiana, said here yesterday he expects a special session of the State Legislature to be called to place the names of President Truman and Senator Barkley (D., Ky.), the Democratic vice presidential nominee, on the Louisiana ballot.

The State Democratic Central Committee recently voted to put the States Rights presidential slate on the Louisiana ballot in place of the Truman-Barkley ticket.

Long refused to say which of the two tickets he would support.

"My impression is that most of the people in my State prefer the States Rights candidate (Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina)," he added.

"I don't consider myself another Huey Long," he told reporters. Asked whether he advocated his father's "every man a king" program, he replied that he did. He explained he means every family should be able to own a home and be assured of a good income.

Asked if he would use the filibusters and other sensational methods of his father, Long replied: "I'm talkative but I've never filibustered."

"I don't think I'll get myself into as many fights as my father did but I'll get myself out of them as well as he did," he added.

Long said he was anxious to cooperate "with the Administration" even if it should be Republican.

Home Owners At New High In America

Despite the clamor over housing, more American families own their own homes now than ever in history, a Federal Reserve Board survey showed yesterday.

About 49 per cent of non-farm families owned their homes at the beginning of this year. That meant 18,500,000 city and town families all together.

The survey did not take up farm families, where the proportion traditionally has been much higher than among city dwellers.

The total included those still paying on their homes. There was no data on how many have debt-free homes.

About 45 per cent of non-farm families—approximately 17 million—were renting. The remainder—about two million—were living rent-free with somebody else.

"The acute shortage of rental units has no doubt forced many families to buy homes, often at inflated prices and somewhat beyond their means, simply in order to obtain shelter," the report said.

The median rent paid by non-farm families was approximately $30 a month. Median means "middle." That is, the number of families paying more than $30 equaled the number paying less than $30.

Confederate Flag Hauled Down in Md.

Baltimore, Sept. 21 (AP).—Maryland States Rights Democrats have hauled down the Confederate flag from in front of their State headquarters.

Maryland Chairman E. Steuart Vaughan explained: "We decided this, after all, was a national movement."

The stars and bars of the Confederacy were originally displayed, he added, to "signify unity of the South . . . we took them down to show unity of the entire country."

Mrs. Carnegie Estate Valued At $20 Million

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—The widow of Andrew Carnegie, Scottish-born philanthropist and steel maker, left a $19,098,104 net estate before taxes, an estate tax appraisal disclosed today.

The appraisal indicated the gross estate of Mrs. Louise Whitfield Carnegie, who died June 24, 1946, amounted to $20,620,241.

Federal and State taxes, it was estimated, would aggregate more than $11,600,000 with the United States tax to amount to $8,990,893.

A total of $2,515,000 is distributed in public bequests.

Bulk of the estate includes 300 items of stocks and bonds totaling $16,817,003. Mrs. Carnegie also owned Manhattan real estate valued at $2,230,000.

The principal personal beneficiary is a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Carnegie Miller of Millbrook, N. Y.

Mrs. Carnegie divided one million dollars equally among four grandchildren and left $250,000 to her brother, Henry Davis Whitfield of Middleburg, Va.

AFL Chief Predicts Democratic Senate

AFL President William Green said yesterday the Democrats will win control of the Senate next year. Minnesota Republicans promptly disputed one of his key arguments.

He said there was "no doubt" that Republican Senators Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota and Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia, would be defeated. Democrats need to gain four seats to recapture control of the Senate.

Gov. Rennebohm Takes Lead In GOP Wisconsin Primary

Milwaukee, Sept. 21 (AP).—Gov. Oscar Rennebohm took a lead over Ralph M. Immell in the Republican gubernatorial nomination race tonight on the basis of early returns.

The vote in 692 of the State's 3140 precincts was Rennebohm 32,512, Immell 23,117.

Carl W. Thompson held a slim lead over William D. Carroll for the Democratic nomination for Governor in returns from 684 precincts. Thompson had 4308 votes to 3335 for Carroll.

Henry J. Berquist, the People's Progressive Party candidate for Governor, was getting little attention from the voters. In 541 precincts he had polled only 506 votes. Berquist, running on Henry Wallace's ticket, had no opposition.

Jewish Congress Protests Ruling on Saturday Work

Philadelphia, Sept. 21 (AP).—The American Jewish congress today asked Pennsylvania's Superior Court to reverse a State Unemployment Compensation Board decision denying benefits to a person who refused a job because it required her to work on Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath.

The Congress claimed the woman was within her constitutional rights in rejecting the job because it conflicted with her religious convictions.

"Observance of the Sabbath, whether it be Saturday or Sunday, is a basic tenet of religious freedom," it said.

On the Town

THE search for something new to bring new customers into movies, night clubs, hotels and restaurants has fed fuel to more zany ideas than anything else we can possibly imagine. Some time back the publicity man at the Colony Restaurant came up with the idea of keeping the customers' dogs in their own little kennels in the basement of the restaurant while their owners supped upstairs. Word spread around, and many a gal who just couldn't live without itsy bitsy "Fufu" trotted said "Fufu" into the restaurant. Soon some of them were even putting their dogs' names on the kennels, and requesting special meals for the dogs. Whether or not this is a sign of the times we don't know, but it has helped business.

Jack Corry

In fact, it's helped business to the extent where the management went out and hired a little former GI who spent some time in the Canine Corps for Uncle Sam. His name is Peter Hartes, who's from the Bronx. Pete has seen so many nice dogs trot in and out of the restaurant that he's decided he prefers them to people. A week or so ago one of our prominent society gals was putting her meat hound into his kennel when a fire extinguisher upset and started spraying madame, pooch, furniture and anything else that came before the twitching nozzle. An SOS scream brought one of the waiters, and he managed to defeat the fiendish snake of a modern invention. Madame went upstairs looking somewhat of a mess. From now on she'll let Pete do the putting away. Pete, by the way, still prefers dogs.

Now that the Casino Royal has kicked off the ball with a new fall chorus line, two other spots are following suit. Club Cairo opens tonight, under new management and policies, with the Wally Wanger girls. Artie Dann and Sonny Skylar will head the comedy routines. The Andrew Twins tap their way through the show. There'll be continuous music, too, and a two-buck minimum that won't fluctuate, as it did last year.

The other line coming into town is the Cecile Lindsay line. The girls will leg it into the Lotus tomorrow night to help inaugurate the new fall shows. Another addition at the Lotus is Jack Corry and his orchestra, who've replaced Al Sokol.

Still working under the heading of openings this week: Both the Blue and the Palladian Rooms at the Shoreham fall in line. The Blue Room opened Monday night. It's the room's nineteenth season. Barnee Breeskin has his mike back, the waiters don't have to keep folding raincoats in their pockets, and everyone seems happy. The Palladian shakes out the welcome mat tomorrow with Joel Shaw, late of the Monte Carlo and the Hotel Pierre's Cotillion Room. The spot, one of the most beautiful rooms in town in our opinion, was well liked last year.

Attention club owners: There's a lovely young lass, we saw her and have our right arm raised on this, looking around town for a place to exercise her lungs nitely. She's Lana Dorsey (no relation to Loving Lana or Tootling Tommy) and is fresh in, or almost anyway, from England, where she did the London spots. Veeerry easy on the eye.

If you care for a real whiskey treat . . . and you care about making ends meet
There are two schools of thought about Carstairs White Seal whiskey. One holds that it's better than nectar. The other says it's merely as good.
In any case, you don't need the key to Fort Knox to enjoy this fine whiskey. The Perfectly Balanced Blend is yours at a budget-balancing price.
You'll be care-ful to repeat:
"CARSTAIRS White Seal, Please!"

Blended with Care for Men who Care. That's why Carstairs is made to your taste. Rich-flavored yet light bodied. Mild yet authoritative. A smoother, mellower, finer-tasting drink. As a Man who Cares, ask for it by name at your favorite bar or package store today!

Miami Escapes Full Hurricane

for 4½ hours from 9:30 a. m. until 2 p. m. The storm velocity registered 120 miles per hour for more than one hour of the period. The eye of the hurricane passed 15 miles east of Key West.

In addition to damage to homes, hundreds of large trees were uprooted. City Manager Ralph Spalding said the work of cleaning up debris would be started at once.

The keys are tiny islands linked by long concrete bridges. They are inhabited by hundreds of persons, mostly in the pleasure fishing business.

The keys were hit by a disastrous hurricane Labor Day, 1935, in which some 500 persons were killed. The dead were mostly relief workers engaged in railroad work.

The storm, fourth of the season but the first to threaten Florida, spread over an area of 300 miles.

Hurricane warnings are now displayed from Daytona Beach-Fort Myers line southward and storm warnings north of Daytona Beach to Charleston and north of Fort Myers to Tarpon Springs.

Miami was swept by a driving rain during much of the day. Many business houses closed. Stores boarded up for the blow and the Red Cross sheltered more than 3000 persons.

At Havana, Cuba, authorities estimated at least 200 persons were injured when the hurricane roared across Cuba last night.

Four hundred buildings were blown over, most of them small structures, it was estimated.

Crop damage was reported heavy. The Hershey Sugar Mills, 20 miles from Havana, were reported severely damaged.

The hurricane tossed up a small tornado on its fringe in the Homestead, Fla., section. The twister knocked down a farmhouse, damaged several others and tumbled a 1½-ton truck along the ground. No one was injured.

Hurricane warnings were displayed from the Melbourne-Fort Myers line southward over the keys and storm warnings north of this line to Daytona Beach and Tarpon Springs.

Miami and Fort Lauderdale closed schools today. The Red Cross opened 59 shelters here and an emergency hospital. A force of war veterans began operating last night as volunteer rescue workers under Red Cross direction.

Rough water underminded a span of the MacArthur Causeway, one of three leading to Miami Beach, and the bridge was closed to traffic. The Venetian causeway was covered in places by water.

Pan American Airways, which flew 12 clippers to Tampa yesterday, sent 11 of them to Mexico today and one to New Orleans. All air lines moved their planes to safety yesterday.

Refusing an offer to evacuate them, farmers in the Everglades area preferred to sit out the storm. Some 3000 persons died in the storm and flood of 1928 when Lake Okeechobee over-flowed. Big protecting levees were erected later to keep the lake within its boundaries.

At Washington, Red Cross National Headquarters reported that the first evacuation train taking hurrican refugees out of the Lake Okeechobee area in Florida had set out from the lake tonight.

Its first scheduled stop was at Macy in the truck-growing district. About 3500 persons were expected to board the train. Preparations were made to care for them in shelters at Sebring, Avon Park and the Lake Placid area.

A second train was standing by in case it appeared necessary to take out more of them.

Tons of water rolled over the seawall at the Haulover, a resort beach. The bars and partitions in the restaurant were washed out. Police said it would be a "miracle" if the building stands. Looting of bottles of wine and champagne was reported.

The storm had its oddities. Mrs. Catherine Fornshell telephoned the Miami Herald that honest-to-goodness snow had fallen on her lawn and those of her neighbors. She insisted it wasn't hail. "It's soft, not hard—really snow," she contended.

Autumn Arrives At 11:22 P. M. Today

Fall-like weather appropriately will greet the first day of fall today. Autumn will arrive officially at 11:22 p. m.

Speaking of the rain which fell all day, the weather man said it was caused by the Floida hurricane. Clearing skies and "mostly fair" weather is forcast.

He explained that a mass of cool air moving rapidly south from Canada met a warm air mass from the Ohio valley and the rain resulted.

Disaster Services Alerted by FWA

The Federal Works Administration alerted all its disaster services in the Southeast in case they are needed in the Florida hurricane area.

The agency was ready to send trained disaster crews and equipment into the storm area if Florida authorities call for help.

Civil Service Strike Isolates Trieste

Trieste, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Trieste was isolated today by a 24-hour strike of civil servants who demanded wage increases which the Allied Military Government decided not to consider.

All government offices, including the post office, were shut down starting last midnight. Telephone and telegraph services ceased, except for allied military calls. No disorders were reported.

Army Explains Shorter Term For Frau Koch

The office of Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall said yesterday that he has had numerous inquiries and complaints about the commutation of the life sentence of Ilse Koch, widow of the former commandant of the Buchenwald concentration camp in Germany.

Interim replies, a spokesman said, already have gone out to four members of Congress who communicated directly with Royall. Final replies, based on information obtained from occupation officials in Germany, now are in preparation.

These replies, it is understood, will contain quotations from a report, already published, by a deputy theater judge advocate stating that it was determined upon review that there was insufficient evidence against Frau Koch. Accordingly her sentence was reduced from life to four years, making her eligible for release next year.

The report to be quoted stated: "There was no convincing evidence that she selected inmates for extermination in order to secure tatooed skins (for lamp shades or other articles of personal adornment) or that she possessed any articles made of human skin."

Odd Fellows Headed By Connecticut Man

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 21 (AP).—Fredrick L. Phelps of Middleton, Conn., was elected sovereign grand master of the sovereign grand lodge of Odd Fellows today. Mrs. Inez Crosby of Camden, Me., was elected president of Rebekah assemblies.

Youth Prevented From Leaping Off Calvert Bridge

A jobless 20-year-old youth who saw death as the only way out of a mounting pile of debts was prevented from hurling himself off the Calvert st. Bridge at 3 a. m. yesterday by a passerby who grabbed him and turned him over to police.

Before being committed to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation the boy, Bert Chauncey Pond 3d of 3127 S. 13th st., Arlington, Va., told Fark Police he could not find employment and saw no way of paying his debts.

Police said he told them he had counted on reenlisting in the Army but being on a year's probation for a holdup of a candy store in New York City last June, he was not eligible.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Trees And Traffic

For all its maudlin sentiment, Joyce Kilmer's poem, Trees, commends itself to study by the District Highway Department. The department is planning to do away with the elm trees which line New York avenue between 9th and 13th sts. nw. as a part of the modernization program when the streetcar tracks eventually are removed from that artery. Outwardly the department can make a good case for its decision. It is probably true that the trees do constitute something of a traffic hazard which the Police Department would be glad to see eliminated. Probably it is also true that some of the trees are diseased and dying, as the Highway Department alleges, and that they would have to be taken out sooner or later anyhow.

Nevertheless, it seems to us, there is all too prevalent a tendency to get rid of the trees in Washington and vicinity and then mourn them later. The Highway Department is less guilty of this vandalism than private individuals. But even the Highway Department is more concerned with developing better streets than with preserving the charm which is Washington's, and which caused the Chilean President to call Washington "a city in the country." Perhaps the most flagrant examples of denudation are to be found among some of the new housing developments in and around the District. To many builders, seemingly, a tree is an excrescence on the landscape, something to be bulldozed out of existence as quickly as possible. The result is that the character of the new homes has gone, too. What once were shady meadows and hillsides have been replaced by row after row of homes indistinguishable from one another on a bare setting resembling nothing so much as a plucked chicken.

It is, of course, possible to overdo the matter of keeping trees. But the danger does not seem to be in that direction. It is at least reasonable to ask city officials—and builders with an eye to property values—to consider why Washington has retained its reputation as a city in the country, with something of the sylvan appeal that is rapidly vanishing from all but rural communities. In other words, let's stop the bulldozers and ponder a minute before offering up new sacrifices to the great gods of construction and the city symmetrical.

Senatorial Heat

While we sympathize in large measure with the President's criticism of Senator Taft for using his influence on the associate general counsel of the NLRB, it is interesting to contemplate that if Mr. Truman had followed, while he was in the Senate, the rule he recently laid down for other Senators, he probably never would have got into the White House. The President's letter taking the father of the Taft-Hartley Act to task has this to say: "It seems to me that it is entirely improper for any Senator, no matter what his politics, or his rank in the Senate may be, to attempt to put the heat on one of the executive departments." As a Senator, however, Mr. Truman's reputation was largely built on his skill in turning the heat on executive officials.

During the war years the Truman Committee put on the gridiron any and every war agency in which any evidence of laxity or inefficiency could be found. Administrators by the dozens were called on to explain their conduct. In numerous instances these administrators were told just what the senatorial investigators had found with the object of getting deficiencies corrected at the earliest possible moment. That is the essence of turning on the heat.

Mr. Arthur Krock notes also in the New York Times that Senator Truman induced the Senate to pass a resolution designed to upset a ruling of Fred M. Vinson (now Chief Justice, then Director of Economic Stabilization) which blocked an emergency board's recommendation for an 8-cents-an-hour wage increase for nonoperating railway employes. It is true that Senator Truman acted on the belief that the Administration had misinterpreted the will of Congress in passing the stabilization law. Nevertheless, his conduct amounted to turning on the heat in a big way.

It was chiefly his skill in prodding administrators from the vantage point of the War Investigating Committee, however, that raised Senator Truman to the status of vice presidential timber and induced President Roosevelt to turn to him after Henry Wallace had been put on the skids. Perhaps the heat put on by Mr. Truman differed in some respects from Senator Taft's heat applied to the NLRB associate counsel. Yet it has to be remembered Mr. Taft is a member of a watchdog committee, as Mr. Truman was. The question arises: what are the limits of interference of the watchdogs? There must be a line somewhere, and it has been and is being transgressed time after time. Many examples come to mind: the infiltration of the watchdog committee of ECA in agreement-making with foreign nations, the placement of Senators' friends and stooges in the State Department, among others.

For the present, however, the point is that regardless of how seriously one may condemn undue pressure by members of Congress on executive officials and undue pressure by the Executive on Congress, President Truman's sweeping condemnation of legislative heat does appear to scorch the ladder up which he climbed to high office.

Sinews For The U. N.

Possibly no event could have more dramatically emphasized the need for a United Nations police force than the foul assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte. It was no mere liquidation of an individual who was seeking a formula for peace in Palestine. It was, rather, an outrage to the international community, and as such a challenge to the existence and functioning of an international society. The United Nations cannot permit its representatives to be shot down with impunity without inviting disintegration of the whole concept of the U. N.'s responsibility for the maintenance of peace.

In our own country the assassination of Lincoln was the last blow from the forces that were trying to tear our Nation apart. That crime and the Civil War which preceded it impelled the United States to tighten the bonds that hold the States together as a Nation. Today the sacrifice of Count Bernadotte ought to set in motion a similar drive toward reinforcement of the U. N. as a genuine arm of international law and order. The Security Council cannot substitute peace, reason and order for war out of weakness. Pascal said that justice is impotent without force, and that force without justice is tyrannical. The U. N. needs strength commensurate with its great responsibility in Palestine and every other spot in the world where the settlement of issues by assassins' bullets or aggressors' legions may be undertaken.

Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, has asked the General Assembly in Paris to consider the creation of a U. N. guard force to be recruited on a world-wide basis. The United States delegation is behind the proposal. With U. N. commissions in Kashmir, Indonesia and the Balkans, as well as Palestine, the need for regularly established guards is patent. Far more important, however, is the creation of a genuine international police that can make the word of the U. N. respected anywhere on earth. Because of the antagonism between the Soviet Union and the United States, efforts to put armed might at the disposal of the Security Council have failed utterly to date. However, failure must not be considered final.

If no agreement on the internationalization of armed contingents from the big powers can be achieved, the nations might at least agree upon the creation of a token U. N. police force composed of men drawn from all countries on a basis of individual recruitment and exclusive U. N. training. The death of Count Bernadotte has given tragic emphasis to the U. N.'s weakness, and it is up to the statesmen meeting in Paris to see that this crime shall not signalize a breakdown in the cause for which he gave his life.

Red Sails

It would be a mistake to think of the Communist uprising in Indonesia as an incident distant, isolated, and unimportant. It is only the latest aspect of an intensified Communist drive to capture and pervert the nationalist movements in Burma, Indo-China, and Malaya as well as in the Netherlands East Indies. Thus it raises serious questions for Britain, France and the Netherlands. They may have to reexamine and modify their postwar policies toward movements for colonial independence. In a world where Soviet and American interests elbow each other at every point of the compass Java may come almost as close to home as Berlin.

One clear purpose of the Communist campaign in southeast Asia is to distract as much American and western European attention as possible from just such questions as Berlin. Another is to throw a monkey wrench into Marshall Plan machinery. Strikes and destructive attacks on the plantation system of the area serve to erect at the source a blockade on shipment of raw materials to Europe. The calculated result, at both ends of the line, is to put economic recovery out of gear. Consequent unemployment, shortage of food, lack of processed articles and the like are expected to foster still further unrest that can be exploited to the advantage of Moscow. If widespread suffering, even starvation and civil war, come too, that is hardly a brake on the Kremlin. The Communists, despite their professions, are not concerned with the welfare of the common man in Indonesia or anywhere else.

Nor are they any more sincere in espousing the cause of nationalism in southeast Asia. The case of Yugoslavia is particularly to the point. As the State Department has taken pains to emphasize to the nationalists, Moscow will love them only if they toe the line. So long as nationalism demands independence of "capitalist imperialism," it is highly proper and serviceable; if and when it verges on independence of the Kremlin it becomes, as Tito found out, a high crime against the "people's democracy."

The threat of Communist success in the Indonesian Republic may have one quick and desirable result. It may compel the Dutch and the Hatta government of the Indonesian Republic to stop sparring over details of the Renville Agreements of last January and join forces against the new threat to both sides. The United States is holding up expenditure of 50 million dollars in Marshall Plan funds in Indonesia until this settlement is obtained. Mr. Stikker, the Netherlands Foreign Minister, seemed to hint at readiness to compromise in his press conference here on Monday. A reciprocal indication from Hatta would open the way to real cooperation and avoid the wholly disastrous alternative of possible Dutch military action against the Communists.

Mr. Dewey On Unity

Governor Dewey's first major campaign speech at Des Moines was a skillful effort to turn President Truman's ranting tactics against himself. In contrast to the President's appeal to the prejudices and class interests of workers and farmers, Mr. Dewey offers national unity, general good will and teamwork. His pledge is that he will work for the common interest, unite factions and make every American understand that he is dependent upon every other American. That approach to the problems of our troubled world at least opens new avenues of hope, and we suspect that it will make a better impression on the average voter than Mr. Truman's effort to make their flesh creep.

In dealing with his opponents Mr. Dewey followed the lead of his running mate, Governor Warren. He was almost benign. "I will not contend," he said, "that all our difficulties today have been brought about by the present national Administration. Some of these unhappy conditions are the result of circumstances beyond the control of any government." Nor did he pretend to have all the answers in his own briefcase. "I have no trick answers and no easy solutions," he said. Yet he exhibited unbounded confidence in what the American people can accomplish by working together.

The speech may be said to gloss over many of the serious schisms in our national life. Even though Mr. Dewey guarded himself against criticism on this score by saying that he did not believe it would be easy to meet the problems that confront us, his soothing syrup will seem to many to be overly sweet. It is the contrast with President Truman's goose-flesh tactics that makes it appear refreshing. However short Mr. Dewey might fall of achieving the goal of unity, cooperative effort and greater prosperity that he has set for himself, his striving in that direction must be counted a significant factor.

Few will think that his threat—or promise—to initiate in Washington "the biggest unraveling, unsnarling, untangling operation in our Nation's history" counts for much. It is reminiscent of the promise another New York Governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, made in 1932 before launching the Government upon its greatest period of expansion. We sincerely hope that, if Mr. Dewey is elected, he will succeed in simplifying governmental organization and in evolving new means of cooperation between the President and Congress. But it would be a mistake to expect anything revolutionary. Big government will continue under either Republican or Democratic auspices, as plainly indicated by Governor Dewey's interest in maintaining farm price supports, protecting labor, extending social security, curbing inflation, and safeguarding free enterprise from monopoly.

It is true, however, that the more the Government gets into activities of this sort the greater is the necessity of pulling factions together instead of driving them apart. Our world situation is too dangerous, moreover, to give free rein to factionalism—against which George Washington never tired of warning his fellow countrymen. It is strength that the forces of freedom need and that strength can come only out of cooperative efforts in pursuit of our larger aims. Mr. Truman's disregard of the grass-roots interest in domestic unity may prove to be his most costly mistake of the campaign.

Peaceful Settlement

The complaint has been made, often justly, that it is the conflicts rather than the agreements that make news, in international relations as well as in domestic affairs. There is one instance of international agreement, small though it is, which ought not to be overlooked because of the example it sets. That is the framework just announced for resolving the controversy between the Dominican Republic and Cuba, a controversy which arose last year over the complaint of the Dominican government that Cuba did not take sufficient action against an invasionary expedition armed on Cuban shores.

The dispute was the first case handled by the Inter-American Commission on Methods for the Peaceful Solution of Conflicts, which was created at the Havana conference of foreign ministers in 1940. The commission proved to be less cumbersome than its name. Under the leadership of its chairman, Dr. Luis Quintanilla of Mexico, it recommended a method of direct negotiation satisfactory to both parties. It may be suspected that the achievement was one of resolving national pride rather than one of settling any basic points of conflict, since both principals apparently were anxious to come to an accord. In other words, the workability of the machinery in a case of serious proportions has yet to be tested. Nevertheless, the commission has attained at least a superficial success in the first item brought before it, and this contributes to the prestige of the parent Organization of American States, the new regional security body set up at the Bogota Conference.

Segregated Playgrounds

Refusal by the District Recreation Board to hear a group of citizens because they represent a political party is indicative of the low status of democracy in the Nation's Capital. Are not political parties the American way of solving our problems? Is the fact that we do not have the vote in Washington to be used to prevent us from organizing to eliminate the abuses of the present local government?

I was sorry to see that even The Washington Post, in its editorial of September 16, "Playground Politics," implies that politics is an improper way for people to improve their condition. Surely in a democracy politics is the best and safest way to effect social reforms. The Young Progressives, in appealing to the Recreation Board to allow the children of the District their constitutional right of free assembly, were acting well within the best American tradition. The refusal of Mr. Wender and his board to hear them was wrong and dangerous.

The only ways left are direct appeal to the people for support and resort to the courts for protection of our rights. We will use both. In their efforts to bring about better conditions in the District, the Young Progressives have shown at every step that they expect to be orderly and law-abiding. They have called upon the police to prevent violence and trouble. As has been demonstrated in the past, the police can prevent trouble if they want to.

If violence occurs, as the result of the Young Progressives' effort to realize the American dream, it will be because the police feel that such violence will discourage the cause which the Young Progressives are promoting.

CLARK FOREMAN,

We are not, as your editorial puts it, "looking for trouble." We merely want to exercise our rights to the pursuit of happiness by playing together on an unsegregated playground.

Furthermore, we certainly do not wish "to become martyrs." The statement that the Young Progressives are taking part in this campaign for the publicity which would attend a fracas is completely ridiculous.

We consider it a distortion of our beliefs in democracy to say that "we do not really care" whether Washington has unsegregated recreational facilities. On the contrary, we are willing to fight for what we believe.

When Negro citizens are barred from the Rosedale Playground . . . then arrested for playing in the streets, they are being denied their rights under the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments.

That such a campaign as this should be necessary in the capital of the United States, when we are preaching democracy to the rest of the world, is shameful.

Public Defender

Your report on September 9 of the rape case involving a North Carolina farmer includes at one point a statement allegedly given to news reporters by a court-appointed counsel for the accused in which the latter is quoted as having said: "I don't know why I did it, but I did it. I must have been crazy. I never saw or heard of her before."

I seriously doubt whether this type of reporting serves the public interest; it may well invite the sort of censorship adopted by the Maryland Legislature. In any event trial-by-press deserves censure. An attorney is appointed not as press agent to deliver to a waiting public statements made to him in strictest confidence but to protect the legal rights of one charged (in this case) with a capital crime. Even assuming judicial scrutiny may be unnecessary in this instance, the occasion underscores the long-felt need for a public defender.

Haymarket Riot

Your explanation of the Haymarket Affair in your September 15 article on Wallace's "Bloody Friday" speech is an extreme departure from The Washington Post's usual high standards of accuracy. You refer to 176 policemen "storming" into the West Side market district "to quell a riotous demonstration." This is a far from accurate description of what occurred.

Few episodes in the conflict between capital and labor have aroused such passion and emotion as the Haymarket Affair. However, 62 years later, we should be able, at the very least, to evaluate the event with the same objectivity displayed by men like John Peter Altgeld, Governor of Illinois and pardoner of the surviving defendants convicted of throwing the mysterious bomb.

According to the most reliable historical evidence, the protest meeting at Haymarket Square was conducted peacefully. The Mayor of Chicago attended the meeting, not to protest but to see that no disturbances resulted. He left at the end of the meeting, his mission apparently accomplished. As soon as the Mayor departed, the police inspector ordered his men to disband the meeting which was already ending. It was then that an assassin, unknown to this day, threw the bomb that killed the policemen and stampeded the already disbanding protestants.

Overpopulation

In his letter of September 15, "S. G." solves the question that is engrossing the 100th anniversary meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science with a gesture. "Let those who will not practice continence assume an increased share of the tax burden" he says.

This is a wonderful idea, really. Instead of "soaking the rich" let us now proceed to "soak the prolific." No longer is the American home to be blessed with dozens of little "tax exemptions." Henceforth we shall be bootlegging children.

Waifs left on doorsteps by anguished mothers will bear the tear stained note: "My husband thought more of his income tax than he did of us. I cannot go on alone, dodging the tax collector! Farewell sad world!"

The smug bachelor, enjoying a full income, will answer the coy maiden: "You're cute kid, but I can't afford it. Two may live cheaper than one, but o-my-gosh, think of three!

Yes, "S. G." has struck the nail on the head. As someone has said: "The Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock. How much better we all should be if Plymouth Rock had landed on the Pilgrims!"

Babes in the Wood

Scientists assailing the loyalty investigations of the House Un-American Activities Committee as threatening the freedom and efficiency of American scientists (seconded by President Truman's recent speech) should consider whether it is better to undergo the minor inconveniences of a congressional investigation or to come under the ruthless domination of a Red state. While some of the group of scientists making this protest doubtless are sincere, it may be that others among them are Communist sympathizers or dupes.

The fact is that relatively few scientists are qualified by training or experience to pass judgment on matters political. Most of them live in a cloistered, academic atmosphere of apparent security insulated from the real world of business and politics by complete abstraction with scientific research and teaching.

The average scientist, emerging from his academic cloister into the midst of confusing political realities and hurly-burly, is just a "babe in the woods" who imagines that scientific theories, facts and frankness can solve world economic and social problems. He does not realize that some of his scientific brethren from Soviet countries, apparently friendly and altruistic, actually may be subtle, insidious, unscrupulous Communist tools whose mere acquaintance places any reputable American scientist under suspicion of collaboration.

The threat of communism to American freedom and progress is too real and terrible to be disregarded. United States scientists even by inadvertently betraying vital secrets to Red agents might contribute to their own enslavement under the iron hand of an American Soviet.

Saving Trees

May I ask what amount has been allotted in current District budget estimates to the care of our public trees, which do more than anything else to prevent downtown areas from degenerating into slums, and incidentally to uphold taxable property values?

It is incongruous and perhaps a mistake that the division of trees and parkings of our municipal government should be under the Highway Department, for the typical highway viewpoint apparently regards a shade tree as merely an obstruction, occupying a square foot of ground that might more profitably be filled by a fender or bumper—to be gotten rid of wherever possible. At least the steady deterioration of our once beautiful and prized street trees in whole areas of the Capital would lead one so to believe.

Meanwhile our real estate taxes have been virtually doubled on constantly depreciating values.

"Mow 'Em Down"

In your issue of September 18 is an item about the President leaving for a Western speaking tour in support of his campaign for President. His parting words on entraining were "I am going to mow 'em down; we're going to give 'em h——."

Gangster talk and attitude! How absolutely disgusting, coming from one who should at least have a thought of upholding the dignity of the office of the Chief Magistrate of a Christian nation, as the United States is supposed to be at any rate.

Washington Calling

Basing-Point Return?

"NOW YOU see it and now you don't."

That was the cry of the old-time gambler as the yokels at the country fair gathered before his gaming table to be fleeced.

Something like that technique is being used here in Washington today. Naturally, it is not so crude and some of the players in the game undoubtedly believe that it is in the public good. But what is happening before Senator Homer Capehart's Special Committee on Trade Policies certainly dazzles the eye of the casual bystander.

In April the Supreme Court handed down an opinion that shook big business. In a searching, carefully prepared decision, Justice Hugo L. Black upheld the charge of the Federal Trade Commission that the pricing system enforced by a trade association covering the entire cement industry was in violation of fair-trade practice and the anti-trust laws. Summarizing thousands of pages of testimony, Black said:

"It seems impossible to conceive that anyone reading these findings in their entirety could doubt that the commission found that respondents (the industry) collectively maintained a multiple basing point, delivered price system for the purpose of suppressing competition in cement sales."

In his decision Black listed all the means used by the trade association, including boycotts and the banning of shipments by truck or any means other than rail, to enforce a single delivered price. He showed how when public bids were submitted each company submitted an identical bid even down to the fourth decimal place, although each bid was submitted separately in a sealed envelope.

THE REASON this opinion had such a shattering impact is obvious. In certain key industries the basing-point system has long been the method by which a few large producers exercise control. Thus it goes back to "Pittsburgh plus" in the steel industry.

Under the "Pittsburgh plus" system, a steel producer in Indiana or Illinois could not undersell a producer in Pittsburgh, even with customers across the street, because he was "persuaded" to add to a fixed price the equivalent of the cost of freight charges from Pittsburgh. One result was that the industry remained frozen in the geographical and economic pattern of the past. Competitors were unable to take advantage of more favorable locations.

Promptly with the court's decision, President Irving S. Olds of the United States Steel Corp. indicated Congress would be asked to legalize the basing-point system. That is now the objective of a major segment of industry.

Shortly after the new Congress meets in January the heat will be on. One of the first tests of a new Administration will be whether it will nullify the opinion of the Supreme Court and make legal the pattern of industry that has prevailed.

EVER SINCE the court decision a propaganda barrage has been directed against it, particularly in the trade journals. It has been represented as outlawing all price systems and creating anarchy even though the Federal Trade Commission has said repeatedly that only collusive and seriously discriminatory practices are outlawed.

At this point the Capehart Committee stepped in. The Senator from Indiana has said publicly on several occasions that the aim is an objective inquiry into the court decision and its effects on industry. But it looks very much as though the inquiry had been set up with one goal—to find that industry cannot function under the law as interpreted by the court and the FTC and that, therefore, a change is essential.

On the advisory council named by Capehart to consider the issue are a number of businessmen whose companies have been cited by FTC on the same charges. There are also trade-union representatives, but they are likely on such an issue to reflect the industry point of view.

William Simon, counsel to the committee, was, until he accepted the committee assignment, associated with a Chicago law firm that represented several firms involved in charges brought by the FTC. Simon personally participated as lawyer for General Foods in a case involving the price of salt.

Addressing the opening session of the council, which is to meet behind closed doors, Capehart earnestly proclaimed the goal of objectivity. But as he warmed up to his theme, he sounded very much as though he had already made up his mind on the side of those who are determined to legalize the basing-point price system.

For most people these matters are too complicated to follow. They should know, however, that they reach right down into the average householder's pocketbook. And for industry the stake may be even larger, as will be shown in a following column, than appears on the surface.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

DES MOINES, IOWA.—There was something rather sad about the contrast between the respective campaigning debuts, here in Iowa, of President Harry S. Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. The Truman show was threadbare and visibly unsuccessful, getting hardly more response than politeness demanded. The Dewey show was opulent. It was organized down to the last noise-making device. It exuded confidence. And it got a big hand. The contest was really too uneven; after it was all over, one felt a certain sympathy for the obstinately laboring President.

The approach of the two men was also as different as possible. Truman spoke the language of Robespierre in the mild tones of the Kiwanis Club of Independence, Mo., which rather naturally failed to carry much conviction. Dewey expressed sentiments that might have been borrowed from Abraham Lincoln, in words which had about them a faint flavor of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn. For the stomachs of cynics, the Dewey address may have been a trifle too ostentatiously noble. But the tone was high all the same and the audience responded.

This difference in response is, in truth, the heart of the whole contrast between these two campaign openings. Truman somehow is unable to stir people even when he makes points which should have real meaning to them.

Dewey is able to raise a cheer with an emphatic indorsement of an early spring and a late fall or a stern denunciation of the man-eating shark. Nor is this comparison invidious to Dewey. The plain fact is that Truman has none of the stuff of political leadership about him, whereas Dewey possesses this queer, unanalyzed human chemical in increasing measure. Dewey in 1948 is a genuinely powerful figure, with genuine personal appeal to the mass of the voters.

WHAT MAKES the task of Truman still more hopeless is the immensely superior competence of the Dewey organization and its vastly larger resources. The national plowing contest, and not the Iowa Democrats, got the crowd out for Truman. Under the gentle prodding of Dewey's brilliant advance man, Hamilton Gaddis (the best in the business since the late great Dexter Fellowes of Ringling Brothers), a huge array of Republican notables worked for weeks to make the Dewey appearance a success.

Caravans from out in the State were organized to swell the audience. All that could be done by bunting, noise-makers, good radio and loudspeaker arrangements, careful seating and good crowd management was done with efficiency. The result was a meeting with such a strong smell of success about it that the observer was inclined to propose calling off the whole campaign as an unnecessary expense.

There is more to be considered about this Dewey campaign opening, however, than the contrast with Truman or the mere exhibition of virtuosity in the peculiar art of national politics. When one looks behind the platitudes in which all politicians inevitably deal, when one examines what Dewey actually said, the conclusions that suggest themselves are distinctly reassuring.

IT IS already something that a political leader, seeking office in this grim year, should think it the best politics in America to strike a distinctly high and serious note. It is even more that among all the customary promises of Utopia just around the corner, Dewey soberly inserted very clear warnings to his hearers that the road to the happy future is likely to be pretty rocky. Clearly and plainly he told them that these were troubled times; that we face problems "as momentous as any which have ever confronted this Nation"; that it will "not be easy" to solve these problems. Very clearly, also, he warned those abroad who might wish to benefit by the turmoil of our political campaign that no such benefits are to be expected.

When he was saying these things and when he was discussing the general foreign situation, Dewey spoke with special seriousness and special effect. The glitter of success, the air of superefficiency which marked his whole appearance here, may have been a little putting off. But his defect of too much perfection was compensated for by the impression that Dewey undeniably gave of sensing the magnitude, the complexity, the difficulty of the task that is ahead of him.

AFTER Dewey has tackled individual political issues in a more specific manner, it will be easier to forecast how he means to perform that task. Even in this first very general statement, however, there were important hints. His references to housing, to racial discrimination, and to one or two other domestic problems suggested just as strongly as his discussion of foreign affairs that he has already made up his mind to ignore the extreme right-wing Republicans.

These men of the Republican right wing are clutching his coattails. At Rock Island, Ill., where he appeared briefly before his triumphal entrance into Des Moines, one felt that Col. Robert R. McCormick's little man, Senator C. Wayland Brooks, hardly liked to let those coattails go for a minute.

Because Dewey wants a Republican Senate majority, he will be happy to carry Brooks into the Senate in his own wake. But the course which Dewey seems to have charted, at least on the basis of his first campaign speech, is a course which Senator Brooks and his comrades are not likely to enjoy following. It is to be hoped that the balance of the Dewey campaign confirms this impression. If so, he will have a free hand, and great power to use it, when he enters the White House.

Pacts Lessen Truck, Ship Strike Grip

By The Associated Press

The throttling grip of two major strikes—New York truck drivers and West Coast longshoremen—was eased yesterday.

Trucking conditions in New York approached normal as AFL Teamsters reached individual wage agreements with most of the major employers.

A spokesman for the Association of American Railroads said a partial railroad freight embargo would be lifted. The embargo was declared when the truck strike started three weeks ago.

A spokesman for the teamsters union said his group may seek uniform wage levels to stabilize contracts. Various locals have signed contracts with various employers at different rates.

Most of the settlements were on the basis of a 17½ cents hourly wage increase and a hospital fund costing the employers five cents an hour per man. The old contract provided wages of from $53.90 to $71.40 for a 40-hour week.

At West Coast ports, CIO longshoremen began loading Army cargoes aboard ships for the first time since a strike was called September 2. The striking maritime unions also agreed to load winter supplies for Alaska, before such shipping is endangered by Arctic ice packs.

The Army cargoes are being handled through temporary agreements with firms not affiliated with the Waterfront Employers Association. Longshoremen handling Army cargoes are receiving the pre-strike wage of $1.67 an hour. The union is seeking a 15 cents hourly wage boost from association members. Any future wage increase would be made retroactive for longshoremen handling the Alaska-bound cargoes.

Other labor developments:

Rubber: A company spokesman at Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s No. 1 plant at Akron, Ohio, said a work stoppage had seriously curtailed production. The stoppage started when three men left their jobs in a dispute over a change in timing of a mixed operation. The company suspended the men and other employes walked out. A continuation of the walkout could cause the plane to shut down, making 3000 idle, the company said.

Electric: Negotiations were completed to give 6000 warehouse and distribution employes of Western Electric Co. average hourly wage increases of "slightly better" than 11 cents. The Communication Workers of America (independent) said the agreement would have to be ratified by members in 29 cities. It was said the boost would make the country-wide wage $1.48 hourly.

Electrical and automotive equipment: Some 1200 workers in three AFL unions at five Noblitt-Sparks Co. plants in Columbus, Ind., struck and set up picket lines. The union is seeking a 16 cents hourly wage boost and a union shop.

Men Becoming 18 Are Slow To Register

Dilatory draft prospects—more than 400 of them in the past two days—are throwing a wrench into the District's registration machinery, it was disclosed yesterday.

Frank D. Norton, deputy director of the District Selective Service, expressed concern over what he called the "disturbing part" of the registration program and issued a plea for men eligible for the draft to check up on their birthdays.

He put it this way:

Current registration facilities are designed to accommodate men who become 18 years old each day.

Lag in 18-ear-Olds

District Selective Service workers have been reinforced by volunteers for the past two days because the great preponderance of registrants are not 18-year-olds, but men who should have registered before last Sunday.

On Monday, 233 men were registered; only six of them had just reached their eighteenth birthday, and the balance were latecomers.

Yesterday, 182 were registered; all but four of them were delinquents.

There is a double-barreled implication in these figures, Norton believes.

First, there is "an apparent disregard" for the law somewhere along the line, since those who failed to sign up during the regular registration period come in late and willingly registered. They offered a variety of excuses for tardiness.

Second, wartime draft statistics show that the District can expect about 30 men to become 18 years of age, and consequently eligible for registration, each day.

Therefore, Norton believes the process of registering men after the established deadline may continue indefinitely, unless those eligible check up on themselves and report immediately to Selective Service headquarters at 19th and D sts. nw.

He said 53,573 men had been registered in yesterday's final tally. Another 500 are expected to be reported from outlying registration centers.

Another development in the District's draft program yesterday was a request by Selective Service Director William E. Leahy that five men be appointed to fill vacant positions.

In a letter to the District Commissioners, Leahy asked that they request President Truman to appoint Dr. W. Warren Sager, 4428 Edmond st. nw., and Theodore Wiprud, 6200 32nd pl. nw., to fill respectively the positions of medical adviser and associate medical adviser to the State director.

Nominated to fill vacancies left by resignations from local boards are Dr. Harold A. Haynes, 1237 Franklin st.ne., Local Board 8, in place of Hubert B. Fair; F. C. Calcote, 1712 E st. se., Local Board 11, in place of Newton D. Hathaway, and Aaron W. Jacobson, 4530 Warren st. nw., appeal agent of Local Board 3, in place of Col. Julius I. Peyser.

Army Balks On Cadet Aid To 6 Schools

The Army, concerned over the drop in enrollments in the cadet program in white high schools, has threatened to withdraw its support from six of the institutions.

This was learned yesterday in a letter released from Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, commanding officer of the Military District of Washington, to Board of Education President Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle.

Inadequate instruction periods and poor maintenance of rifles furnished by the Army also are cited by General Gay as deficiencies in the local cadet program.

The six threatened schools and their cadet enrollments last year are: Eastern, 86; Coolidge, 41; Roosevelt, 79; McKinley, 75; Bell Vocational High School, 38, and Chamberlain Vocational High School, 39.

To receive Army aid, consisting of rifles and ammunition, the schools are required to maintain a minimum enrollment of 100 each.

General Gay charged that the board has violated a contract with the War Department under which the board agreed to maintain 2625 cadets in the schools, 2000 in the white schools and 625 in the Negro schools. Last semester the white schools enrolled 954 cadets while the Negro schools had 1170.

"Reports indicate that lack of interest on the part of students encouraged by lack of interest on the part of school officials results in a majority of the enrolled students being excused from participation in the cadet program," the letter said.

General Gay also criticized holding of drills after school hours and called on the board to include three hours of military instruction within the school day. A half-hour of this program would be devoted to "care, cleaning and operation of the rifle."

School officials, commenting on the letter, said that they have no way forcing boys to join the cadets, and that the high cost of the uniform, ranging from $35 to $40, may be a factor in low enrollments.

Long Lines Workers Get $6 Hike Offer

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. today offered long lines workers throughout the country weekly pay increases ranging up to $6.

The company made the offer to the CIO American Union of Telephone Workers, which has 25,000 members in 42 States and the District of Columbia.

The union immediately announcd that the offer "appears to be highly unsatisfactory," and fails "entirely" to meet the wage pattern set by the "giant CIO unions."

The union spokesman added, however, that the union "is continuing to examine" the offer.

The offer was announced by assistant A. T. &. T. Vice President Kenneth P. Wood, who said it would give plant craftsmen increases up to $6.

Operators and clerical employes would receive increases ranging up to $4 a week.

Wood said the offer would increase maximums in basic weekly wages by $5 to a new level of $89 for plant craftsmen, and by $3 to a new level of $51 for operators.

He said the company policy was to pay wages which compare favorably to similar jobs in other industries in each community.

The union charged the offer "discriminates badly against workers by community and occupation.

New Auto Loan Rules May End Profit Abuse

By Sam Zagoria

Post Reporter

Serious opposition to proposed regulations covering money lenders' operations in the District is expected at a public hearing scheduled for November 1 in the District Building.

The District Commissioners set the date yesterday after receiving a lengthy set of rules aimed at forcing loan firms to give up their present practice of buying up conditional sales contracts on autos by squeezing the profit out of the procedure.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Chester H. Gray, principal drafter of the rules, emphasized yesterday in explaining them that most of the present abuses in the estimated 25-million-dollar-a-year business occur in this way.

Jeff Lichtenberg, attorney for most of the 26 licensed loan firms here, declared last night that 75 per cent of his clients' present business is done in this manner and that the "Commissioners have no authority to change the present scope of the law."

He explained that in his opinion "buying of sales contracts from auto dealers is not lending money" and is, therefore, "untouched by the Small Loan Act," principal legislative basis for the current draft of regulations.

Lichtenberg said Gray and other collaborators in the drafting "may attempt to do this, but have no authority to do it."

At present, persons lending money at 6 per cent or less interest a year do not have to obtain a license. Anyone lending money in excess of 6 per cent may charge up to 8 per cent, except on small loans of less than $200 when a 1-per-cent-a-month interest charge may be made.

In the past, lending firms have kept within the 8 per cent limit, Gray explained, but have made "fantastic profits" by pyramiding charges for investigation, insurance and other items on top of the principal and interest after buying up the sales contract on an auto.

The proposed regulations require lenders to include most of these charges within the 8 per cent interest charge except for certain specified types of insurance. Actual evidence of the issuance of the policy must be furnished the borrower.

In addition, a register showing a complete breakdown of the charges must be maintained by the lending group for inspection by Superintendent of Licenses Chatham T. Nottingham. Borrowers must be given a similar statement of all the details of the transaction.

The regulations were drafted over a period of 10 months by several members of the Corporation Counsel's office working under Gray with the advice of a District Bar Association committee. License Superintendent Albert Jordan and Nottingham.

Montgomery County 'Safety Lane' Ready

Safety testing of all official Montgomery County vehicles, including 60 school buses, will begin at 11 a. m. today, when W. Lee Elgin, Maryland Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, cuts a ribbon opening a "Safety Lane" constructed at the Chevy Chase Motor Co., of Bethesda.

The "Safety Lane" is similar to that used by the District traffic division to inspect D. C. cars.

Britain Gets 219 Million

London, Sept. 21 (U.P.)—Treasury Economic Secretary Douglas Jay told Commons today that Britain has received 219 million dollars from the European Recovery program as of September 15.

Kindergarten Approved

Maryland State Board of Education authorities yesterday okayed the 40-year-old Municipal Building at 8 Columbia ave., Takoma Park, Md. for use as a privately operated kindergarten for Prince Georges County children.

Following inspection of the building, the board limited the capacity to 50 children on two shifts. Original plans were made to place 80 children in the one room of the building to be occupied by the school, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of the J. Enos Ray School.

Prince Georges County does not provide kindergartens in its public school system.

Mrs. Ellery Denison, chairman of the kindergarten committee said last night she would meet with plumbers and carpenters today to arrange for alterations and sanitary facilities.

"We hope to open the school by October 1, and it will be a first come, first served procedure," Mrs. Denison said.

Use of the Municipal Building to house the kindergarten was strongly opposed by Councilman H. C. Heffner at a meeting of the Takoma Park City Council Monday night.

Heffner, who is welfare chairman of the council, charged that the council's decision to use the Municipal Building was made without consulting his committee.

Citizens Aid May Be Asked

Montgomery County residents and community leaders may be asked by 35 Parent-Teacher Associations to join them in an analysis of the county school system.

Accomplishments and failures of the county educators would be studied on a county-wide basis under a plan proposed by the executive committee of the county council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

Out of the study, according to Nathan R. Gilbert, council president, would come recommendations on how the school system could be strengthened.

Gilbert said the plan would be presented to a meeting of the county council at 8 p. m. Tuesday at Lynnbrook Elementary School, Bethesda.

If approved, P-TA groups would be asked to sponsor large local groups to review the school system at a community level.

Printer Skill Discussed at ITU Hearing

Indianapolis, Sept. 21 (AP).—A newspaper production manager said today that membership in the printers union is no guarantee of all-around skill in a newspaper composing room.

Testifying in the Federal Court contempt case against the AFL International Typographical Union and its officers, C. E. Woodard, production manager of the Knight newspapers, said, however, that ITU members generally are competent in at least one branch of the trade.

The matter is important in the contempt case because National Labor Relations Board attorneys contend that acceptance of ITU members as competent but requiring ability tests for nonunion job applicants is discriminatory.

Law Violation Charged

This and other ITU contract demands on newspaper publishers, the Government lawyers have argued, violate the Taft-Hartley labor law and the terms of Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert's injunction last March.

In answer to Judge Swygert's questions, Woodard and several other witnesses said, however, that they were unaware of any large numbers of nonunion printers capable of newspaper composing room work and seeking newspaper jobs.

John F. O'Keefe, secretary of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers Association, and W. J. Harrigan, business manager of the Hammond, Ind., Times, testified that their organizations had offered the union to put all composing room hiring under foremen holding ITU memberships.

The ITU has been conducting a 10-month strike against the Chicago and Hammond papers, and the NLRB attorneys have asked Judge Swygert to direct the ITU to end payment of strike benefits to the strikers.

Winthrop Johns, NLRB attorney, told the court today he considers placing all hiring under a union foremen means a continuation of the closed shop conditions banned by the Taft-Hartley Law.

Harrigan said he thought a union foreman could be relied on to hire only competent composing room workers but he said the foreman, being a member of ITU invariably would favor union members over non-union members among job applicants.

NBC Frowns On Additional 'Give-Aways'

Sun Valley, Idaho, Sept. 21 (U.P.) The National Broadcasting Co. today announced a code of practices banning any additional "give-away" programs until finally ruled upon by the FCC and setting up the industry's first set of standards for television.

Niles Trammel, NBC president, will present the new code to representatives of the network's affiliated stations at the opening session of the company's second annual convention Wednesday.

The code, effective January 1, 1949, announces major rules for operation of the NBC network and the network's six owned and operated stations.

Changes Listed

The specific changes and additions to previous rulings include:

1. No series of crime and mystery programs will be broadcast before 9:30 p. m., Eastern time; 8:30 p. m., Central time, and 9 p. m. elsewhere.

2. Commercial time limitations for both radio and television.

3. Limitations of commercials in news programs. No middle commrecials permitted.

4. Any reference to a product other than the sponsor's, sufficient to identify and aside from normal guest identifications, will be considered advertising copy and charged against the total commercials permitted.

5. "Warm-up" material used before an audience prior to a program must conform to the same standards applying to the actual broadcast. For instance, no "off-color" jokes.

6. No additional "give-away" programs.

7. Regulations governing use of premiums and offers on programs.

Bad Taste to Bring Halt

8. Whenever a program is faded from the air for material in obvious bad taste and contrary to good broadcasting standards, the network will announce: "The National Broadcasting Co. regrets the necessity of intrrupting this program in order to delate material which, in its oponion, would be objectiosable to listeners in many American homes."

9. All NBC network program and commercial policies to apply to the six NBC-owned and operated stations.

10. Television. "Until definitive standards for the new broadcast medium are codified, NBC holds that the spirit of this manual will govern its television service, even where the letter of its wording does not apply."

Draft Policy Is Criticized By Hershey

Selective Service presents no immediate Government personnel problems of a serious nature because, under present policy, "there's almost no one who won't be deferred," Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey declared last night.

Addressing about 125 members of the Society for Personnel Administration at the Department of Agriculture, the National Selective Service director scored provisions of the draft act which, he asserted, threaten to call into service only those of the "least-favored" classes in America.

"Its almost impossible to find anyone who's a non-veteran, a non-father, under 25 years of age and capable of passing physical examinations for entry into the armed services," General Hershey told his audience.

"And if you do find them, they're probably in high school or college and entitled to at least a temporary deferment until they finish out their school year."

Hershey described the draft act as "not a law to win a war, but one to preserve the peace."

In response to questioning, General Hershey said there is no established program for deferring Government workers, but pointed out that the new law does permit Government agencies to ask deferment for their workers. Under the wartime draft, he explained, Government workers were denied even the right to ask deferment.

Meanwhile, Defense Secretary Forrestal said yesterday the Armed Forces will hold requests for deferment of their civilian employes to "an absolute minimum."

He said the Army, Navy and Air Force will be governed by a strict interpretation of regulations issued a month ago by President Truman.

One on the Aisle—

A New Rigoletto Skimps on Music

By Richard L. Coe

VICTOR HUGO'S rattling melodrama, "Le Roi s'amuse" ("The King Amuses Himself") has had almost as many adventures as Mickey Mouse. Today a modern Italian film version opens at the Dupont, "The King's Jester."

The French government clapped it shut immediately after its premiere at the Theatre-Francais in 1832. The excuse for censorship was that it was too bawdy; the real reason was that it presented a French monarch in an unflattering light, though Francis I had died nearly three hundred years before.

Italy's Composer Verdi saw in it a whacking good libretto for one of his operas, but those were revolutionary days in Europe, the 1840s, and it was some time before a compromise could be worked out for its use as an opera story. The setting was shifted from Paris of the sixteenth century to Mantua of the same period; the King became the Duke of Mantua; the French names were shifted to Italian ones, and the leading character, the hunchbacked Triboulet, became Rigoletto.

By these simple means "Rigoletto" quickly became the operatic smash it remains to this day. The story's been done before in the movies, but coming at a time when the revolutionary spirit is again abroad, a modern Italian version has its interesting points.

"THE KING'S JESTER." Scalera Film production from the play by Victor Hugo' "Le Roi s'amuse," with "music from Verdi's "Rigoletto." Photography by Upaldo Arata. English titles by Armando V. Maculuso. Directed by Marie Bonnard. Two arias by Toti dal Monte and Ferruccio Tagliavini. At the Dupont.

THE CAST

Rigoletto ..... Michel Simon
Francesco I ..... Rossano Brazzi
Gilda ..... Maria Mercader
Marchesa di Costa ..... Paola Barbara
Margot ..... Doris Duranti
The Gypsy ..... Elli Parvo
Count St. Vallier ..... Carlo Ninchi

Two Versions Merged

The new version has a peculiar approach, for though it returns to the Parisian setting of Francis I that inspired Hugo, it maintains, for instance, some of the Italian names (Rigoletto and Gilda) though using the titles of the French nobility. The faces, despite the French names, are completely Italian. And the modern Italian revulsion against royalty and nobility is unmistakably in the picture.

It's too bad, though, that more of Verdi's opera isn't used. You do hear two snatches of Tagliavini singing "La Donne e mobile" and Toti dal Monte sings "Caro Nome." But Verdi's lusty score is merely incidental—you get, for instance only the melody of the quartet.

The story remains a theatrical lulu, relating how the hunchbacked jester at the court of the French King keeps his beautiful daughter hidden from his amorous master. By a ghastly fluke, the secret hideaway is discovered by his enemies, the girl is brought to the King and the jester plots the revenge by which, instead of murdering the King and dumping his body in the Seine, it is his own daughter he kills.

Old Style Direction

While Michel Simon chews up the scenery pretty thoroughly in the title role, Hugo's original conception of the hunchback was more complete. He saw the fool as a deformed, unhealthy man who spread corruption throughout the court, and the outcome was not a tragic fate for a pathetic man but a moral judgment on a spinner of evil. That at least, is how he described the character in his published defense of the play after the government chased it from the stage.

Certainly one reason why this full moral concept of the character doesn't come across in the current attempt is its style of movie-making which is dated and unimaginative. Director Marie Bonnard's method is to place her actors smack in front of the camera and let it roll. The settings and costumes are lavish and, I daresay, historically accurate, but they seem fussy and remind one of Fort Lee's forays into historical drama.

But even without the music it might have had and lacking the subtlety of the hunchback's characterization, Hugo's old story is still a cracking good yarn.

'Red Shoes' National's First Film

The National Theater will open as a film house some time next month with the first showing in this country of "The Red Shoes," a Technicolor British film that's long on ballet.

The former legitimate theater's film policy, for the first engagement at any rate, will be on a twice daily, reserved seat basis. Information as to the exact date of the opening and for mail order and box office arrangements will be made shortly.

Hans Christian Andersen's story is the basis of "The Red Shoes," telling of the romance of a beautiful young dancer whose red shoes bewitch her into dancing without ever being able to stop. Leonide Massine dances in the ballet sequences, which have been created by Robert Helpmann. Sir Thomas Beecham conducts the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

Leading roles in the film story are played by Anton Walbrook, Marius Goring, Moira Shearer, Ludmilla Tcherina, Albert Basserman and Esmond Knight.

Polio Total Up 137 Over Last Year

Two new polio cases were reported in Greater Washington yesterday, raising the year's total to 162, as compared with a total of 25 for this date last year.

The new cases were a 30-year-old man from the 100 block of Irving st. sw., who entered Gallinger Monday, and a 6-year-old girl from the 4300 block of Forest la., Brookmont, Md., who entered Children's Hospital Monday.

The two raised the District total to 90 and the nearby Maryland and Virginia figure to 72.

A case reported yesterday by the District Health Department as located in the 1400 block of Irving st. nw. has been corrected to the first block of Parkway rd., Beltsville, Md. The victim is a 14-month-old girl now being treated at Children's Hospital.

Two other cases from Triangle and Middleburg, Va., have been removed from the Greater Washington count since they are not located in the nearby Virginia area.

In Virginia, the year's total rose to 377 as three new cases were listed in Page and Augusta counties and in the city of Norfolk.

Cancer Seen In Hot Foods

was scheduled for December 13 and 14 in San Francisco, Calif., with the approval of Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service.

Dr. Ivy told reporters it is a consensus of medical men that chronic irritations to the stomach "predispose" a person to cancer.

"It has been established," he said, "that hot foods do injure the stomach cells."

He drew an analogy between some types of skin cancers, which he said had been traced to burn scars, declaring that gastric ulcers might similarly be caused by stomach "burning" of hot foods.

In the university testings, Dr. Ivy reported, the stomach was able to receive foods heated to 122 degrees Fahrenheit without apparent harm. But above that, he said, "burning" becomes evident, "causing a condition that might predispose one to gastric cancer."

Continuing the tests, he reported, experimenters found that 20 per cent of the coffee-drinkers who participated "preferred" drinking their coffee when it was at 131 degrees Fahrenheit, or nine degrees above the critical level.

Another factor under study by cancer specialists, Dr. Ivy said, is a theory that gastric cancer is in some way linked to deficiencies in the stomach production of hydrochloric acid. Supporting this theory, he said, were figures showing that persons with duodenal ulcers, which stimulate the acid production, seldom develop gastric cancers.

Dr. Ivy

Dr. Stone

Dr. Waltman Walters, board member, a surgeon at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., told of strides made in gastric cancer surgery. Where cancers of the stomach can be detected before spread to other areas, operations can remove the disease at a "reasonable" mortality rate, he said.

Within the past several years, Dr. Walters said, the mortality rate for such operations has dropped to 10 per cent from a former rate of 25 per cent.

"We have the techniques if we can get the patients in time," he declared, adding that the "insidious" part of gastric cancers is that there are no recognizable preliminary symptoms.

Detection Still Difficult

All board members agreed that although much experimentation is under way to find a method of mass screening of persons to detect gastric cancer conditions, none holds any great promise.

Dr. Robert S. Stone, radiologist member of the board, of the University of California, said that "pre-screening tests" are under consideration. One of these, he said, might be a test to determine if a person is lacking in stomach acid production.

However, apparently contradicting the acid-lack theory, Dr. Ivy pointed out that the male stomach generally secretes more acid than the female stomach, yet 33 per cent more males suffer gastric cancer than females.

On the other hand, he said, males are "less careful of their eating habits," supporting his theory that stomach irritations may be a chief cause of gastric cancer. By "less careful," he said, he meant "they eat more rough foods."

Other board members attending the conference here included Dr. Charles Huggins of the University of Chicago; Dr. Shields Warren of New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston; Dr. Edward A. Doisy of St. Louis University School of Medicine, and Dr. John J. Morton, University of Rochester, N. Y.

Polio Hits 6 in Family

Deerfield, Ill., Sept. 21 (AP).—The six children of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Huff, ranging from 1 to 8 years in age, all caught light cases of polio recently within a 10-day period. All are recovering satisfactorily.

Chest Drive Plans Mapped By Two Units

Two units of the Community Chest Campaign completed plans yesterday for raising their share of Greater Washington's $4,566,790 goal.

About 100 area and division chairmen of Business Unit I met for lunch in the Hotel Washington to receive final instructions before the joint kickoff meeting of Business Units I and II September 30.

Key men in individual firms will be appointed following the kickoff luncheon to be held in Constitution Hall and sponsored by the Board of Trade, Herbert J. Rich, unit chairman, told the group.

The first report luncheon will be held October 8, Rich said. The quota for Business Unit I is $1,700,000. Last year the unit raised $1,202,000.

About 75 leaders of the Special Gifts Unit met last night for final instructions before their part of the drive opens today. During the meeting at the Parrott Restaurant, 1701 20th st. nw., Edward J. Keyes, executive director and campaign chairman of the Community Chest Federation, said every designated gift will go to the agency requested by the donor, "less the proportionate amount for campaign cost, shrinkage and headquarters operation."

The Army Department's chest campaign begins today, after a starting rally yesterday. The Army's quota is $117,940.

Volunteer workers who attended yesterday's Army Department rally in the Pentagon heard Lieut. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, chairman of the Army's campaign, urge quick achievement of the department's goal. Vice Chairman Everett L. Butler pointed out that the Army has never failed to meet its quota.

Signed Confession Admitted in James Trial

Charles E. Davis, Jr.
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21.—The prosecution today hammered a large gap in the defenses of Eugene H. James, accused slayer of Marsha Brill, 11, when a confession document was admitted as evidence.

The 31-year-old janitor and handyman, who is also under indictment in Washington for the murder of Carol Bardwell, 11, in Rock Creek Park on June 27, is being tried without a jury for the Brill murder in Baltimore Criminal Court before Judge Herman M. Moser.

James' signed statement, obtained by police on July 8, two days after Marsha Brill was stabbed to death "by a colored man who ran from the bushes," was proffered as evidence by the State after it had laid a strong groundwork with the testimony of more than 20 police officers and medical experts.

The prosecution's medical experts testified that James was mentally competent to make such a statement. Police testified he was not under duress to make the statement.

The defense, led by Attorney Charles H. Houston of Washington, fought bitterly to have the statement excluded, insisting James was only a "low-grade moron" incapable of resisting constant police questioning.

The statement accepted as evidence today is damning. It is a stenographic record of answers made by James to Baltimore police officials.

In it he describes coming upon the Brill girl.

"This dizzy spell came down on me, and I don't remember nothing," he told his questioners.

Q: You had a large knife with you?

A: I had it in my belt.

(At this point in his statement, James demonstrated how he had wielded the knife.—Editor's note.)

Q: Where did you strike her?

(He indicated a spot below the breast and above the navel.)

Q: Do you recall whether she fell down?

A: No. I kept right on walking.

A: No, I don't.

Q: Did you have any intentions to rape the girl?

A: No.

Testimony of five medical experts featured today's portion of the trial. One of the witnesses was Dr. Manfred S. Guttmacher. His role was neutral inasmuch as he is chief medical officer to the Baltimore Supreme Bench.

Dr. Guttmacher reported James was "extremely" difficult to examine because of the "unreliability and inconsistency of his answers." He said part of the difficulty was because James "appears to wish to give the impression that he is mentally disordered."

He said the examination disclosed a "severe bilateral testicular atrophy" that probably has played an important part in James' "reactions to women and sexual matters."

However, Dr. Guttmacher, concluded, "the patient was a responsible agent at the time of the commission of the crime with which he is charged.

The defense is expected to call a series of alibi witnesses when the trial resumes at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

City Bank Plans Sixth Branch In Southeast

By S. Oliver Goodman

The City Bank, in the midst of erecting a new branch building in the 900 block of Pennsylvania ave. nw., plans another new office in the Southeast section.

Burton

President Clarence F. Burton yesterday revealed that a building permit has been filed and work is expected to get under way on the branch at 3039 Minnesota ave. early in November.

The new structure, about two blocks south of Benning rd., will be 30 by 100 feet and will have a large parking lot for customers. One-story high, it will have air conditioning, fluorescent lighting and soundproofing among other features.

When completed, the Minnesota ave. office will be City Bank's sixth branch.

Meanwhile, Burton reported, work is progressing rapidly on the building on Pennsylvania ave. which will replace the present unit at 9th st. and Pennsylvania ave. This structure is expected to be open for business about April 1.

Other banks which have announced plans for new branches include:

Hamilton National—New structures to replace present ones in Shepherd Park (Silver Spring) and 20th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

American Security & Trust Co. is building a new branch in Woodley Park, expected to be open in February, 1949.

Bank of Commerce & Savings—New building to be erected at 6422 Georgia ave. as its new Brightwood branch.

Citizens Bank of Riverdale—New Avondale branch virtually completed at 1900 Queens Chapel rd., near the District line.

BANK WOMEN MEET: More than 300 women members of the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, heard an address last night in the Mayflower on the value of A. I. B. courses and at the same time saw what the educational program can do for a woman. The address was made by Miss Virginia Valentine, an officer and advertising manager of the State Planters Bank & Trust Co. of Richmond, who made an A. I. B. course pay in promotions. Scholarship prizes were awarded to Miss M. Patricia McShane of Suburban National Bank and Mrs. Jean C. Maddox of Riggs National. Graduation certificates were awarded as follows:

Miss Valentine

Prestandard course—Miss McShane, Miss Eileen M. Keady, Liberty National; Mrs. Virginia L. Orndorff, Old Dominion Bank; Mrs. Ingrid M. Vincent and Mrs. Ethel S. Miller, American Security & Trust Co.; Miss Mildred V. Hatton and Miss Margaret L. Kilpatrick, Second National.

Standard course—Mrs. Maddox and Miss Mildred F. Hicks, Riggs National.

INNOVATION: The first television receiver equipped with the new 16-inch direct view metal tube (150 square inches) will be shown Thursday and Friday in the Statler here to Washington and Baltimore dealers. The exhibit of large tube sets is sponsored by the Starrett Television Corp. of New York City. Explanations will be given by Alan Harvey, regional sales executive of the company.

ODD LOTS: American Security & Trust Co. voted regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent a share on capital stock, payable October 8 to stock of record of September 30 . . . Rival Manufacturing Co. announced 10 per cent price cut on its household steam iron "despite increased costs" . . . Association of American Railroads estimated that railroad operating revenues in August were 15.2 per cent more than same month last year . . . Warren Lee Pierson, board chairman of Trans World Airline, returned from Europe yesterday and said he is optimistic that special luxury flights at extra cost will find a market. TWA will offer the Paris Skychief, an all-sleeper flight with champagne dinners.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Virgil L. Couch, personnel director of the Marshall Plan agency, will speak on "Employe Performance Standards" at a dinner meeting of the Washington Personnel Association Thursday night in the Mayflower. . . . Wesley Zaugg has been appointed to the executive staff of the United States Travel Agency here. . . . William R. Hapeman, former service manager for Henry Miller Motors in Washington, has been named Eastern service representative for Crosley Motors, Inc.

FURNITURE: Washington retail sales of furniture in July showed a 7 per cent increase over the same 1947 month, while sales for the first seven months this year were 4 per cent higher than in the like period last year. The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond added that furniture sales in the Fifth District soared 21 per cent for July and were up 6 per cent for the seven-month period.

WMA Says D. C. Riders Don't Pay Enough

District patrons on the WMA bus lines are not paying their share of the operating expenses, the firm's officials told the District Public Utilities Commission yesterday during a fare increase hearing.

At present, passengers who travel only within the District pay fares of 10 cents cash or may buy tokens to cover three trips for 25 cents. The firm has asked for a straight 15-cent fare and no token sales.

The Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc., operates 10 routes, 9 of which carry passengers between the District and Prince Georges County, Md. The rates for interstate passengers run 5 cents for each 1½-mile zone beyond the District Line.

The first company witness, Roy A. Chew, WMA traffic engineer, emphasized that District passengers can get a six-mile ride for 8 1/3 cents, the price of a token, while the interstate passengers must pay a much higher fee for a shorter distance.

This position was supported by the second and final witness, J. W. Tanner, WMA treasurer, who declared that income from Maryland passengers is offsetting most of the loss incurred in carrying District riders.

Tanner said the firm had a net operating loss of $863 in the period from July 1, 1947, to June 30, 1948, while the District operations incurred an estimated loss of $30,300 during the same period.

In the past, PUC has allowed a 9 per cent return on the firm's rate base, Tanner declared. At this rate, the firm would require an additional $97,243 from District operations. A 15-cent fare would yield an estimated $103,228, if passenger traffic remained unchanged, but fare increases usually result in some drop, Tanner said.

Tanner also traced a steady rise in expenses, noting that operation costs per mile jumped from approximately 15 cents a mile in 1941 to about 36 cents in 1948, a rise of 139 per cent. Labor costs rose 132 per cent from 1937 to the present with the hourly rate going from 55 cents an hour to $1.28 an hour, he declared.

Only six persons attended the all-day session in the District Building and thus far no opposition has appeared nor has anyone asked to appear as an intervenor, as in the recent Capital Transit Co. case.

The hearing was adjourned to October 8 at 10 a.m. in the board room of the District Building to permit the PUC staff and People's Counsel John O'Dea to examine tht 24 company exhibits and prepare for cross-examination.

Zone Merger Held Near

Paris, Sept. 21 (AP).—French Foreign Office sources said tonight economic merger of the British and American zones of Germany with the French zone is near. Discussions of the problem are practically complete and formal merger probably will take place next month, these sources said.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Sept. 21 (AP).—Urgent short covering in September corn shot that delivery up to the 8-cent daily limit at the Board of Trade today, with but one day left to even up accounts. The shorts encountered some demand through cash and commission houses against sales of the December delivery.

At the opening the demand for September corn was not great, but as the day progressed it became sustained. Open interest in the expiring corn delivery at the start of today's session amounted to 11,365,000 bushels.

Aside from the rush to obtain the urgently needed corn, the market was a dull affair.

At the finish corn was 8 cents higher to ¼ lower than yesterday's close. September 1.77⅞@1.77⅞. Wheat was ⅛ to 1⅜ lower, September 2.24⅛. Oats were ⅛ to ¼ lower, September 71⅛@71½. Rye was 1½ to 1¾ lower, December 1.58, and soybeans were 1½ higher to 2¼ higher, November 2.47.

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 21 (AP).—Cotton futures broke out of a narrow trading range in a late covering movement today which carried the market into new high ground for the day. Final prices were 15 cents to $1.35 a bale higher.

The rally was touched off by short covering in nearby October, prior to first notice day September 28 which found offerings scarce. This induced covering by local traders throughout the balance of the list. Trade buying also helped the advance and was credited to mill account and export sales. Foreign interests were reported buying the December 1949 delivery on the belief that the price was attractive.

Soldier Acquitted In Prisoner Slaying

An Army general court martial yesterday acquitted Pvt. Gerald G. Wilkins, 18, of manslaughter in the death of a prisoner shot during an escape attempt at Ft. Myer September 8.

The seven-officer panel, headed by Maj. John Hynes, deliberated 30 minutes before ruling that the young soldier was acting in line of duty when he fired the shots that fatally wounded Recruit Robert H. Smith, jr., 19, of Jamestown, N. Y. whom Wilkins had been assigned to guard. Smith died at Walter Reed Hospital about 45 minutes after the shooting.

According to testimony at yesterday's all-day trial, Smith bolted for freedom as he was being escorted from the latrine of the Company B barracks of the Third Infantry Regiment. Wilkins admittedly fired four shots at the prisoner from a .45-caliber automatic, all four shots taking effect.

The day prior to his escape attempt, Fort Meyer officials said, Smith had been placed in custody of military authorities by District police, after he had served four months of a six-month jail sentence at the District jail for auto theft. He was being held under guard for further investigation.

Wilkins, who enlisted in the Army from Marshfield, Wis., last January, was described as an "apparently competent sentinel" by Acting First Sergt. Billie Vinson, of Company B, who assigned him the duty of guarding Smith.

The work of the late Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways for the District, was praised yesterday by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator, who spoke before the thirty-fourth annual convention of the American Association of State Highway officials in Salt Lake City.

"Within the last few weeks one of the ablest highway officials in the country has passed away," General Fleming told the highway officials.

General Fleming described the tasks faced by Captain Whitehurst in overcoming traffic problems and the successful manner in which he carried them out.

Police Hint They Know Killer

the car were too plain," he said. "It looked like a well-planned effort to divert police to Freetown."

Pieces of Mahlan's driver's permit were found on either side of a small creek separating the car from the village, police said.

Footprints near the automobile, leading to a small footbridge across the creek, were clearly discernible. On the other side of the branch they became obscured, police reported.

Mahlan's car keys also were found in the vicinity.

While police continued their persistent search for any possible clews, an analysis of a blood-stained suit found in a tailor shop near Silver Spring, Md., was taking place in Baltimore.

Police were told the suit, with large blotches of blood on the lapel and sleeves, was left at the Four Corners, Md., tailoring shop of Guy Widner about 5 p. m. Saturday.

Widner said a "stockily built man who appeared to be in his late 20's" brought the suit in, explaining it "belonged to a friend who had been in an accident."

The man left his last name and no address, saying he would be back for the suit next Saturday, police reported.

Presence of the suit at the cleaning establishment was reported by the proprietor to Capt. John Agnew, head of the Central Communications and Records Bureau of Washington police. Captain Agnew teletyped Maryland authorities to pick up the clothing.

The Anne Arundel chief said his men, led on by the discovery of the bloodstained suit found near Silver Spring, had turned in three other suits from various cleaning establishments in the Glen Burnie area.

All of them had what appeared to be bloodstains, he said, and they were being turned over to Baltimore authorities for analysis.

At the Kline home in Glen Burnie, two neighbors took up vigil to shield the family from visitors.

The Rev. E. T. Kirkley, of the Glen Burnie Methodist Church, and George Samm, who identified the bodies Monday, were the neighbors.

Mrs. Kline was reported under sedatives, but in a resigned mood upon learning of her daughter's fate from the Rev. Mr. Kirkley.

"Before I told of finding the bodies last night," he said, "I told her she would have to be resigned to the fact that she had seen her daughter for the last time."

Funeral services for young Mahlan will be held tonight, with burial in Patchogue, Long Island. He was born at Bayport, Long Island, graduated from Patchogue High School and moved to Glen Burnie about eight years ago.

Hospital Group To Raise Fees And Benefits

A substantial increase in rates charged by Group Hospitalization, Inc., accompanied by some additional benefits to subscribers, will become effective November 1.

The new rate schedule was announced yesterday by Joseph H. Himes, GHI president, who said the increased charges were necessary to meet rising costs of hospital services to subscribers. All the group's 375,000 Washington subscribers will be affected.

Under the new schedule, monthly rates for individuals will be boosted from 65 cents a month to $1.10; a husband and wife will pay $2.50 instead of $1.50 and family contract rates will be increased from $1.75 to $2.75, Himes announced.

Accompanying the higher rates will be a new service contract providing for 30 days hospitalization instead of the 21 days now allowed, Hines said, along with these additional benefits:

1. Discounts on semiprivate room rates beyond the 30-day limit will be increased from 10 to 50 per cent up to an additional 180 days in participating hospitals, and restrictions will be lifted on the number of admissions allowed during the discount period.

2. Payment of $15 for the first day and $6.50 a day thereafter up to 30 days for subscribers hospitalized in out-of-town hospitals, now receiving only $5 daily.

3. Hospitalization up to 10 days for pulmonary tuberculosis, poliomyelitis, mental or nervous disorders, alcoholism, drug addiction and quarantinable diseases.

4. Payment for oxygen therapy, intravenous injections and solutions and all serums except blood and blood plasma.

5. An allowance of up to $10 for emergency hospital care when subscriber is not required to become a bed patient.

GHI, one of 92 nonprofit community hospital service plans serving more the 32 million persons in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, has not raised its rates since 1937, when the present schedule was established, it was pointed out. According to Himes, increased costs have made it impossible for the group to meet hospital payments from present income, and the increase is necessary to protect the organization's reserve fund.

3 Linked to D. C. Gambling to Be Called To Testify in Brass Rail Shooting Trial

By Howard Dutkin
Post Reporter

Three persons who have been linked to gambling in the District at one time or another will be called on to testify today or Thursday in connection with the Brass Rail shooting.

Prosecutor Charles B. Murray, stymied thus far in moves to hook up the gunplay with a gambling feud, yesterday said he would call Isadore (Shep) Shapiro, reputed gambler, and Roger (White Top) Simkins, gambler-owner of the building housing the Brass Rail, and recall Odessa Marie Madre, former numbers bookie.

The Government's case was dealt a blow Monday when Murray was prevented from questioning Miss Madre as to motives for the shooting on grounds of irrelevancy and hearsay.

On trial for assault with attempt to kill are Charles H. Nelson, night manager of the Brass Rail and Henry M. (Piggy) Leake. The men shot each other early last January 8, the Government charges, after Leake, angered at a drop in his numbers business, went to the cafe to complain to Simkins.

Prosecutor Murray, aided in the case by Prosecutor Frank Reifsnyder, said yesterday there was a "chance" he might yet be able to introduce evidence to substantiate his original charge that the shooting was an outgrowth of a lottery war.

On the witness stand yesterday, Police Pvt. Jacob Rinker testified that Nelson and Leake identified each other in the double shooting.

Rinker declared that he first questioned Leake at Freedmen's Hospital shortly after the shooting and that Leake told him he had gone to the Brass Rail "for a drink." The policeman asserted Leake told him he was shot "by that man in the next room," indicating the room where Nelson lay.

Rinker then told the court that Nelson similarly accused Leake of shooting him.

The trial will be resumed at 10 a. m. today before District Court Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut.

2 Cases Carded For ABC Board

The District Alcoholic Beverage Control Board will hold a hearing in Municipal Center at 10 a.m. today on charges of a sale after hours by Herman and Eva Kaden in a grocery store at 463 Q st. nw.

On Friday the board will hear nine charges against the Friendly Tavern, Inc., at 643 D st. nw. The tavern proprietors are charged with four counts of sales to intoxicated persons, four counts of permitting use of the premises for unlawful purposes and one of failure to superintend the tavern through an approved manager.

6-Run Third Too Much for Tigers, 10-2

Detroit, Sept. 21 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox made hay today while their American League pennant rivals were idle, slapping the Detroit Tigers 10 to 2 to increase their first place margin to a full game over Cleveland and a game and a half over the New York Yankees.

The Sox shelled four Detroit pitchers for a dozen hits, including a homer, two triples and two doubles, and wrapped up the important victory with a six-run spree in a wild third inning.

Lefty Mel Parnell gave up 11 hits but never was pressed as he took his fourteenth victory against seven defeats.

Stringer Homers

It was Boston's final meeting with the Tigers this year and the Red Sox ran their top heavy season edge to 15 wins against Detroit's seven.

Second baseman Lou Stringer, purchased Sunday from Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League to spell the injured Bobby Doerr in the Red Sox infield, hit the Boston homer off Billy Pierce, fourth Detroit pitcher, in the ninth. It was his first American League hit and came on his tenth turn at bat since he joined the Sox.

Dom DiMaggio, with three hits in five times up, scored the first Boston run in the first inning when he tripled off Lefty Ted Gray. Vern Stephens tripled off Pierce in the eighth and doubled across two runs in the big third, when the Red Sox sent a dozen men to bat.

Five Hits in Big Third

Five hits, two walks and a wild throw to the plate by relief pitcher Art Houtteman featured the third-inning spree, when Parnell helped his own cause with a two-run single.

Ted Williams walked twice but went hitless in three official times up, giving him only two hits in 18 times at bat during the four-game series with Detroit. His batting average shrunk from .380 to .373 in the three-day stand.

Bibber McCoy Wrestles Tonight

Bob (Bibber) McCoy, former Holy Cross athlete, who once played big league baseball will return to Turner's Arnea tonight meeting Babe Sharkey in the feature wrestling bout.

Laverne Baxter meets Hans Kampfer, the German Oak, in the semiwindup.

A special two-man team match is on the bill, with the unbeaten father and son combination of Gino and Leo Garibaldi opposing Jesse James and Pat Welsh. In the opening bout at 8:45 Francois Miauet will meet Marvin Mercer.

Thompson Dies From Injuries In Fight Ring

Philadelphia, Sept. 21 (AP).—Bill (Chicken) Thompson, 21-year-old Philadelphia heavyweight, died tonight at Temple Hospital from injuries suffered in a fight against Johnny Haynes of New York here last Thursday.

Thompson never fully regained consciousness after being floored by Haynes three seconds before the end of their scheduled eight-round bout at Toppi Stadium.

Feller Faces Sox Today in Crucial Game

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21 (AP).—"Its pennant or peanuts" tomorrow as far as the Cleveland Indians are concerned.

That is the concensus among this city's pennant-feverish baseball fans as they await tomorrow night's important clash between their Indians and the league leading Boston Red Sox.

Enthusiastic local scribes are calling this "the most important single game of the entire American League season. All along the busy downtown area today, citizens are convinced its outcome will decide the American League flag.

The Red Sox have a one-game advantage. A Cleveland victory would put the two teams in a tie for first place, exactly even in games won and lost. A Boston triumph would put the Red Sox two games in front of the Indians, with only eight games remaining for each club.

Manager Lou Boudreau, who all along had said he'd "sink or swim" with Bob Feller, has given the great righthander the Indians' starting assignment.

JOE DOBSON, a righthander, is expected to open up for the Red Sox. This game is the last meeting between the clubs. The Red Sox lead in interclub play, 11 victories to 10.

A sellout crowd, almost certain to be in excess of 70,000, will be on hand for "Don Black Night," with the stricken Cleveland hurler to receive the net gate receipts. Black suffered a brain hemorrhage last week while at bat against the St. Louis Browns.

Both Boudreau and Bill Veeck, Cleveland's dynamic president, were reluctant to talk about the Indians' pennant possibilities, but agreed that the team which wins tomorrow "will certainly be in the driver's seat."

"Feller told me he's ready," Boudreau said. "That's all I need to know. Now if the boys can get him a few runs——"

Undoubtedly the Cleveland fireballer, who many believed was "washed up" earlier this season, faces his most important pitching assignment since the fateful October afternoon in 1940 when he was beaten, 2-0, by the Detroit Tigers two days before the close of the season. That loss cost the Indians the pennant that season.

FELLER has faced Boston four times this season, and oddly enough, his opposing pitcher in each instance was Dobson. Bob was victorious in their first clash, 4-1, in 10 innings, but Dobson won two of the others, with neither pitcher involved in the decision of the fourth game.

But Bob has come a long way since his last outing against the Red Sox. Since August 27, when he defeated the New York Yankees, 8-1, he has won four in a row to boost his season record to 16-14.

Dobson has a 16-8 record.

Boston Lead 7½ After Double Win

Boston, Sept. 21 (AP).—The Braves all but hoisted the National League pennant to their flagpole today by twice drubbing the St. Louis Cardinals, 11-3 in the opener, as Johnny Sain won his twenty second, and 4-0 in the closer, in which Rookie Righthander Vern Bickford twirled his first major league shutout.

The victories were the Braves' seventh and eighth in succession, a new season high. They have won 14 of their last 15.

The double decision gave the Braves a virtually insurmountable lead of 7½ games over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers and eight games over the Cardinals with nine games left to play.

They are nine games ahead of Pittsburgh's fourth-place Pirates and 10½ ahead of the New York Giants in fifth place.

The Braves could win their first pennant in 34 years tomorrow; all that is needed is a Boston victory over the Cardinals and a Pittsburgh triumph over second-place Brooklyn.

A victory tomorrow would give the Braves 87 triumphs against 58 losses and they would have eight games to play. One game has been canceled.

Should the Dodgers lose tomorrow they would have 70 victories and 67 losses with eight games left.

Then, even if the Braves lost all remaining eight while Brooklyn won all eight the Braves would finish the season in first place by a half game.

Bucs Practically Knock Bums Out of Race With Two Wins

Brooklyn, Sept. 21 (AP).—Pittsburgh won two games from Brooklyn today, downing the Dodgers, 6 to 3, in nine full innings after winning a protested game, 12 to 11.

The Pirates took the protested game when Stan Rojek, once a Dodger, lashed a double off the glove of Tom Brown to drive in three runs. Play started with two out in the last of the ninth and two men on base. Joe Bockman was walked to fill the bases and then Rojek connected.

On August 25 at Pittsburgh the Dodgers thought they had won the game, 11 to 9, until Pirate Boss Billy Meyer protested that Relief Pitcher Carl Erskines had not disposed of one batter before being sent to the showers.

President Ford Frick upheld the protest.

Today's game was started at the point where Erskine gave way to Hank Behrman a month ago, with two men on base in the last half of the ninth and the count three balls and one strike on Eddie Bockman.

Tony Floored In Eleventh, Unable to Answer Bell

By Gayle Talbot

Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 21 (AP).—Marcel Cerdan, a terrible, punishing little fighter from French Morocco, beat Tony Zale into a state of utter helplessness tonight and won the world middleweight championship while the iron man from Gary, Ind., sat glassy-eyed on his stool.

Referee Paul Cavalier looked at the 34-year-old Tony as his seconds worked frantically over him between the eleventh and twelfth rounds, and spread his hands in a gesture which told 25,000 fans in the stadium that it was all over—that the title had changed hands.

Under New Jersey rules it was declared a twelfth round knockout.

For 11 rounds, Zale, who rewon the 160-pound crown only last June in Newark, N. J., from Rock Graziano, had taken cruel, numbing punishment from the tireless Cerdan. He had won only two rounds, and had been beaten mercilessly.

They Couldn't Revive Him.

Just as the bell sounded to end the eleventh round, Zale sank to his knees, his eyes unseeing as Cerdan returned to his corner. Tony's seconds virtually carried him to his stool, and it was apparent that it would require a miracle to send him out for the next round.

A moment after it ended, the ring was hip-deep in Frenchmen, each of them intent upon being the first to plant a kiss on the bruised cheeks of the new champion.

Marcel, looking almost fresh, stood and grinned and took it big.

Zale, who entered the ring a 5-8 favorite and widely expected to win by a knockout, carried only the third and fourth rounds on the Associated Press scoresheet. Referee Cavalier gave him those rounds and called the ninth even.

There was no question about the other eight.

Tony's only big round was the fourth. In that one he caught Cerdan a lulu of a right on the whiskers, shaking the Frenchman up and causing him to hold on for a moment. That was the only time Cerdan appeared to be hurt even for an instant.

Otherwise, the fight followed a fairly set pattern. Cerdan, a dark, murderous little mauler, waded in with his chin protected by his shoulder and poured cruel left hooks and short, punishing rights to Zale's head.

Zale, who had been expected to cut the Frenchman in two at the middle with his deadly rights to the body, seldom could find a target. Marcel was elusive, and besides he was throwing so many punches himself that Tony never had a chance to get set.

As the rounds went on and Cerdan continued to throw leather, Zale's face took on a crimson hue and his mouth began to hang open.

Before the tenth round, it was all too obvious that he would have to score a knockout to retain his crown.

Accumulation of Blows

The eleventh saw Cerdan boring in relentlessly, landing three punches to Zale's one and trying hard for the kill. Toward the end Tony plainly was in distress as he stood with his back against the ropes and absorbed dozen's of blows to the head, but even so, it came as something of a surprise when he dropped to his knees at the bell.

Not one punch did it. Rather it was the accumulation of savage jolts delivered by the Casbah clouter. It would have been heartless to have sent the gaunt-faced gamester out to take more.

Cavalier said afterward that he counted Zale out between the rounds. He said it was necessary, under Jersey law, to do so in order to make it officially a twelfth-round knockout. If he did any counting, however, it must have been under his breath. His gesture of spread hands was the first inkling anyone had that it was over.

Zale Simply Too Exhausted To Continue

By Whitney Martin

Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 21 (AP).—Tony Zale was just worn out, bushed, exhausted.

He admitted as much as, surrounded by a ring of reporters and photographers after his defeat by Marcel Cerdan, he tried to answer a flow of questions.

"I just didn't have it tonight," he said, and his second, Ray Arcel, elaborated by explaining that Tony was not really knocked out by any one punch, but just dropped exhausted from the cumulative effect of the action and blows.

Tony at first couldn't recall that he had a clean shot at the busy Frenchman during the bout, but when some one mentioned the fourth round, when he connected fairly solidly with Cerdan's jaw, he nodded and said "Yeh, yeh."

"He hits pretty fair," Tony admitted, but when asked to compare Cerdan's punching power with that of Rocky Graziano, added:

"No, he doesn't hit as hard as Graziano."

Zale bluntly informed his questioners that he did not intend to quit the ring, and that he'd be willing o meet Cerdan again.

Arcel, filling in the conversation, said he knew about the fifth or sixth round that Zale just didn't have it. As for the reason for Tony's tiring, other than the action and Cerdan's busy fists, Arcel commented:

"After all, he hasn't gone 15 rounds in seven years."

Al Houghton Second To 68 by Spencer

Elizabeth City, N. C., Sept. 21 (AP).—Posting a four under par 68 for a new competitive course record, Cliff Spencer, the host pro, won the pro tournament at the Elizabeth City Golf Club today against a field of crack Virginia, Maryland, District of Columbia and North Carolina shotmakers.

Placing second was Al Houghton, Prince Georges Country Club of Maryland, who tourned the compact Carolina course in 34-35—69.

A Clearer Perspective

Pregame Oratory by Coach Thing of Past for Colonials

It came to light yesterday that Bo Rowland, a man of few but pungent words, has introduced something new in coaching technique at George Washington university.

Rowland has dispensed with the pregame pep talk, famed in fiction if not fact as the psychological strategy used by many coaches to win games in which they apparently didn't have a chance.

Instead of trying to whip his boys into a fighting lather, Rowland has a more businesslike approach.

During the week before a game, Rowland and his coaching assistants drill the fundamentals of tackling and blocking into players.

In the clubhouse before the game, he goes over the assignments with his players and analyzes the opposing team's strengths and weakneses. He gives the players credit for having adult minds and a deep desire to have a clear understanding of what they are expected to do in combat.

The result is that when the G.W. players take the field, they are certain they know what to do, and do it with confidence.

They were so certain of their assignments last week that they stayed close to Wake Forest for three quarters. Then, outmanned, they fell behind, but kept fighting in a 27-13 defeat.

Rowland was pleased by the G.W. spirit, which, mixed with improved offensive power, might Cambridge Springs, Pa., Sept. 21 (AP).—Steve Lach, star fullback who set a Pittsburgh Steelers all-time club record by scoring nine touchdowns last season, was released today without explanation by Coach John Michelosen.

Lach's discharge came as a surprise, since he was the Steelers' second leading ground-gainer in 1947 with 372 y

Dr. Johnson Wins 7th Victory in His 30th Race This Year

At W&L, VMI

Football OK, But Studies Come First

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Lexington, Va., Sept. 21.—In an era when at most other schools the academic year begins and ends with the football season, it's a pleasant change of pace to visit Washington and Lee University and Virginia Military Institute.

These two institutions here in the heart of historic Virginia also have football teams, but the coaches, players, students and faculty members do not regard a successful season as the most important thing in the world. Neither do they look upon a losing season as a catastrophe.

Bell is Campus Leader

On the football teams of W&L and VMI, whose campuses practically adjoin, are found the schools' leaders. Brian Bell of Washington, for instance, is on the dean's list and student athletic committee and is a fraternity official and an academic leader.

Bell also happens to be one of the best fullbacks Washington and Lee has ever had.

Over at VMI, Jim Cobb, a guard, is a lieutenant in the Keydet corps, a high campus honor.

The NCAA "purity code" and other similar attempts to curb commercialism in college football was greeted indifferently here. As far as W & L and VMI were concerned, there was no need for a "purity" code. They were already pure.

The Generals had only 22 men out for spring practice and even today Coach Art Lewis, former Cleveland Ram co-coach and line star, has a squad of less than 35 to work with. Yet Lewis is frank enough to admit that he expects to have a better team this year than in 1947 when his Generals broke even in 10 games.

At VMI, where Arthur (Slick) Morton, onetime LSU halfback, holds forth, the Keydets have about the same number of men and are able to practice only about five hours a week.

Yet Morton also feels his youngsters will be an improvement over last year when VMI won only three games. The Keydets have only three men who weigh as much as 200 pounds.

Thomason Top Passer

But in Bobby Thomason, a senior from Leeds, Ala., the Keydets have one of the best passers in the country and on his arm they hope to ride to a good season. Coach Morton thinks Thomason is a better passer than Y. A. Tittle, Baltimore's sensation, and Morton is in a position to know. He coached 'em both.

Bell, a bruising 210-pounder, is called by his coach: "The finest competitor I've ever known." He is the leading ground gainer, the "brain" of the team and also makes most of the tackles.

When the son of the late Washington newspaperman graduated from Western High, he had his choice of 10 schools, all offering "good scholarships."

Bell, an athlete whose ability would be welcomed anywhere, selected Washington and Lee. Yes, he's here on a scholarship—a scholastic scholarship, not athletic.

Washington and Lee and VMI aren't in the football business. They can't and don't attempt to outbid rivals for high school stars. Their selling point is simply this:

Washington and Lee and VMI are two of the finest schools in the country. It's a distinct honor to be graduated from either. There are a limited number of scholarships at both schools, but the scholarships include only tuition, books and room and board. The same scholarships are available to the non-athlete.

Football is not a too profitable business at the two schools. To make what little money they do realize from football, the school must play a schedule which includes teams like Georgia Tech, Tulane, and Pennsylvania, acknowledged powerhouses. The coaches and players know they're in for a licking, but those teams must be played yearly to prevent football from being a deficit instead of a single profit.

Once by the "money" games, the Keydets and Generals swing into a schedule against State opposition which includes Virginia, VPI, Richmond and William and Mary.

W. and L. won a Southern Conference title last in 1934, VMI years before that. But win, lose or draw, football has always been and will continue to be what the game was intended to be—sport, not business.

"We would rather graduate a lawyer than a sensational tailback," said W. and L. Coach Art Lewis.

"The Virginia Military Institute was not founded by football players," said Morton. "We want to have good teams, sure, but the football player, like the rest of the students, must rough it here."

6-Year-Old Near Record At Bel Air

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bel Air, Md., Sept. 21.—Dr. Johnson had all his speed and won the Upper Falls Purse, today's Bel Air feature, by a length and a quarter while under the handling of Apprentice Willie Downs of Curtis Bay, Md.

Performing in the colors of J. K. Wynkoop of Chambersburg, Pa., Dr. Johnson hung defeat on R. N. Boerner's Breakable Miss, with Mrs. Van Lear Black's Gay Wildly third in the field of six.

Dr. Johnson, one of the busiest horses on the Nation's turf, was running his 30th race of the year and turned in his seventh victory.

With the Clover Del Stable's Dusty Roads installed the favorite, despite being beaten in his previous race by Breakable Miss, backers of Dr. Johnson took down an $8.20 mutuel.

Rain Falls but Track Fast

The winning 6-year-old son of Boswell was clocked in 1:42 2/5, only a fifth of a second over the track record set here in 1946 by Fleetest for the mile and 70 yards. A drizzle that marked most of the program had turned into a rain before the race but the running strip was still in fast condition.

Dr. Johnson went to the front at the start of the distance affair and Downs saved much ground with him as Waygood Girl made repeated efforts to take command. At the far turn, Breakable Miss began a move that was to take her around horses.

In the early stretch, Breakable Miss went to the front and her backers thought it was all over but the pay-off. However, young Downs shook up Dr. Johnson and the old doc had his punch, going into the line with some daylight to spare.

Steeplechase favorites continue to win here. Mrs. C. E. Adams' Gift of Gold proved the third winning favorite of this meeting over the brush. Jockey F. D. Adams brought the 7-year-old home at a $3.40 mutuel. Mrs. N. L. Brown's Mechanize was second with Mrs. W. D. Thomas' Rollo third.

Jockey Jimmy Walsh suffered undetermined injuries when he fell from E. M. Cope's Murad Reis into the path of other horses. He was sent to the Harve de Grace Hospital for examination.

The daily double on the 8-3 combination paid $169.20. Craggwood Farm's Big Moose surprised by winning the first at $21 while E. Nagel's Royal Step upset the talent in the second at $20.80.

Mrs. Bower Has Close Call in Mid-Atlantic Golf

Medalist Wins First Match, 1-Up

The Middle Atlantic women golfers yesterday proved themselves excellent mudders, playing their first round of match play at Congressional Country Club through a daylong deluge with nary a default.

In a championship flight loaded with top-ranking area linkswomen, no real upsets were recorded.

Perhaps the closest thing to an upset was June Vogel's defeat of Mrs. Ann Stonemetz Little, 3 and 1. Miss Vogel, who was the Baltimore Country Club champion in 1946 at the of 21, had her bags packed before her match with the Fort Benning titlist. Tied up at the end of 14 holes, Miss Vogel took the next three holes to win going away, 3 and 1.

Mrs. A. B. Bower, the District champion who won the qualifying medal with 78, took the full 18 holes to defeat Elizabeth Garber, a District school teacher. Mrs. Bower trailed her opponent for 15 holes before she rallied to even it up on the 16th, finally gaining her one-hole margin of victory on the 17th. They halved the 18th.

Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud of Kenwood had an even steeper uphill grind in her match against Mrs. S. F. Little, sr., of Army-Navy. Mrs. Trouchaud had to make up a four-hole deficit at the turn to beat Mrs. Little, 1 up.

The lone south Virginian entered, Mrs. Herbert Allen, Newport News, survived the day, beating Mrs. L. G. Pray, of Columbia, 1 up, in 22 holes.

Somebody "big" has got to fall in today's matches, as Mrs. Walter Stokes, of Manor, and Mrs. Betty Meckley, of Kenwood, with five Middle Atlantic titles between them, meet in the second round. Both have recently won their club championships.

Mrs. Meckley had no great difficulty in disposing of Mrs. D. H. Henderson, 4 and 2, yesterday. Mrs. Stokes, whose game was somewhat ragged, won a 2 up victory over Mrs. Rex Howard of Kenwood.

Yesterday's results:
Championship Flight
Mrs. A. B. Bower, Manor, defeated Miss E. Garber, guest, 1 up; Miss M. A. Downey, B.-C. C., defeated Mrs. S. B. Crocker, 2 up; Miss J. Vogel, B.-C. C., defeated Mrs. S. F. Little, jr., A.-N., 3 and 1; Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud, Kenwood, defeated Mrs. S. F. Little, sr., A.-N., 1 up; Mrs. W. R. Stokes, Manor, defeated Mrs. Rex Howard, Kenwood, 2 up; Mrs. B. Meckley, Kenwood, defeated Mrs. D. H. Henderson, Cong., 4 and 2; Mrs. T. E. Schluederberg, S.-C. C., defeated Mrs. R. D. Walters, Manor, 7 and 6; Mrs. H. Allen, James River, defeated Mrs. L. G. Pray, Columbia, 1 up, 22 holes.

Sonny Boy West Fights Shapiro Here on Monday

Sonny Boy West, Washington's climbing young lightweight, returns to the Griffith Stadium Monday night in a 10-round bout against Maxie Shapiro, veteran "trial horse."

Fast punching Sonny Boy scored a technical knockout over Herbie (Biff) Jones in his last local outing. Just before that fight, he decisioned highly regarded Jimmy McAllister in Baltimore.

Shapiro, a contender five years ago, holds victories over such prominent lightweights as former Champ Bob Montgomery, Sal Bartolo, Ruby Garcia and Jackie Callura. However, recently he was held to a draw by Mike Giosa, and lost to Al Pennino.

Chamberlain Changes Tactics; Brother Team Leads Episcopal

New Coach Has His Hands Full

Only Undergrads Now Eligible

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Lee McLaughlin, after serving as assistant coach for three years, has inherited the head coaching job at Episcopal High of Alexandria. However, he did not inherit much of Episcopal's 1947 undefeated team.

Twenty-two members of last year's team graduated, and the big former Green Bay Packers' tackle is starting all over again, building what he hopes will be another undefeated eleven in two years. He'll be lucky to break even this season.

McLaughlin's team will be built around a brother combination, Buck and Frank Boxley.

Buck, a 194-pound tackle, is one of the seven holdovers from last year's squad.

Frank, though only 15 and with only jayvee experience, will hold down the key quarterback position. The 152-pound passer and runner replaces Rufe Barkley, who graduated to the University of Virginia along with Bus Males, last year's Episcopal coach. Males is now freshman football coach at the Charlottesville school.

Buck Boxley's mate at tackle will be Granny Paynter, who weighs 198 pounds.

For one of the end positions, McLaughlin has drafted a 6-foot, 6-inch, 180-pound basketball player, Charlie Gamble, who never played football before this year. Gamble is fast, and his experience in handling a basketball is helping him hang onto passes.

Besides Buck Boxley, veterans left are End Jack Dilweg, Center Bailey Dixon, Guard Lou Showalter, Halfbacks Ralph Williams and Isham Sheffield and Fullback Bob Hinton. All will be regulars.

A lot is expected of Hinton, who understudied Tommy Birge, one of the greatest athletes in Episcopal's history. Hinton passes, punts and runs well.

The right guard position is still open with Bob Poston and Andre Farrish, the chief candidates.

It's a pretty good first team, but Episcopal is not very deep in reserves. McLaughlin, with an eye toward the future, will nevertheless have to gamble on his untried second and third teams.

AFTER THREE years of failure, Chamberlain Vocational High is starting all over again trying to build its athletic standards to the level of the public high league teams.

In 1945, Chamberlain fielded its first interscholastic teams, with the objective of one-day entering them in Interhigh League competition.

Since then, an influx of graduated high school athletes and a big-time schedule, have failed to boost the enrollment of boys above 100. And the teams haven't gained any ground in attaining Interhigh standards.

So, this year, Football Coach Frosty Powers has changed his tactics. He's going to use only high school undergraduates, and play only smaller schools like Gaithersburg, Woodward and Longwood Prep.

With opening game still two weeks away, he's pleased with his team's progress despite its youth and inexperience.

Under his new eligibility regulations, only Tailback John Sherry and Guard Ellis Kiatta are allowed to play from last year's team. Kiatta and the rest of the squad will be at Chamberlain for at least two more years.

THE REGULARS are all 16 and under and promise to be a big bruising team by 1950. Most stand between 5 feet 11 and 6 feet 2 inches and all weigh under 175.

Among the most promising of Powers' youngsters are End Bob Bartlett, Halfback George Bickel and Quarterback Bobby Horrell. Bartlett, 15, and 6 fett 2 inches, had a year's experience at George Washington High of Alexandria. Bickel was in Eastern's No. 2 backfield last year. And Horrell, just out of Hine Junior High, proved his athletic ability by making Chamberlain's varsity basketball team last February.

Backfield figures in Powers' modified box attack are Bickel, Horrell, George Sullivan, Russell Curtis. A pair of reserve ends who will also see lots of action are Bill Capps and Gene Ferguson.

Kaiser, Dollar In Regatta Race

Two of the wealthiest men in America have entered powerboats in the President's Cup Regatta feature races Saturday on the Potomac River off Hains Point.

Skipalong, Allison motor-powered Gold Cup boat has been entered by R. Stanley Dollar, jr., son of the Dollar Line Steamship Co. owner.

Fleur de lac has been put into the race by Henry Kaiser, West Coast industrialist. The Fleur de lac will arrive in town today, along with its driver, Max Collins. Kaiser plans to take a trial spin in the 1250 horsepowered craft.

McCarthy's 72 Takes Medal

A score of oldtimers braved the rain yesterday to compete in the medal round of the Maryland State Golf Association seniors' championships at Columbia Country Club.

Martin J. McCarthy of the home club, the president of the District Golf Association, was all alone in the race for the medal, finishing wit ha 72, two over par.

L. G. Whitten of Washington Golf and Country Club came closest to the medalist, with a 75. Whitten, however, withdrew from the match play which begins today.

Another medal for entrants over 60 years old went to Capt. R. C. Bogart, father of many-times District titlist Ralph Bogart, who shot an 80.

The match play field, which was reduced by withdrawals to 14, had seven Baltimoreans. Match play will continue until Saturday.

12:30—Martin McCarthy, Col., 72, vs. Charles Baker, Col., 89.
12:35—George Elsey, C. C. of Md., 84, vs. A. Reed, Sparrows Point, 91.
12:40—Dr. W. J. McLister, Wash., 81, vs. R. E. Roudbush, C. C. of Md., 90.
A. H. Stump, Green Spring Valley, 86, bye.
12:45—John R. Miller, Man., 80, vs. Clark Stoddard, Man., 89.
12:55—R. E. Mahar, Col., 84, vs. T. T. Speer, Green Spring Valley, 91.
Comdr. Phillip Hambsch, Naval Academy, 88, bye.

Here Is Correct Arkansas Schedule

The University of Arkansas football schedule, recently carried in The Washington Post, was incorrect. The correct schedule is:

September 25, East Texas State, home.
October 2 at Texas Christian; 9, Baylor, home; 16, at Texas; 30, at Texas A. and M.
November 6, Rice, home; 13, Southern Methodist, home; 21, Tulsa, at Little Rock; 27, William and Mary, at Little Rock.

No Pep Talks For GW Boys

cause a great deal of trouble for Virginia Tech this Saturday at Blacksburg, Va.

The Colonial camp is all pepped up about the showing of Andy Davis, the Washington, D. C., fullback, who played his first College game against Wake Forest.

The former McKinley Tech high star accounted for 111 of his team's 167 yards gained. The 167-pound fullback, an Army veteran, has three more years of eligibility.

Not much improvement could be asked in his pa sing against the Deacs. Andy completed six out of nine for 87 yards and one touchdown. In seven rushes, he picked up 24 yards. His only punt, in the face of an onrushing Wake Forest line, traveled 31 yards.

Athletic Director Max Farrington reported yesterday that the G. W. vs. Virginia Military Institute game of next year, may take place at G. W. High studium in Alexandria.

Alexandria celebrates its bicentennial next year, and the game would be part of the celebration.

It's a V. M. I. home game, and Athletic Director Frank Summembers, who lives in Alexandria, hopes to close the game by the end of November.

Civil Service Folk Suffer If Commission Dodges Responsibility

Career people look hopefully and with faith to the Civil Service Commission to protect them from the politicians who are out to get them and their jobs for political reasons. They have no other place to turn.

It goes without saying that an aggressive commission could become vital to the merit system, to career employes, and to good government after the November elections. There is always that possibility. On the other hand, a subservient and supple body could wreck employe morale and hold the door open to political chicanery.

So it is a bit sad to see the commission dodge responsibility in a case involving a career employe—particularly a case where political charges are involved. This is the story:

More than a year ago Senator Sheridan Downey (D., Calif.) charged among other things that Richard L. Boke was not qualified to be regional director of the Reclamation Service's Central Valley project because he wasn't an engineer. The commission agreed to investigate his charges.

The commission investigators spent months digging up all they could find that would have a bearing on Boke's ability. Dozens of people in and out of Government were interviewed. The inside dope was that the investigator's report was favorable to Boke.

However, it was up to the three-man commission to make a decision in the case it volunteered to take. The commission stalled. Tremendous pressure was put on the commission by members of Congress, Cabinet members and others to make public its decision.

But the commission chose to take what it thought was the easy way out. It wrote Interior Secretary Krug a letter to say that it was closing the case without making a decision inasmuch as Congress had voted, in effect, to stop Boke's pay on next February 1 because he isn't an engineer.

Good or bad, a decision should have been made and announced to the public. As it is, the commission has knuckled under to the pro and anti-Boke factions. This is a splendid example of how employe confidence in the commisison can be undermined.

PHS: You can look for Dr. Thomas Parran to retire soon from the Public Health Service. He was its surgeon general for many years. He can retire under a new PHS law which was approved by Congress in the spring . . .

COMMERCE: Ralph Hetzel is the new director of Commerce's Office of Program Planning. He had been an assistant . . . NLRB: New assistant general counsels are Ruth Weyand and Winthrop A. Johns . . . AIR FORCES: It will appoint all civilians to its new board to hear appeals from its employes who are accused of disloyalty.

LOYALTY: Governor Dewey is reported to have a researcher in this city to gather information on all phases of the President's loyalty program. The GOP presidential candidate, it's reported, will make a major speech attacking the loyalty program and take various cracks at Communists-in-Government during his campaign.

EXAMS: The campaign—it must be a campaign—to upset Federal workers sems to rarely stop. Career secretaries are the victims of the latest bit of gossip and misinformation that worries.

People who should be responsible in a number of agencies have warned secretaries who have permanent status and who have worked for Uncle Sam up to 20 and 25 years that they should apply for and take the secretarial test so they can "retain their present grades." This is what W. A. McCoy, chief of Civil Service's examining unit, has to say about the tall talk:

"If a secretary has status in her job, there is no point whatever in her taking the secretarial examination. Her present status and grade wouldn't be affected one way or the other by it."

McCoy did say that he expects typists, clerks and other status employes in lower grades will take the secretarial test in the hope of being promoted to secretarial jobs.

TESTS: And on the general subject of Civil Service exams, the commission is preparing to make public a list of tests it will give over the next six months. Among them will be:

A new exam for CAF-1 through 3 clerical workers; one for CAF-5 and 6 clerical people; another for CAF-7 through 12 clerical and administrative people; helpers at the Government Printing Office information and public relations people, apprentices.

Yoke Robber Gang Broken By 4 Arrests, Police Claim

3 Held in Slaying Of Railroad Man, Fourth Detained On Robbery Count

By Alfred E. Lewis and John W. Brigham
Post Reporters

What police call "one of the most vicious gang of yoke robbers ever to operate in the District" was believed broken up yesterday.

Greenleaf

Three men were held for the grand jury on a murder charge and another on a robbery count. Their arrests were attributed by police to the gang's custom of beating and robbing persons who did not live in the neighborhood of 61st and Dix sts. ne., center of its operations. Police said the gang sought as victims only persons who could not easily identify them, and after robbing them fled across the District Line.

Police say three of the gang were separately implicated, by statements of the others, in the murder of John Gant, 55, of 6015 Eads st. ne. Gant, a coach cleaner at Union Station, died in Casualty Hospital last Thursday from head wounds. Three men had pounded him with a brick and robbed him of $10 the previous night in the 6200 block of Dix st., detectives learned. Police charge his head was deliberately bashed in when his attackers recognized, too late, that he lived in that neighborhood and could identify them if he lived.

Gant died without regaining consciousness. John B. Greenleaf, 37, of 701 60th pl., Fairmont Heights, Md., was picked up by detectives. Questioning implicated him and two others in the Gant murder, police said.

Held Without Bail

Greenleaf and the other two, Edward J. Blake, 21, of 611 62d ave., Fairmont Heights, and Leroy Smith, 25, of 701 White House rd., Landover, Md., were held without bail by a coroner's jury yesterday for grand jury action, charged with murder.

Called a fourth member of the gang but not implicated in the Gant case, Leroy L. Spriggs, 18, of 611 60th ave., Fairmont Heights, was held in $10,000 bail for the grand jury by Municipal Court Judge Aubrey B. Fennell on a robbery charge.

Spriggs, Greenleaf and Blake were identified Monday night in Episcopal Eye and Ear Hospital by Miss Bertha Gaston, 37, of 547 25th pl. nw., as the three men who beat and robbed her the day before at 1:45 a. m. at 61st and Dix sts. ne. Her face was so badly beaten her upper and lower jaws were fractured.

She was robbed of $7 in cash and $132 worth of valuables. Her male escort was slapped in the face and told to "beat it" when the thugs asked him where he lived and he pointed to a house nearby.

Precinct Detective Patrick A. Deenahan and Detective Sergt. Lloyd B. Furr of the robbery squad arrested Blake in the Gaston case. They said he admitted the charge and implicated Greenleaf in both the Gaston and Gant cases. When Greenleaf was arrested, the detectives said, he implicated Smith and Smith was arrested.

Police listed six other similarly vicious robberies, to which they say members of the gang have confessed. They were:

William Moore, 34, of 5408 Blaine st. ne., beaten and robbed of $9 at 61st and Dix sts. ne. at 10:30 p. m. July 5.

Joseph Courtney, 2906 Stanton rd. se., beaten and robbed of $4 at 44th and Gault sts. ne. on June 12.

Eddie Hollaway, 39, of 45 O st. ne., beaten so severely his head required 53 stitches at Casualty Hospital, and robbed of 67 cents at 61st and Dix sts. ne. at 2 a. m. August 30.

Dempsey Scott, 4935 Grant st. ne., beaten and robbed of $2.50 at 51st and Grant sts. ne. at 9 p. m., April 23.

Herbert L. Hill, 44, of 529 56th st. ne., robbed of $9 at 56th st. and Deane ave. ne. at 11:15 p. m. June 19.

George W. Effinger, 6519 Buchanan st., Maryland Park, Md., beaten and robbed of $2 at 63d and Clay sts. ne. at 12:30 a. m., August 24.

Ambrose Bell Resigns as D. C. Health Official

Ambrose P. Bell, public health engineer consultant, has resigned from the District Health Department to accept a position with the Louisville and Jefferson County (Ky.) Board of Health.

The resignation was announced yesterday by Dr. George C. Ruhland, District health officer, who said he had accepted it "with regret." The resignation becomes effective October 15.

Bell joined the local health department in March, 1941, as a junior public health engineer. He was appointed to his present position in January, 1942. Bell lives at 9118 Bradford rd., Silver Spring.

Co-Trustee For Patterson Will Named

MRS. ALICIA P. GUGGENHEIM
Late Publisher's Niece

Mrs. Alicia Patterson Guggenheim has accepted appointment as cotrustee under the 16-million-dollar will of Eleanor M. Patterson, late owner of the Washington Times-Herald.

Mrs. Guggenheim replaces the late Rudolph H. Yeatman, sr., attorney for Mrs. Patterson and named by her to administer charitable trusts for homeless and orphan children. The other trustees, Frank C. Waldrop, Times-Herald editor, and Joseph Brooks, a New York attorney, made the appointment.

"While our own appointments as trustees are not yet legally confirmed," Waldrop and Brooks said, "we feel it our responsibility to act in this matter at this time."

Mrs. Guggenheim, who resides at Hempstead, Long Island, is Mrs. Patterson's niece and is the daughter of the late Joseph M. Patterson, publisher of the New York News.

She publishes Newsday, a daily publication in Hempstead, and is the wife of Harry F. Guggenheim, former Ambassador to Cuba and an authority on aeronautics.

After the announcement was made, Mrs. Guggenheim said:

"I am most happy to accept the appointment as cotrustee under my aunt's will. I am convinced that the document filed for probate represents her last will and testament and I shall support it in every way in my power."

Her appointment is subject to District Court approval.

Meanwhile, the Riggs National Bank obtained District Court authority to manage all local real estate owned by Mrs. Patterson at the time of her death.

The bank has been appointed the estate collector.

A suit contesting the will was filed by Mrs. Patterson's daughter, Countess Felicia Gizycka, who was left a $25,000 yearly bequest under the will. Should the testament be invalidated, the countess stands to receive the entire 16-million-dollar fortune which was distributed among friends, relatives, charities and Times-Herald officials.

The realty the Riggs bank will manage is valued at $1,230,427, according to the collector. It includes the mansion at 15 Dupont Circle, willed to the Red Cross, 1509, 1511, 1517, and 1519 Connecticut ave. and the Times-Herald location at 1317 H st. nw.

Society Editor's Death Certified as 'Natural'

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday issued a certificate confirming that the death of Miss Elizabeth Kenney (Betty) Hynes, 50, society editor of the Times-Herald, was due to natural causes.

He earlier had issued a temporary certificate attributing Miss Hynes' death to a heart attack.

Miss Hynes was found dead in her home here September 14.

Ohio Woman Kills Herself in Home Of Sister Here

A 50-year-old Bellaire, Ohio, woman was found hanged yesterday in the home of her sister, whom she had been visiting for a week.

Detectives said Mrs. Hazel Spencer was found dead by her sister, Mrs. Edna Pikly, 4347 Harrison st. nw., in the bathroom of the Pikly home around 10 a. m. Her body was suspended from a hinge of the door by the cloth belt of her housecoat.

Police said they learned Mrs. Spencer had been undergoing treatment for a nervous disorder for some time. A certificate of suicide was issued by Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, District coroner.

According to police, Mrs. Spencer had been a frequent visitor to Washington, alternating her visits between the homes of Mrs. Pikly and her son, Robert L. Spencer, 32 Jefferson st. ne.

Corning Asks New School Construction

D. C. Can't Meet Building Needs On Pay-as-You-Go Basis, He Says

White junior and senior high school buildings, now only partially filled, will be crowded above capacity when war babies now entering elementary grades reach high school age.

Schools Superintendent Hobart M. Corning, speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club of Washington at the Hotel Statler yesterday, cited this as an example of the long-range planning necessary to provide sufficient schools for the District's "varying and shifting populations."

A school construction program financed by a loan is "the only way we can keep boys and girls in school full time," Corning said, renewing a bid he made a year ago for Federal aid.

Cites Population Shifts

"The District can never meet its school building needs under the present pay-as-you-go plan," he said.

The school head said that it is not fair for today's taxpayers to be saddled with the cost of buildings that will be used for years. Other cities are financing their school construction by bond issues, Corning said.

Shifting of populations during the war resulted in overcrowding some schools while others were not filled to capacity, he said. White high school enrollments, which declined during the war, have continued to drop, he said.

Enrollment Gains

An indication that high schools will be filled in years to come is found in this semester's elementary school enrollment. There are 5229 more children in the first three grades than in grades 4, 5 and 6.

Corning said that when he came to Washington 2½ years ago nearly 7000 pupils were on part time. This has been reduced to 2639.

County to Ask D. C. for Use Of Classrooms

Possible use of available Washington classrooms for some of Prince Georges County's 24,000 school children was proposed yesterday.

The suggestion came from William A. Carson, president of the Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners, after the board asserting a letter from County School Supt. G. Gardner Shugart, asserting the schools need at least ten million dollars in school buildings to meet the present emergency.

To See D. C. Officials

Carson said members of his board will confer with Washington officials to seek an agreement to permit use of vacant rooms by Prince Georges children.

The commissioners indicated they do not believe the Maryland eneral Assembly will authorize more than two million dollars in bonds per year for schools. The Assembly meets in January.

The school board reported that 23,830 children had registered by yesterday, which would indicate that 24,000 will be in the county schools by the end of the month. There were 22,000 last year.

The first and second grades of two schools, staggering under the load of war babies, were ordered on double shifts.

Mount Rainier elementary, with 182 pupils in the two grades, will begin today with classes divided into shifts from 9 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 12:30 to 4 p. m. Two teachers have been added.

Two Sessions at Ager

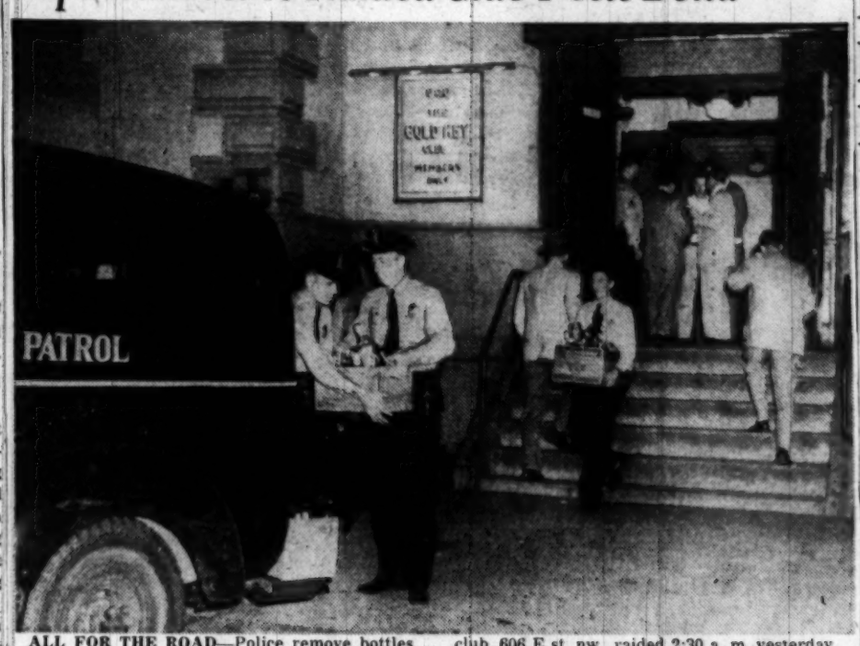
Ager Road elementary, with 191 pupils, will begin Thursday with two sessions from 8:45 a. m. to 12:15 p. m. and from 12:45 to 4:15 p. m. Two teachers also have been added there.

Shugart wrote the board that an elementary school for Mount Rainier-Brentwood had been asked by citizens of that area in a 100-foot long petition.

The school, with 16 classrooms, a cafeteria, a library and an auditorium, would cost at least $750,000, he said, and would mean "either excluding other needed construction or increasing the amount of bonds to be issued." The superintendent said the school board had suggested that only the first unit be built and that older buildings continue in use.

The board also proposes, he wrote, that the first unit of the proposed western suburban area high school be built on Colesville rd.

Liquor Tax Agents to Probe Gold Key Case; Reputed Host of Raided Club Posts Bond



ALL FOR THE ROAD—Police remove bottles of whisky from the Gold Key after-hours bottle club, 606 E st. nw., raided 2:30 a. m. yesterday. About 1000 bottles were seized

THIS WAY OUT—Two attractive young women are pictured leaving the raided Gold Key Club before dawn yesterday. One (left) holds a subpena, passed out at the door by cops

Liquor tax investigators today will enter the case of the Gold Key Club.

Twenty-five policemen routed 73 persons and seized about 1000 bottles of whisky in the swanky, after-hours, private club in a onetime church edifice at 606 E st. nw. at 2:30 a. m. yesterday.

Albert B. Glickfield, 46, of 2108 16th st. nw., said by police to be president of the club and also to be known as Al Brown, was released a few hours later by Judge Ellen K. Raedy in Municipal Court in $500 bond for jury trial November 17. Glickfield is listed in the city directory as secretary-treasurer of the Fraunces Corp., operators of the Manor, 2108 16th st. nw.

Two waitresses arrested with Glickfield, Mrs. Virginia Womack, 24, of 706 E st. ne., and Mrs. Shirley D. Sandall, 40, of 405 Quackenbos st. nw., also were freed in $500 bond each for jury trials November 17. All three were charged with keeping and selling whisky without a license.

Capt. Howard V. Covell of the First Police Precinct, said last night that at the request of police, agents of the Internal Revenue Bureau, the District Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and the District Tax Office today will examine club records and the confiscated whisky to determine if other charges may be filed. Covell said some of the bottles bore no Federal tax stamps.

Police also seek an explanation of a 2 per cent tax on purchases reputedly shown on customers' tabs. After hours club members are supposed to have their own, private bottles in the club, on which the tax already has been paid.

Of the 73 persons found in the club, Captain Covell said, only 5 held membership cards, but temporary cards could be purchased on entering for $1.50. Sixteen musicians, entertainers, hat check girls and other employes were among those released after police had taken their names, along with those of the 57 patrons. Summonses will be served on the patrons and employes for their appearance at the trial.

The raid had been carefully planned by First Precinct detectives. When the raiders, led by Covell and Inspector John Jeffries, acting night superintendent of police, entered the club, already inside were Pvt. Frank Manthos, the First Prtcinct's "one-man vice squad"; Detective Mark Gray and Detective Pearl Pythian of the Women's Bureau. Manthos said he purchased whiskey from waitresses on previous visits and a $20 marked bill he used early yesterday was said to have been found in the cash register.

About 25 patrons in the club at the time of the raid appeared at the court hearing and were told by Judge Raedy to be ready to appear as witnesses at the trial.

The Gold Key Club, where police said the records showed one patron spent $500 in one night recently, was formerly a Protestant church, later was used by the Knights of Columbus and finally was a Salvation Army headquarters.

Coronation Set For Regatta Queen 'Gery' Clifford

Pretty Margery (Gery) Clifford, 16-year-old daughter of the President's special adviser and Mrs. Clark Clifford, will be crowned queen of the seventeenth President's Cup Regatta in ceremonies Friday at 8:15 p. m. at the Willard Hotel.

Members of the Cabinet, high Government officials, military leaders and other dignitaries have been invited to attend the coronation, also open to the public. White House aides will serve as escorts for the blonde queen and members of her court.

The United States Navy Band, under Conductor Charles Brendler, will play, and there will be a Navy guard of honor. Other entertainment will be furnished by Ethel Manning and 12 members of the Columbia Opera Co.

Miss Clifford will present trophies to many winners in this weekend's regatta races, off Hains Point in the Potomac.

Realty Broker Hit by Auto On 14th St.

A 46-year-old District real estate broker was seriously injured during last night's rain, as he walked across 14th st. sw., north of the Highway Bridge.

Fred R. Kessler, who lives at 4800-D 28th st., S. Arlington, was taken to Emergency Hospital where attendants said he suffered a lacerated scalp and possible brain injury.

Pvt. W. R. Pilkerton of the Accident Investigation Unit, listed the driver of the car which struck Kessler as Staff Sergt. Joseph Ambrose Fellers, 24, of 522 20th st., S. Arlington.

Private Pilkerton said another car stopped to let Kessler walk east across 14th st. sw., when Sergeant Fellers, driving near the center lane, hit the pedestrian "apparently without seeing him." Fellers is attached to headquarters squadron, Air Transport Service at National Airport.

About three hours earlier, at 5:45 p. m., on the south end of the bridge, a five-car collision tied up traffic from the District for about 15 minutes.

Almas Temple Members To Hear Adm. Gallery

Nobles of Almas Temple will hear Rear Adm. D. V. Gallery, assistant chief, Guided Missiles Section, U. S. Navy, at 12:30 p. m. Friday at a luncheon at the temple, 1315 K st. nw.

Fringe Parking Lots Draw 77 Autos 2d Day

The second day of the District's combined fringe parking lot-shuttle bus scheme yesterday showed a big increase in car patronage and a slight drop in bus passengers.

The District Motor Vehicle Parking Agency reported 62 cars parked at the Municipal Center lot and 15 at the Christian Heurich Brewery lot.

The Capital Transit Co. picked up 42 passengers at the Center lot and six at the brewery lot. Officials at the Center lot said many patrons preferred to walk over to the nearby shopping zone, rather than take the bus.

Receiving Home Children to Move By Thanksgiving

The District Receiving Home for Children probably will be moved to its new home by Thanksgiving.

That was the word yesterday from Public Welfare Department Director John W. Tramburg, who said the moving date will depend on completion of plastering work at the home, and laying of an asphalt tile floor.

Most other work already has been completed, he said. The contract completion date has been set for March, 1949, in order to permit construction of "walk-in" refrigeration at the home. The new home is located on Mount Olivet rd. near Corcoran st. ne.

Reorganized D. C. Health Department Is Proposed

Dr. Ruhland Cites Washington Post Poll With Budget Bid of $2,245,321

Bolstering its request with results of a Washington Post Poll, the District Health Department yesterday asked $2,245,321 to carry on operations for the next fiscal year without curtailing services.

The budgetary request, $203,321 more than provided for the current fiscal year, was submitted to the District Commissioners with a recommendation by Dr. George C. Ruhland that the department be reorganized into six main divisions instead of its present 16 bureaus.

The proposed revamping would consolidate the units into three main divisions: General Medical Care, Maternal and Child Health Services, Administration, Environmental Sanitation, Social Services and District Health Centers.

Besides these six divisions, Dr. Ruhland suggested a separate bureau for the city's two hospitals, Gallinger Municipal Hospital and Glenn Dale Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

Separate directors for Gallinger and Glenn Dale would each carry the same weight of authority as the chiefs of each of the six proposed divisions, he said.

The Health Department budget adhered to the austerity program laid down by District Commissioners' and asked no funds for new construction. Commenting on the Commissioners' orders to keep funds requests at a "restricted level," Dr. Ruhland declared:

"It is hoped that the restrictions expressed in those (the Commissioners') instructions, resulting from lack of funds, will apply for only a temporary period of time. Such a policy, if followed for any length of time, especially in view of the increase in population estimated on July 1, 1948, will result in poorer health for the community and a greater loss of life."

The $203,321 additional sought for the department's operating costs for the year beginning next July 1 was explained as needed largely for "necessary increases in services," within-grade promotions and for needed new employes.

Cites Poll Figures

Dr. Ruhland particularly stressed the local opinion poll conducted by The Washington Post to point out to the District Commissioners that the community feels that the works of public health and hospitals should get their "first consideration."

"On April 14, 1947," Dr. Ruhland advised the Commissioners, "The Washington Post printed the results of a poll taken among District residents for the purpose of ascertaining which out of eight programs of the District Government should receive first, second or third consideration if the amount of tax funds available were not sufficient to cover all the programs."

The listed programs included Health and hospitals, public schools, welfare, police, recreation, public works, public libraries and others.

"In that survey," Dr. Ruhland recounted, "90 per cent of the people rated public health and hospitals as their first, second or third choices. Fifty-one per cent of the people rated public health and hospitals as their first choice.

"Thus, it is clear that the people of Washington have indicated that they consider public health and hospital service as the most important service which they wish to have their Government provide."

Proposal Is Surprise

The reorganization request came as a complete surprise to many of the department's bureau chiefs, health officials said. Although each bureau head knew his own budget recommendations, few were aware of the general consolidation plan. There was much speculation yesterday as to which bureau chiefs might be promoted to

District Baptist Churches Praised For Area Missions

District Baptist Churches were praised last night for their "unselfish efforts" in helping start new mission churches in the city's growing suburbs.

The mission growth was stressed by speakers at the closing session of the city missions conference at Calvary Baptist, 8th and H sts. nw.

The conference was sponsored by the D. C. Convention of Baptist Churches' Missions Department, of which the Rev. Frank Brasington is director.

Among the churches which are sponsoring missions are Fountain Memorial, Congress Heights and Silver Spring. These churches are sponsoring work respectively at Suitland, Md., Carmody Hills se., and Forest Glen, Md.

Principal speakers besides Mr. Brasington, were Dr. L. H. Waters, superintendent of city missions of Richmond, Va.; and Dr. S. F. Dowis of Atlanta, Ga., superintendent of cooperative missions of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Red Files for Congress

Richmond, Va., Sept. 21 (AP).—David P. Bennett of Richmond filed yesterday with the State Board of Elections as a Communist candidate in the Third District race for Congress.

Area News in Brief

A Mysterious Air About Greenbelt

The only thing that everybody agrees about is that there is a tremendous smell in Greenbelt.

Bob Means, artist, who lives at 7-G, and William K. Markley, who lives downstairs at 7-H, on Research rd. in Greenbelt, agree that they can't come out of their homes or open the door because of the odor.

* * * * * * *

Chief George Panagoulis of the town police force is under the impression that the cause of the odor has been removed, but the Markleys and the Meanses disagree. They claim their noses are still working.

It all goes back to a meandering member of the mephitis mephitis family—a skunk to you—which went for a stroll Saturday night near the Means-Markley home.

Means and Markley say a town policeman shot the skunk, which looked like the grand father of all mephitis mephitises. However, Markley also shot at the animal. Just who fired the coup de grace was in dispute. The police think it was Markley but Markley contends it was the policeman.

The skunk crawled into some bushes near the house and both Markley and the policeman, identity unknown, let the matter stand.

But not for long. Markley came out and found a trail of blood leading underneath his porch and the fragrance lingered on.

Calls to the police department, the health department, every town official they could think of and even to the Prince Georges County Commissioners followed, but the odor remained.

Yesterday Chief Panagoulis sent town maintenance men to the scene. The Markley-Means families say the men reported they couldn't find the skunk after much probing and suggested probably the animal had crawled out again and gone into a nearby wooded area to die.

Chief Panagoulis said he understood the skunk had been removed but wasn't sure.

Fuel Unit Appointees

The District Commissioners yesterday named two members to the Fuel Oil Coordinating Committee set up last week under chairmanship of J. Thomas Kennedy.

The men, both of whom served in similar capacities last year, are William H. Press, executive secretary of the Washington Board of Trade, and Charles C. Koones, also a trade board member and a real estate operator.

Named as an industry advisory committee to aid the Fuel Oil Coordinating Committee were D. R. Myers, Shell Oil Co.; B. P. Mackenzie, Sinclair Refining Co.; W. F. Spath, Standard Oil Co.; S. A. Parks, Gulf Oil Corp., and W. C. Connelly, American Oil Co.

Pepco Post Installs

Jerome P. Lynch, 2224 13th st. ne., supervisor of the construction department of the Potomac Electric Power Company, last night was installed as commander of the American Legion's PEPCO Post No. 43. The installation was held at Pepco Auditorium, 10th and E sts. nw.

Other new officers, installed by the Legion's District Department Commander David I. Kisliuk, included: Lawrence A. Sullivan, 10003 Tenbrook dr., Silver Spring, Md., first vice commander; Stanley R. Payne, 9516 Kentstone dr., Wingate, Md., second vice commander; George W. Yeatman, 46 E. Crescent rd., Greenbelt, Md., third vice commander; Henson C. Tress, 5726 4th st. nw., finance officer; Samuel C. Boyd, 711 Nicholson st. nw., historian; George L. Myers, 2011 Evart st. ne., chaplain; Charles C. Lusk, 1818 Riggs pl. nw., sergeant-at-arms; Francis E. Robertson, 1304 Saratoga ave. ne., judge advocate, and Ernest E. Kennard, 6700 Hillandale rd., Chevy Chase, Md., adjutant.

Reminder for Arlington

October 2 is the deadline for new Arlington voters who wish to register for the general fall elections, Mrs. Mary Thompson, central register, said yesterday.

In addition to the regular 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. hours, the central office will be open to register voters from 7 to 9 p. m. on September 23, 28, 29, and 30. The precinct registrars will be available for registration from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. at their homes on October 2.

Three Held in Theft

A second-hand store operator and two truck drivers were put under bond yesterday in Municipal Court in connection with the theft of $15,000 in electrical equipment.

Charged with receiving stolen property and keeping improper records, and held for grand jury action was John T. McQuaid, 43, who operates the store at 301 H st. nw.

Accused of grand larceny in the theft of the equipment from the Noland Supply Warehouse at 136 K st. ne., last July, were two truck drvers, Edward W. Fox, 25, of 218 12th pl. ne. and John P. Tate, 22, of 1126 7th st. nw. Both were held under $500 each for further court action.

PUC Orders Crosstown Bus Line Extension To Serve Ivy City, Intersect Northeast Routes

The District Public Utilities Commission yesterday ordered extension of the Miltary Road Crosstown bus line to provide service to Ivy City and intersect all bus lines now serving Northeast Washington, north and west of Bladensburg rd.

The PUC order, effective October 24, came after requests had been made by both citizens associations and parent-teacher groups in the Northeast section of the city for the added service.

The PUC Commissioners, in their decision, pointed out that the new route will pass both the Taft Junior High School and the John Burroughs School, and will provide transportation for pupils living in the area south of Rhode Island ave. to these schools.

It also will provide transportation for students in the Woodridge area who wish to attend parochial schools in the vicinity of 20th st. and Rhode Island ave. ne.

The extended eastbound route will go from the present terminus at 14th st. and Colorado ave. north on 14th st., east on Kennedy st. and Missouri ave. to North Capitol st., south on N. Capitol st. and Hawaii ave. to Taylor st., east to South Dakota ave., south to 18th st. ne., south on 18th and Montana ave. to New York ave., southwest to 16th st. ne., and to a terminal north of West Virginia ave.

The westbound route will go from the 16th st. ne., terminal south to West Virginia ave., east to Montana ave., north to Montana ave. and 18th st., and over the eastbound route to the streetcar-bus terminal near Wisconsin and Western aves. nw.

In testimony before the PUC, the Capital Transit Co. stated it would be more advantageous to extend the Military rd. line to serve residents between the Brookland, Burroughs and Woodridge areas to Ivy City than to extend the Glover Park-Trinidad bus line.

False Pretenses Charged

A woman charged with using a name other than her own in obtaining a $50 loan from a lending firm yesterday was ordered held for the Montgomery County grand jury on a charge of false pretenses.

Police identified the defendant as Miss Mary Elizabeth Chapman, 26, of 1320 B st. se. They said she gave the name of a friend in borrowing money from Aetna Finance Co., 7928 Georgia ave., Silver Spring.

At a hearing in Silver Spring Police Court she entered a plea of guilty, police said, and was released under $500 bond.

Fire Probe Dropped

A Travilah, Md., boarding house in which a 90-year-old widow burned to death recently is not subject to existing Montgomery County licensing laws, State's attorney Walter W. Dawson ruled yesterday.

The official said no further investigation would be conducted and Mrs. Blanche Downey, operator of the boarding house would not be prosecuted for failing to take out a license.

Victim in the fire was Mrs. Ida Presgrave whose charred body was found on a bed in the remnants of a sleeping porch which was destroyed.

Montgomery Defers Action On Nurseries

Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday put off for the second time legal prosecution of 12 nursery school operators who allegedly have failed to obtain licenses.

The action was delayed pending adoption of proposed changes in the county zoning ordinance which would modify land requirements for private schools.

The present ordinance requires land space of five acres and a 100-foot setback, whereas changes suggested by the county board of zoning appeals would allow school use of a 7500-square-foot tract, with no setback requirement.

At a hearing on the proposed amendments, Attorney R. Duncan Clark, representing Chevy Chase Junior College, urged speedy enactment of the changes in order to prevent delay in the scheduled construction of a $50,000 science building at the college.

Meeting in Rockville, the commissioners voted to classify in the civil service system a position for a full time nurse who would supervise all institutions licensed by the county.

The board also approved salary increases of $300 annually for six county deputy sheriffs.

Health Dept. Shift Asked

division chiefs if the plan is approved.

Although the full plan was not set down in black and white, Dr Ruhland gave a general outline of the setup he wants.

Largest of the proposed divisions would be that for General Medical Care, which would group the following now separate bureaus: Tuberculosis, Preventable Disease, Venereal Disease, Cancer Control, Nursing, Mental Hygiene, Laboratory and Out-Patient Relief.

Head of the division would receive an annual salary of $8180. To provide for such a salary without straining the budget, Dr. Ruhland has proposed to eliminate the position of epidemiologist from the Preventable Disease Bureau and reduce the present salary of that bureau head from $8060 to a new salary of $7102.

Dr. James G. Cumming, present chief of the Preventable Disease Bureau, is expected to retire soon, so, as one Health Department official put it, "his toes won't be stepped on." The bureau's present epidemiologist is Dr. C. C. Dauer, and at least some department officials expressed belief he might be in line for the position of division chief.

The Maternal and Child Health Services division as proposed would combine activities of the present Bureau of Maternal and Child Welfare Service with other services in associated units, including work being done by the District for school dental and crippled children services.

Statistical Center

The administrative division, according to the department's administrative officer, Henry S. Gavens, would include central business administration, vital statistics, health education and central statistical units. Thus, he explained, all other divisions would channel their statistics directly to the administrative division.

The District Health Centers division would consolidate activities of the District's three health centers under one director. Environmental sanitation division would incorporate present food inspection systems with present public health engineering, and Social Services would lump many smaller bureaus together, including the one for housekeeping assistance.

Dr. Ruhland, in his budget request, asked for two new medical inspectors for the Negro schools, at $4902 a year each. Present medical inspection services at the schools for Negroes he said, are "inadequate."

Even if the reorganization plan cannot be effected by next July 1, Dr. Ruhland stated he particularly hopes to group maternal and child health services with dental services, and expand the latter to include dental care for adults.

Other recommendations made in the budget request asked: authority to hire 13 new nurses and a clerk for the nursing bureau; the sum of $4000 to renovate interior of the Polk Health Center, at 7th and P sts. nw., and approval of diversion of funds from the District's authorized diagnostic and treatment center for cancer to the proposed cancer control registry.

"Because of the limitation of funds," said Dr. Ruhland, it now seems more feasible to forgo the diagnostic and treatment clinic and to concentrate on a cancer registry (reporting center for all District cancer cases) that will coordinate all cancer activities in the District of Columbia in its place."

Historic Home Sale Held Up For 3 Months

Three months delay in the sale of Woodlawn to give a public foundation opportunity to raise funds to buy the historic estate seemed assured yesterday after an agreement of the three parties involved in Fairfax County Circuit Court.

The court took no action, however. But lawyers representing the three parties—the estate; Immaculate Heart of Mary Mission Society, Inc., a Catholic society which bid for it, and Woodlawn Public Foundation, Inc., which wants to bid for it—agreed on the conditions necessary to granting the delay.

The 127-acre estate, once the home of George Washington's adopted daughter, Nancy Custis, is owned by Mrs. Oscar W. Underwood, widow of the Alabama Senator. Mrs. Underwood is ill in Philadelphia. Her interests are being cared for by court-appointed guardians, Gardner L. Boothe of Alexandria and H. C. Kilpatrick of Washington.

Judge Authorized Sale

Last month Judge Paul E. Brown authorized the guardians to sell the estate to the Catholic society for $165,000. One day before the court order was to take effect, the newly formed Woodlawn Public Foundation asked the court for a stay until December 31, to give it time to raise money to purchase the estate for a public shrine.

Yesterday, on suggestion of Attorney John A. K. Donovan, representing the Catholic society, the lawyers agreed to the delay on the following conditions, which they said would be presented to Judge Brown for approval within the next few days:

1. The foundation will deposit $5000 with the court to defray expenses incurred by the estate during the stay.

2. The foundation if it buys the estate will pay back the Catholic society for expenses incurred incident to the proposed sale, such as searching the title.

3. The Catholic society will leave its $25,000 with the court without interest during the delay.

4. The foundation must offer $170,000 for the estate.

Society Willing to Step Aside

The Catholic society previously had indicated its willingness to step aside in favor of the foundation, but asked that a decision be made speedily so it could either have the estate or its money back.

Armistead B. Rood, secretary of the foundation, told a group of interested spectators after the hearing yesterday that a campaign to raise the money will be organized and probably will start in two weeks. He stated in court that the foundation has received $6000 in cash and $5000 in promises already.

Sign of Autumn

Presidential politics reared its head in the District Building for the first time yesterday in the current campaign when Ben Jenkins, a shorthand reporter for the Alderson Reporting Co., 306 9th st. nw., sported a campaign button during a hearing before the Public Utilities Commission.

The blue and white lapel pin proclaimed Jenkins as a supporter of Dewey and Warren.

Services Set Thursday for Mrs. Beall

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret M. Beall, 68, Washington native and longtime resident, will be held at 9 a. m. Thursday at the Lee funeral home, 4th st. and Massachusetts ave. ne., followed by a mass at St. Aloysius Church, North Capitol and I sts., at 9:30. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Beall died Monday at her home, 2008 North Kenilworth st., Arlington, Va., after a long illness. Before moving to Arlington last April, she had lived at 835 3rd st. ne. for 27 years.

She was the widow of John H. Beall, employed as a special police officer in Northeast Washington for more than 20 years. He died in 1935.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Evelyn C. Baxter and Miss Margaret L. Beall of the Kenilworth st. address in Arlington; two sisters, Mrs. A. L. Weaver of Washington, and Mrs. K. C. Minnis of Arlington; and a brother, William Sandstrum of Wilmington, Del.

Reburial Rites Set Today for Pfc. Wilson

Reburial services for Pfc. Donald L. Wilson, 20, Washington serviceman killed in action in France, will be held today at the Evergreen Cemetery, Salem, N. Y. The Salem chapter of the American Legion will conduct services at the grave.

Pfc. Wilson

Private Wilson entered the service in 1943 following his graduation from McKinley High School. He went overseas in 1944 with the 378th Regiment, 95th Infantry Division, and was killed near Merton, France. He was awarded the ETO Ribbon with two Battle Stars and the Purple Heart.

He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meredith C. Wilson, and a brother, Dr. M. C. Wilson, jr., of 3005 South Dakota ave. ne., and a brother, Philip H. Wilson of Oswego, N. Y.

7 Motorcyclists Fined for Exhaust Bombardment

Seven motorcyclists were charged yesterday in Municipal Court with failing to prevent unnecessary, intense and prolonged noise in operating their vehicles.

They were arrested early Saturday in the 500 block of 8th st. nw., while riding as a club.

Fined $2 each in the court for the noise were Charles N. Henderson, 28, of 3417 Baker st. se; John P. Goodrich, 20, of 718 10th st. ne, and Wilbur E. Shope, 21, 2819 R st. se. Forfeiting $5 each for the same offense were Robert W. Farran, 20, of 722 S. 22d rd., Arlington, Robert E. Hisey, 23, of 11 4th st. se., and Frederick O. White, 25, of Vienna, Va. Henry W. Riley, 20, of 1104 S. Carolina ave. se., forfeited $5 on a disorderly conduct charge.

Adm. Sullivan to Speak

Rear Adm. W. A. Sullivan, USN, (Ret.), will speak on "Salvage operations" at the Naval Reserve Officers Volunteer Brigade meeting at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the Naval Reserve Training Center, U. S. Naval Gun Factory.

Ingersoll, Dollar Watch Maker, Dies

South Orange, N. J., Sept. 21 (AP). Charles H. Ingersoll, 79, cofounder of the dollar watch company that made his name famous, died today of auto injuries received Sunday.

A native of Delta, Mich., he and his late brother, Robert Ingersoll, manufactured rubber stamps, later branching into a long line of novelties including automatic pencils, a dollar sewing device and a patent key ring.

They sold more than 70 million of the dollar watches before going into bankruptcy in 1921. By that time the dollar watch had become impractical because of rising costs.

Ingersoll was a descendant of John Ingersoll, who settled in Salem, Mass., in 1629. He spent his early years on a farm, but went to New York at the age of 14.

He was an advocate of the single tax and was prominent in organized efforts in that direction. He recalled that Woodrow Wilson, then president of Princeton University, met William Jennings Bryan in his home. Bryan later nominated Wilson for President.

He unsuccessfully sought several offices, including the governorship, as an independent candidate in 1934.

He sponsored a single tax community on his land in Monmouth Beach, on the New Jersey shore, before World War II, building homes there of poured concrete, a method advocated 20 years earlier by Thomas A. Edison.

F. W. Schweigardt

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP).—Frederick William Schweigardt, 63, widely known San Francisco sculptor, died today.

Gov. Tuck Recovers

South Boston, Va., Sept. 21 (AP). Governor Tuck is getting along "just fine," the South Boston Hospital reported today. His temperature is normal. Recovering from an attack of influenza, he probably will leave the hospital tomorrow.

Hotelkeepers Eye Service Innovations

Horrworth

Would you appreciate having a porter hang up your clothes, turn down your bed and shine your shoes?

Does moving through an electric-eye door appeal — no push, no bother?

Well, finding these items in your favorite hotel may sound like a wild dream, but many hotelmen look on these and other innovations as just around the corner.

Charles A. Horrworth, executive vice president of the American Hotel Association, now in convention here, took time out yesterday at the Hotel Carlton to explain why the men who run the country's hostelries are looking with a serious eye in these postwar days on current experiments to make tomorrow's hotel better.

Business, he explained, is good but, what with rising costs, not good enough. So hotel men hope to "improve our product" and draw more customers.

Charles G. Mortimer, jr., chairman of the Advertising Council, urged the delegates to join in efforts to "further a better understanding of our economic system." For "here truly," he declared, "you can cast your bread upon the waters and have it returned to you well buttered."

He said a drive of this type on a community level woul dserve as the "soundest information campaign against communism yet contrived." He warned, however, that "any campaign to explain our American economic system must gild no lilies. Above all, it must look forward, and not backward."

American Destroyers May Swell Turk Fleet

The Turkish fleet soon may be bolstered by several modern American destroyers, diplomatic officials said yesterday. Negotiations for the transfer are in the final stage, the declared.

D. C. Penal Cost Up $422,000 in 1950 Budget

The District Department of Corrections wants to spend $422,000 more to operate local penal institutions during the 1950 fiscal year than during the current fiscal year.

This was the recommendation incorporated in the department's budget request, made public yesterday by the District Commissioners. A total of $3,028,000 in operating expenses was asked as compared to an appropriation for the current fiscal year of $2,606,000.

In addition, the department wants to double its working capital fund—made up from profits of prison industries already in operation—to help finance a new deep-freeze industry which the department will operate during the year.

Also included is a capital outlay of $3500 to construct a root cellar for potato and other vegetable storage, and $7500 to build an ice plant at Lorton Reformatory.

Bulk of the increased request for operating funds will go to finance an expected increase in prison population. Department Director Donald Clemmer predicts a prison population of 2350 in department institutions in 1950.

"In view of the additional police officers authorized the Metropolitan Police Department in the number of 150," said Clemmer, "it may be reasonably assumed that a greater number of arrests will occur."

The department is asking a $134,340 increase in provisions ($339,316) to feed the increased population, at a daily ration cost of 53 cents. A $75,000 item for equipment was explained as needed to replace outmoded machinery.

3 Brentwood Apartment Rents Boosted

The District Rent Control Administration yesterday allowed rent increases ranging from 3 to 9 per cent on three apartment developments near 14th st. and Rhode Island ave. ne.

On Brentwood Village, where there are 439 units, an increase of $15,522 was granted, or 6.02 per cent of the monthly rental now charged.

On Brentwood Gardens, with 171 units, the administration permitted an increase of $11,514, or 9.08 per cent of present charges.

At the Brentwood Development, the increase granted on 126 units was $3438., or 3.95 per cent of present charges.

When adjusted, the rents will range from $37 per month for a two-room and bath unit to $92.75 per month for units having 5½ rooms and two baths. Rents formerly charged ranged from $35 to $85.

The three owning corporations asked the adjustments in rent to compensate for tax increases, and a rise in maintenance and operating expenses since January, 1941. Rent Control Examiner William F. Mansfield conducted the hearings.

Petite Mlle. de Gaulle, Here on Whirlwind Visit, Takes In 'Sights', Parties

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

CHARMING 24-hour visitor was 19-year-old Chantal de Gaulle, a niece of the famous general and elder daughter of Pierre de Gaulle, president of Paris' Municipal Council, which is French equivalent to mayor.

Petite, with piquantly tip-tilted nose and brief-cut, naturally wavy brown hair, Mlle. de Gaulle flew in from New York Monday, attended a reception given at the French Chancery, an embassy dinner given by Mme. Bonnet, whirlwinded through a sightseeing tour, including a glimpse of rain-drenched Mount Vernon, lunched with French Minister Counselor and Mme. Armand Berard, then whisked back to Manhattan in time for the evening premiere of the Paris Opera Ballet.

Chantal's father came from Paris at the invitation of Mayor O'Dwyer to attend New York's Jubilee and she came in place of her mother. So far she's found our country exciting, admires our "installations," bathrooms, air-conditioning, built-in radios and such gadgets; thinks they make living more comfortable than in Paris. Her sole difficulty, since neither she nor her father speak much English, is trying to answer a flood of telephone calls.

Despite a feminine, almost fragile appearance, Mlle. de Gaulle is a young lady of determination and much common sense. In her final year at the University of Paris, where she's majoring in philosophy, the United States trip coincided with a last series of examinations which, in order to obtain a degree, she'll have to pass next autumn.

Though so far she knows little about photography, Mlle. de Gaulle has decided to make it her career. She reasons it's a profitable trade, offering travel opportunities and no office constraint. Mlle de Gaulle isn't going in for any static angle such as fashion photography, but rather for artistic pictures which can be used commercially for tourism and similar publicity ventures.

Grew Up in Wartime France

THE ELDEST of five, including twin brothers, Chantal grew up under grim wartime conditions. When the Germans first poured into France, her father, a banker by profession, moved with his bank from occupied Paris to unoccupied Lyons. Her mother, younger brothers and sister, plus the daughter of friends of Mme. de Gaulle who were murdered by the Gestapo, moved to a family property in Normandy.

When all France was taken over by the Nazis, demarcations between occupied and unoccupied zones were done away with and M. de Gaulle joined his family. As brother of General de Gaulle, he was a marked man and soon afterward was arrested and imprisoned for two years at Eisenberg, a fortress in Czechoslovakia.

Meanwhile, Mme. de Gaulle, who worked with a resistance group, was in imminent danger of arrest and probable Gestapo inquisition.

Unwilling to leave her children and her newly adopted daughter, she gathered all six together, made her way by secret means to Bayonne, near the Spanish frontier.

It was mid-February, 1944, the snow piled in high drifts through the Pyrennes passes when, with a peasant guide, the family of seven set out on a traditionally moonless night. For two nights and a day they struggled through the snow, cold, with no food, snatching a few hours rest in a peasant cottage. Chantal, the adopted daughter and Mme. de Gaulle took turns helping the younger children, often carrying the 8-year-old twins.

Most refugees crossing the Pyrenees from France destroyed their papers as a precaution against capture and, on arriving in Spain, were immediately imprisoned. But Mme. de Gaulle had the foresight to sew her identity card in the lining of a coat, thus established her identity, and within a month the whole family was sent to Rabat, their intended destination in Morocco, where, after his release from prison, M. de Gaulle finally joined them.

Politics Are New Field

PIERRE DE GAULLE'S dip into politics is both recent and unsought. Unlike his brother, who was trained for a military career, M. de Gaulle was educated as a businessman. A year after his return to Paris he was elected member of the Municipal Council and some months ago chosen president by his conferees. Being equivalent to the Mayor of Paris is only a year's job; after that, M. de Gaulle will return to banking—though his daughter admits he's getting to like politics.

Meanwhile, Mme. de Gaulle is extremely active in social welfare problems. One of her main concerns is organizing "vacation" trips for orphans and other underprivileged children. Various countries invite numbers of French children to be guests in private homes. This summer, for instance, some 400 kids were invited to Portugal. Mme. de Gaulle supervises the traveling arrangements, raises money for food en route and such items as suitable clothing, then actually accompanies the children to their destination. Chantal's younger sister, incidentally, has already thought out a career—she's to be a farmer and soon will enroll in farm management and economy courses.

Egypt's Ambassador and Wife Are Greeted at Cocktail Party

By Marie McNair

EGYPT, for six months without an Ambassador to Washington, has replaced Mahmoudi Hassan with a young and personable envoy who has a pretty, dark-haired wife.

Meeting them yesterday for the first time, I'm certain they'll win the affections of those who loved the Hassans, whose popularity knew no bounds.

Mohamed Kamel Bey Abdul Rahim is tall and handsome with dapper mustache, a warm smile and a friendly handshake. Mme. Abdul Rahim, petite and bright eyed in this country for the first time, is quick to learn the customs of a country which she has known for only a week.

Yesterday bachelors Mohamed Bey Abdel Haim, Brig. Gen. Khalifa, Air Attache of the Egyptian Embassy, and Col. Mohamed Hamdy Haiba, Military Attache of the embassy, introduced their new Ambassador and his wife to their colleagues in the Diplomatic Corps, inviting the Military and Air Attaches of all embassies and legations and their wives for cocktails at the Army and Navy Club.

Coming in out of the rain were the Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Louis Denfield and Mrs. Denfeld, wearing a gray suit and hat to match; Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of the Air Forces, and Mrs. Vandenberg, who wore a navy blue frock with tucked skirt, a spray of blue flowers for a hat, and carried furs tucked under her arm.

The British Embassy's, Military Attache, Col. G. E. Prior-Palmer, had elected to wear civilian clothes and I wouldn't have recognized him if it hadn't been for tall and blonde Lady Prior-Palmer at his side.

Saw Commodore Fritz Aage Hammer Kjoelsen, Naval Attache of the Danish Embassy, and Capt. O. P. Araldsen, Naval and Air Attache of the Norwegian Embassy, making the circuit together, sampling the baked oysters on the half shell en route.

Dapper Brigadier D. Chaudhuri of the Indian Embassy, with Mme. Chaudhuri in a soft purple sari, was introducing a visitor, Mme. Bhagat, a lovely lady in a saffron yellow sari, to their friends.

Admiral Ralph Ofstie was there and Capt. Floyd Ferris, USN, and Mrs. Ferris in black with black feathers on her hat. Then there were Col. J. B. W. Hanson and Mrs. Hanson in a blue and black print made with an off-the-shoulder bodice which bared a becoming summer tan; Sweden's Air Attache, Col. Herbert de Schinkel; Mrs. William D. Byron in golden brown crepe sparkling with sequins and Air Commodore J. L. Findlay of the New Zealand Legation, and Mrs. Findlay.

The Soviet Naval Attache, Rear Admiral Eugeni Georgievich Glinkov, came with a member of his embassy.

Watching the goings-on from the sidelines was A. Dawood, secretary to the two hosts, who has lived through his first Washington summer and is eagerly awaiting his first glimpse of snow.

Mr., Mrs. J. E. Makin Give Farewell Cocktail Party

AS A FAREWELL to their friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Makin entertained yesterday afternoon at a cocktail party. Mr. Makin served as civil adviser to the former head of the British navy staff, Admiral Sir Henry Moore, and he is now returning to London.

Among the 80 or more guests yesterday were Rear Admiral Brian Schofield, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Alfred Melville Pride, Rear Admiral and Mrs. H. A. Stuart, Maj. W. A. B. Iliss, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Bowen, Capt. Ronald Owen, Brig. G. D. G. Heyman and British Attache F. V. Cross and Mrs. Cross.

Elkins Family Flies to Boston

MRS. DAVIS ELKINS, her two pretty daughters, Hallie Katherine and Maureen, took off by plane yesterday for Boston. The girls will be in school there this winter, Katherine to finish at Simmons College and Maureen to attend the Garland Junior College.

Davis Elkins, jr., is already in Boston and will enter the New England Preparatory School this fall.

Katherine Elkins joined the ranks of career girls this summer and is now editor-in-chief of Meet Boston, whose first issue came off the press early in September.

Devoted to women's fashions in Boston, generously sprinkled with photographs of frocks and hats, the initial issue also contains contributions from Boston authors and snatches of what social Boston is up to.

After her daughters are settled at school Mrs. Elkins will go to Ventnor, N. J., where former Senator Elkins will join her for a stay of several weeks.

Engagement Broken

Miss Dorothy Georgina Mathews, formerly of Chevy Chase, now of Wellesley, Mass., and Keith DeWitt Fowler of Cincinnati, Ohio, have broken their engagement by mutual agreement.

Miss Anne Bryan, David LeBreton, Jr. Engaged

MRS. HAMILTON VOSE BRYAN has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Anne Conyers Bryan, to David LeBreton, jr., son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. David LeBreton of Washington.

The bride-elect was graduated from the Madeira School and Smith College and for the past three years has been with the Near East Division in the State Department. She is the daughter of the late Commander Bryan.

Mr. LeBreton was graduated from St. Paul's School, Princeton University, and the University of Virginia Law School. He is in the Foreign Service and is presently assigned to the State Department.

The wedding will take place October 23.

Mrs. Alexander, Capt. Brand Are Married

Mrs. Arthur Alexander and Capt. John William Chew Brand, USN, were married yesterday at the Naval Communications Chapel. The Rev. Russell J. Phelan officiated at the quiet ceremony, which was attended by members of the immediate families.

The bride is the widow of the late Arthur A. Alexander, an attorney of Washington, who for many years was a professor of law at Georgetown University. Captain Brand was graduated from the Naval Academy, class of 1924. He is on duty here with the Bureau of Aeronautics.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Washington.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Voss announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Ann, to William Robert Jeavons of Arlington, Va. The ceremony was performed September 2 in the Methodist Church at Stafford, Va.

MRS. ISHAM W. LINDER

Miss Fisher, Ensign Linder Wed in Chapel

St. Andrew's Chapel, the U. S. Naval Academy Chapel at Annapolis, Md., was the scene of the wedding at noon yesterday of Miss Ann Katherine Fisher and Ensign Isham W. Linder, USN, with Chaplain Everett P. Wuebbens of the academy officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don A. Fisher of Falls Church, Va., and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isham D. Linder of Boulder, Colo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white faille gown made with a fitted jacket and bouffant skirt. Her short veil was attached to a faille bandeau and she carried lilies of the valley on a white prayer book. Mrs. Owen Calvin Peck was matron of honor and Ensign John R. Fisher, USN, was best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the Sheraton Room at Carvel Hall. The couple will visit Williamsburg, Va., before going to Boston, Mass., to reside.

The bride attended Randolph Macon Woman's College and was graduated this year from George Washington University. The bridegroom, who is now attending Massachusetts Institute of Technology, formerly attended University of Colorado and was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1947.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Two-Year-Old Boy, Described as Adorable By His Fond Mother, Punches Baby Sister In the Stomach, Also Bites and Claws Her

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Bunny is an adorable 2-year-old boy, who abounds with endless vim and vigor. He is an extremely loving and affectionate child, but in his play he is apt to be very rough. Is this to be expected?

When he is playing with someone he likes, he tends to hug with all his might and bite. From his expression it appears that he means no harm; that it is only a way of displaying his feelings. But how painful; and what to do?

Sweet-tempered Mary, his baby sister, 5 months old, seems to be the basis of our present trials. Bunny exhibits definite symptoms of love and concern for his sister, yet the next minute he will literally bite a chunk from her. What is worse, he has scratched her face and head severely on numerous occasions; or he will slap her head or abdomen with all his 35 pounds of strength.

Thinks Boy Knows He's Doing Wrong

MARY adores him. In fact she seems accustomed to his outbursts and now whimpers only when he hurts her quite painfully.

We've tried every method at our command to prevent this. Some weeks I felt we were making progress; but at this point I sincerely feel the need of sound psychological advice. When I appealed to our pediatrician he shrugged a shoulder and said, "Oh, jealousy. You'll have to cope with that all their lives." But how?

We are living in a one-room apartment temporarily and my husband feels that when we move to larger quarters where Bunny can expend his energy in more ways, these episodes will cease. I am quite sure he realizes he is doing wrong at these times. This is meager information for you to work with, but what is your sage advice? S. R.

Mother Gives Baby a Rough Deal, Too

DEAR S. R.: The gist of your attitude is much more tolerant of Bunny's bad-acting than it is protective of baby Mary's physical welfare, which suggests that unconsciously you probably sympathize with his disposition to resent her as a handicap to free play of affinity between mother and son.

You say that Bunny exhibits definite symptoms of love and concern for his sister, yet the next minute scratches, bites and punches her severely; and indeed at times appears to be trying to squeeze the life out of her.

The significance of his ambivalent behavior is: 1. Bunny's seemingly fond display is keyed to his parents' requirement in this respect; he has been taught, by elaborate example and coaching, that one must be very loving-kind with baby, of course. 2. His contradictory abuse of her reflects his basic feelings about baby, namely: that she is a detestable rival for mother's attentions in his scheme of things and he'd like to smash and/or destroy her, as he would an exasperating toy.

Give the Children Individual Notice

FUNDAMENTALLY his attitude is menacing; hence the helpless baby literally needs constant responsible safeguard against the possibility of serious bodily harm at his hands; and in my opinion there is no excuse for your past failure to do your duty in this regard,—a failure evident in the history of Bunny's repeated outrageous abuse of her.

For advice: Stop forcing baby on Bunny's notice; stop coaching him to "love" her; abandon all such sales-pressure. Keep them out of each other's way as much as possible for the time being, taking this tack unobtrusively; and instead of trying to feed both of them equal portions of love from the same plate and spoon, so to speak, create opportunity for giving Bunny confidential measure of exclusive attention, to relieve his feeling of competing with Mary for your time and interest.

Beyond that, you need first-hand psychological counsel that reaches both wide and deep, to bring your idolatry of Bunny within reasonable bounds, so that you'll have mental clarity and vigor to apply to the proposition of molding his character along civilized lines. Your erstwhile tendency has been to glamorize even his brute manifestations or untrammeled savage traits; and this weak blind brand of adoration has contributed much to the problem he now presents. M. H.

"MONKEY," designed by Philip Robertson, is a bonnet headed straight for that special late afternoon date. Gay, with flirting blondine feathers, it is one of the models Mr. Robertson will show in "Around Town," the Washington Fashion Designers style-drama at the Mayflower Hotel, September 28

Designed for Washingtonians

HATS for heads are fine but heads for hats are just as important. That's the unanimous belief of the five hat designers—members of the Washington Fashion Designers Institute—who are showing their models in "Around Town," the institute's show to be given in the Mayflower Hotel ballroom September 28. Weeks of preliminary sketching and planning and wise use of materials—careful, discriminating head-work—is what they feel must go into even the most frivolous bonnet.

Beyond that point, however, they differ—each working out his own individual style. When the hats are modeled on the twenty-eighth, a wide selection of designs for all occasions around the clock will be shown. There will be "mother and daughter" hats designed by Elies who has adapted the Victorian bonnet. She uses identical line in both creations—a gay, modern version of the quaint "poke" but—she varies them appropriately through the use of more sophisticated and intricate trimming for the mother, simpler trimming for the daughter.

Philip Robertson has gone all out for sprightly feathers in his cocktail hour creation, "Monkey." Edith Burrows, in many of her creations, has emphasized glamour, and the charm of rare materials. "Scheherezade," one of her designs, adapted straight out of the Arabian Nights for a Washington evening, is of off-white moire, with a delicate underlay of Oriental pink showing through its insertions of ecru lace.

On the other hand, Moselle, who styles hats for many of nearby Virginia's hunt-country set, has emphasized creations which can be worn for both town and country wear. Mme. Camille Chautemps has drawn upon all periods and all countries for her unique, unusual designs. Cosmopolitan in theme—yet perfectly at home in any Washington setting—they include "Saigon" which might have been created for an Eastern princess straight out of one of Somerset Maugham's stories; "Volpone," "Henry the Fifth" and, one of the gayest, "The Bishop's Wife."

There will be two identical performances of the show on September 28—one at 10 a. m. in the morning and the other at 4 p. m.

Contribution to Peace of Mind

Women's World Fellowship Sets Up U. N. Welcome Service

By Ernestine Perry
Vice President, Women's World Fellowship

HARRASSED men and women from 58 nations facing world threats to peace at the U. N. General Assembly meeting in Paris will find some of their daily problems made easier, while their flow of spending is guided into channels to protect them from profiteers and to aid French economy. This unique contribution to the peace of mind of busy U. N. delegates is being made by the Women's World Fellowship at its Welcome and Service Center in Paris.

Armed with lists they have prepared including names of French tradesmen, couturiers, dentists, doctors, managers of restaurants, theaters and garages where pledges have been obtained that service without profiteering will be given the U. N. visitors, the Women's World Fellowship Welcome and Service Center is now open.

French Women Aid

French women, themselves plagued by the political crisis, the high prices and black markets, are contributing time, energy and funds to provide free hospitality, information and shopping services. They want the U. N. visitors to get a friendly welcome and an impression that there are some stable elements in French life. As a practical contribution to international understanding and cooperation among economic and moral forces for peace, their Service Center has wholehearted cooperation from French government, business and women's groups, and U. N. agencies.

Among the queries to be answered are:

"Where can I get a tooth filled? Where can I get this cigarette burn in my suit mended? Can I rent a car? How can I get this material translated, typed, or some letters written? Can I arrange a trip to the provinces? Where can I find a quiet, inexpensive restaurant?

The answers to all these questions are not expected to settle peace problems, but the women hope their service will smooth out some of the problems that will help the U. N. visitors enjoy their trip to Paris, and still give them time and energy to meet more serious problems they face in U. N. sessions.

To Meet in Homes

Visitors need to get outside of Paris to see some of the areas devastated by war. Only then can they gain some understanding of the amazing come-back already made by French work, aided by American dollars. Encouraging visitors to arrange trips into various sections of France and helping them to meet French people in their homes in Paris and in the provinces is part of the hospitality service of the Women's World Fellowship Center.

Through the efforts of the Women's World Fellowship and cooperating organizations, many informal gatherings in French homes have been arranged where educators, scientists, artists, businessmen, labor leaders and women's organization leaders can develop friendly understanding.

The Women's World Fellowship, which aims to rally women of all nations to work for the protection of individual freedom and peace, was organized in Paris in 1945. It invited women leaders to an International Assembly for Women in Paris last September. Representative non-Communist women leaders from 51 nations gathered at the assembly, including 25 from United States. The recommendations adopted there have been presented to U. N. agencies. They have served to guide and stimulate women's activities in many countries, according to Mme. Donald Seydoux, international liaison secretary of the Women's World Fellowship, who is one of the most active workers at the new Welcome and Service Center in Paris.

Prominent Women Assist

Many representative leaders of women's organization and diplomatic circles are cooperating to make the Women's World Fellowship Welcome and Service Center a practical service to the peoples of all nations now in Paris. The wife of the permanent secretary at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Madame Chauvel, serves as chairman. Wives of Ambassadors to France, including the wife of United States Ambassador Caffery, are on the honorary committee. Madame de Bekessy, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Davies of Washington, D. C., is one of the active workers for the center.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is the only woman delegate from the United States.

Some 40 non-Government United States organizations, including labor unions, church groups, peace organizations and women's organizations have representatives in Paris now for the U. N. General Assembly meeting. While these groups do not have a vote, they do keep their members well informed of U. N. developments. At the General Assembly meeting they have the opportunities to present their viewpoint to the official United States delegation.

Delegates Named

Women representing United States organizations who are attending the Paris sessions from Washington include Mrs. Edgar Mowrer, Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace; Miss Helen Scanlon, librarian, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Miss Rita Schaefer, Catholic Association for International Peace, and Mrs. Maurice Bisgyer, Women's Supreme Council of B'nai B'rith.

Wilcoxes Mark Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wilcox, long resident in the Washington area, yesterday observed their golden wedding anniversary. They passed the day quietly at their home at 230 Spruce ave., Takoma Park, Md., receiving numerous callers and a shower of cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox were married September 21, 1898 in Colby, Wis., in 1918 they moved to Vienna, Va., where they were active in church and civic affairs. Mr. Wilcox served as clerk and treasurer of the town, and Mrs. Wilcox taught in the Idylwood and Vienna public schools.

Sketching is a favorite hobby of Mr. Wilcox. His crayon portraits of General Sherman, General Sheridan and General Rosecrans are now owned by the Lincoln Museum.

The couple have lived in Takoma Park since 1940. They have three children, Thomas A. Wilcox of Alexandria, Frederick F. Wilcox of Arlington and Miss Marguerite S. Wilcox of the Takoma Park address. Mrs. Rosilla M. Greenwood, sister of Mrs. Wilcox, also resides at that address.

To Give Concerts

The Washington Opera Guild will open its new season with a series of informal concerts at the United Nations Club, the first to be held September 29 at 8:30 p. m. Young Washington artists will be presented at these concerts.

Langes Feted At Reception

On the occasion of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lange were honored at a reception on September 18, given by their daughters, the Misses Ruth, Carolyn and Janet Lange. Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Griffin of Belleville, N. J., son-in-law and daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. Lange, attended the party with their daughter, Miss Helen D. Griffin. George A. Lange, jr., was unable to attend as he is on duty with the Army Transportation Service in Goose Bay, Labrador.

Ask Anne: About Dyeing Gabardine Dress

I have an aqua colored dress which I believe is a gabardine. Somehow several large, light spots have appeared on the front of it. I am contemplating having this dress dyed and would like it dyed either kelly green or brown. I would prefer the kelly green, but wonder if it would be dark enough to prevent the light spots from showing through. What color would you suggest? M. D. C.

If you are having this dress dyed professionally, ask the opinion of the firm doing the dying as to color. When they see the dress they will be able to tell you whether or not the kelly green will completely cover the spots. If you are doing the job yourself, since you prefer kelly green, why don't you use a dye color remover (sold where dyes are sold) on the dress, then dye it? If you don't wish to remove the color first, I'd suggest you dye it dark brown.

Regarding the small matches D. J. M. is anxious to obtain: I also have one of the tiny metal box covers. However, on measurement, I find that mine is 1 inch wide by slightly over 1½ inches long. The matches have been used long ago, but I have been able to continue using the box by removing the match sticks from the folding packages (pocket matches). When the sticks are torn from the package, they are just the right size to fit in the box, which will hold about 24 matches at one time. The metal box is so handy to carry in my purse that I feel it is worth the trouble to keep the box filled from the paper match folders.

W. E. P.

Thank you, W. E. P. for this suggestion.

I am an old crippled lady, and seldom "go out." However, there is to be a quiet wedding in my family soon with only members of the two families present. I have a very nice new black silk dress. Will that be too somber for me to wear? Also, I can only wear a certain type of oxford shoes. Would I appear out of style and appropriateness by wearing my usual type of dress? I'd rather stay away than be inappropriately dressed. M. W.

By all means go to the wedding and wear your new black silk dress with the shoes in which you are the most comfortable. It has been said that one is appropriately dressed if it is not possible to remember what she wore. If you appear in the type of dress in which your family are accustomed to seeing you, they will not give your costume a thought, but instead will be thoroughly happy that you were able to attend the wedding.

3 Cops, 2 Others Die in Gun Battle

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Five persons—including three police officers, a Negro gunman and a bystander—were dead today as result of a series of gun battles touched off when officers answered a routine call to quell a disturbance.

Two other policemen were wounded, one critically, in the affray just before midnight last night.

Authorities were questioning a suspect captured early today after police threw a cordon around the Kansas City Negro section.

Lieut. Charles Welch of the homicide bureau said the suspect, George Bell, denied he was in the apartment where the shootings took place. But Welch said three witnesses placed Bell there.

Police bullets killed Bell's brother, William, 34. The officers killed were Sandy Washington, 26, Charlie Neaves, 30, both Negroes, and Charles Ferrine, 46. Injured officers were Bill Wills, 34, and Kieffer Buris, 34. A bystander, Burton E. Warren, Negro, was wounded and died early today.

The shooting occurred when Washington and Neaves answered a complaint about a disturbance at the apartment of Alpha Russell and Gwindola King, about eight blocks from police headquarters.

Young Will Ask 14th Precinct Building Fund

Engineer Commissioner Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young yesterday said he would seek a deficiency appropriation from Congress to finance construction of a new Fourteenth Precinct police station.

The Fourteenth Precinct now is housed in the Davis School annex at 44th pl. and H st. se. The Board of Education last summer informed the Commissioners it would need the building for school purposes in the 1949-50 school year.

The annex was built as a wartime temporary pending construction of the permanent Davis School.

Textron Head Sees More N. E. Mills Closing

Providence, R. I., Sept. 21 (AP).—Royal Little, president of Textron, Inc., predicts more closings of New England mills "unless the textile-workers are willing to work as hard as those in low-cost plants."

Defending the shutdown of four Textron plants in New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, making 10,000 jobless, Little said:

"There is no major element of cost which is lower in New England than it is in the South. Power, fuel, freight, compensation insurance, payroll taxes and local taxes are all substantially less in the South."

And, Little added, the workers were better.

"Until the textile worker in New England, with his latent productivity and inherent skill, turns out as many pounds and yards an hour as a worker in any other area, his job is insecure," said the Textron president.

"If, on the other hand, he is willing and able to produce on a competitive basis, he will get his fair share of the spinning and weaving of textile products."

Little, who has been called to testify before a subcommittee of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, explained Textron's plans for a 12-million-dollar expansion program in the South and Puerto Rico even while shutting down Northern mills.

"The Puerto Rican government has declared a tax holiday until 1959 on their local insular taxes, corporate taxes, for any new industry," he said.

Tax on Shifted Profits

"That means that a company that operates in Puerto Rico does not pay Federal income taxes, but the minute we take any earnings of our company out of Puerto Rico . . . we will have to pay the full 40 per cent tax—not the 5.7 per cent dividend tax."

Citing high local taxes as one reason for high production costs in New England mills, Little said taxes levied by the city of Nashua, N. H., amounted to 2 per cent of the total sales of the mills.

He contended the tax charge in the South was in some cases only a fraction of the levy imposed in Northern mills.

Indians Sue Government For Benefits

Eight impoverished Indians sued the Federal Government yesterday in an attempt to get Social Security benefits for some 100,000 members of their race now on reservations in New Mexico and Arizona.

The suit, filed in District Court here, states that the plaintiffs face dire distress, including acute hunger this winter, unless they obtain relief. They point out that 82 deaths from starvation and malnutrition were noted among their tribesmen last winter and they fear even worse this year.

Despite this, according to the suit, no reservation Indian in New Mexico or Arizona is able to get Social Security benefits for old age, blindness or for widows with dependent children.

The suit contends that the Indians are being discriminated against because of their race

Police Radio Changes Approved In Hyattsville

Modernization of the police radio dispatcher's office in the Hyattsville substation was approved yesterday by Prince Georges County commissioners.

Most of the material and labor is being donated by friends of the police department and the entire project will cost no more than $300, a delegation of policemen told the commissioners yesterday.

The entire radio, telephone and public reception portion will be remodelled and sound-proofed.

Sergt. Boyd A. Hamilton, who has done much of the work of arranging for the changes, Lieut. Louis Mackall, radio officer; Corpl. Reginald Austin and Desk Clerk Louis Weaver were in the delegation which appeared before the commissioners.

Arlington School Board Acts In Junior High Overcrowding

Four ways to overcome serious overcrowding at Arlington's Claude Swanson Junior High School were proposed last night at a meeting of the county school board.

Built for about 600 pupils, the school now has an enrollment of 770 with some pupils in at least one class forced to sit on the floor and on window sills, and all classes overloaded.

The board proposed that the school institute six periods daily instead of the present five. The length of periods would be reduced from 55 to 50 minutes three days a week and from 55 to 48 minutes on the other two days.

To handle the heavy pupil load the board decided to add four new teachers to the staff—two for English-social science instruction, one for math-science teaching, and one for physical education.

The board also plans to purchase folding tables to set up in the school auditorium for use as a study room. This would empty a classroom now used for study purposes.

Thirty-five folding chairs will be bought for overcrowded classrooms.

The board also adopted an $11,063 music instruction budget.

Dr. Nelson Given New Post

Dr. William Stuart Nelson, Howard University professor and dean of the school of religion, has been appointed to the newly created post of dean of the university.

Nelson

James M. Nabrit, jr., secretary of the university, announced yesterday that Dean Nelson will continue to serve as professor and dean of the school of religion "for the time being."

As dean of the university, Dr. Nelson will supervise educational divisions, including all schools and colleges, the university library and the student personnel divisions.

Born in Paris, Ky., Dean Nelson received his bachelor's degree from Howard in 1920. Later he studied at Yale, the Sorbonne in Paris, the University of Berlin and the University of Marburg, Germany. He once served as president of Shaw University in Raleigh, N. C., and later was president of Dillard University in New Orleans, La.

Porter's Death Believed Suicide, Prober Reports

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 21 (AP).—State Police Sergt. W. E. Murphy said tonight that "from the mass of evidence there is every reason to believe that Charles Porter's death was suicide."

Porter, former treasurer of the Washington Times-Herald, plunged to his death from the sixth floor of a hotel here last Tuesday night, and authorities described his death officially as a suicide.

Sergeant Murphy said he was closing his special investigation directed by State Police Supt. W. E. Burchett Friday. Burchett said he had ordered a "thorough investigation" of the case because of the wide publicity given Porter's death and not because of any new angles.

Murphy said he was preparing a report for Burchett. The State police sergeant said that "just why he (Porter) came to Clarksburg and why he chose to end his life are things in the man's past which we have no way of determining here."

Murphy reported a 13-year-old boy had been found who saw Porter poised on the sixth floor ledge of the hotel and also saw the death leap. Murphy said the boy's name was being withheld at the request of his father.

N. Y. U. Professor Defends Federal Employe Rights

Restrictions on the collective bargaining rights of public workers are no more justified than restrictions on similar workers in private industry, with a few exceptions, the Washington Chapter of the Industrial Relations Research Association was told last night.

Sterling D. Spero, associate professor of public administration at New York University, addressed 27 chapter members at their opening fall session in the Hall of Government of George Washington University, 708 21st st. nw. U. S. Commissioner of Labor Statistics Ewan Clague of the association's national advisory board, presided.

Spero saw in the Taft-Hartley Act an increase in restrictions on "fundamental, civil rights of citizens of a free society," and the Hatch Act of 1940, restricting political activities of Government employes, as an extension of Civil Service restrictions already in force.

Seventh St. Man Stabbed to Death

A man about 45 years old, identified by police as John Alexander of 740 7th st. se., was stabbed to death last night at his home.

Police held Robert Denett, 34, who lived at the same address, for the coroner in connection with the slaying. A coroner's inquest was scheduled for 11 a. m. today.

Now... THE SAINT
By LESLIE CHARTERIS
comes to comics!
Chances are, you've already met the Saint. If not, delay no longer. You'll find him the most engaging character who ever landed a right on a criminal jaw. And you'll sympathize with the police who have to deal with this modern Robin Hood—who breaks the law but always seems on the side of the angels. Here's a comic strip which stands by itself—which brings you back every day—because it's written by a master of mystery, Leslie Charteris.

The Washington Post
"Six more with onions, Joe!"

From the looks of things, we'd say Joe is a mighty busy man. On top of the orders he's working to fill, the new orders keep pouring in.
That's the way it is with us too. We're working hard to provide some service for those folks who are waiting for telephones. We're building and installing new equipment as rapidly as possible. But as thousands of orders are filled, new ones keep coming in.
Until we can catch up, we must continue to limit most new installations to party lines. The reason, of course, is that party lines mean more people can get service sooner.
If you're on a party line, please keep on being a good neighbor to the other families on your line. You'll be helping them and helping yourself to better telephone service.
Your party line is a partnership —please use it "sparingly"

MARK TRAIL

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Politics Is Dead Issue; Love Sweeps Country

Two girls from the Hill have written a brand new song that went on sale in sheet music stores the other day.

The authors are Ruth Wallace of the Senate District Committee and Sue Thomas, who works for Congressman Daniel A. Reed of New York. The title of the ditty is "Who's To Blame?"

Inasmuch as Mr. Reed is a Republican, I thought that "Who's To Blame?" would turn out to be a campaign song. But I was mistaken. It's about love.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Blame it on Daylight Saving Time! A veteran policeman was killed, and another policeman seriously injured the other morning in an auto crash that took place 10 minutes before the traffic lights were turned on.

One hour's difference in daylight might have given enough light to avoid the accident.

Mrs. Gladys M. Lawhorn.
6309 Georgia st.
Chevy Chase, Md.

Dear Mrs. Lawhorn:

Perhaps—but then again, we don't know how many accidents are averted by the extra hour of daylight in the evening. So I guess it all averages itself out in the long run. Bill.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Four darling kittens, beautifully marked." (Dupont 0898, after 8 p. m.)

"Two 5-week-old kittens; they're darlings." (Owens 6938.)

"Four kittens, three-quarters Persian." (Glebe 8332.)

SHE SELLS SMELLS, SEE?

If I smell any better than usual today, it's because of the Fuller Brush Co. and one of its brand new Fullerettes.

A Fullerette is a lady Fuller Brush man, except that she's not a man and she doesn't sell brushes. She sells cosmetics.

My Fullerette turned out be be Mrs. Billy Lou White, who lives at 4604 72d ave., Landover Hills, Md. Her two children, Caroline 7, and David 5, go to school, papa goes off to work for the District government, and mama is free to put in about 4 hours a day asking, "Is the lady of the house in? I have a little gift of a sample lipstick for her."

BILLY LOU

When Mrs. White tried that line on me, I was hurt. "Right now," I told her, "I'm the lady of the house. Don't you have any samples for men?"

"Well," replied Mrs. White, "the women use this preparation for a different purpose, but let's try a little of it on your face—because they tell me it makes a wonderful after-shaving lotion for men."

It certainly does. I don't know what it was, but I smell positively scrumptious today.

MISCELLANY

Add similes: As nervous as a numbers writer testifying before the grand jury . . . D. C. Cameron of the Amateur Weathermen of America sends along a copy of "Weatherwatch," the group's monthly publication. It's a surprisingly professional job of checking up on the Nation's weather vagaries . . . Kenneth Olmert of 4409 S. Four Mile Run dr., Arlington, Va., has been singing the praises of the manager of the Arlington Theater. When "The Best Years of Our Lives" was playing there recently, it drew quite a crowd, and about 70 standees were still left in the lobby after the last show started. Being a right guy, the manager announced that he'd add an extra late show for their benefit—and then sent an assistant out for cokes for the crowd . . . I guess Becky Broussard of 2960 2d st. se. has never seen my explanations of why I can't use lost and found items here. There are hundreds of things lost and found in a big city every day, and we just can't get involved in such reports. So I'm sure Becky will understand why I can't say that she found a pair of glasses near the Department of Agriculture, or that they appear to be a child's glasses, or that Becky's telephone number is ATlantic 5706, or that she'd be glad to return the glasses to their owner.

WAS HE HIRED?

Employment application blanks at The Washington Post ask for information about previous jobs held—what the applicant liked about them, and what he disliked about them.

The other day a young fellow turned in a set of answers which gave our personnel manager a chuckle.

His last previous job was: "Ensign, U. S. Navy." The things he liked about this job: "Pay and rank." The thing he disliked about it: "Higher rank."

Listen to Bill Gold each noon, Monday through Saturday, over WINX (1340) and WINX-FM (98.3).

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Former Senator Reynolds of North Carolina has just arrived in Madrid with his young daughter, whose grandmother was the late Evalyn Walsh McLean. Reynolds expects to remain in Spain for a year and then will return to North Carolina to campaign for the Senate again . . . Joanne Dru, who became a star in Howard Hawks' three-million-dollar movie, "Red River," won't be seen by movie-goers again. Her husband, Dick Haymes, has asked her not to make any more movies . . . The March of Time has finished a film story of Thomas E. Dewey. It was shown to Governor Dewey in Albany just before he took off on his campaign trip.

Marc Connelly's play, "Story For Strangers," opened in New York last night. Professor Connelly is scheduled to start his drama courses at Yale . . . At the last minute Photoplay Magazine had to replate to eliminate an article by Robert Mitchum . . . Last week Artie Shaw suddenly decided that he wanted some clarinet practice with a Mozart quintet. He telephoned WOR and learned that a Mozart quintet was scheduled to broadcast the next morning. Shaw arose at 6:45 a. m., went to the station to rehearse, made the broadcast without any billing, and received $24, the scale pay.

Dr. Rene Dubos of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, whose work led to the discoveries of streptomycin, now is doing research which he hopes will lead to the conquest of tuberculosis. Dr. Dubos' name is listed in the panel up for one of the 1948 Lasker Awards of the American Public Health Association . . . When he learned of this he sighed: "I've been deprived of the fame which should have been mine for a true innovation, in another field. When I was a student at Rutgers, I earned money by minding the children of the college professors. I'm The Original Baby-Sitter."

Bartley Crum will write the introduction to Ira Hirschmann's "The Embers Still Burn" . . . Chandler Cowles, the actor-producer who has a role in the delightful new revue, "Small Wonder," couldn't get into his apartment after the opening night party. He appeared for lunch at the Algonquin the next day still wearing his dinner jacket. Not an eyebrow was raised. The diners assumed that he merely was a headwaiter.

Cox Knows How to Carry Iowa

By Drew Pearson

When President Truman got out to Iowa on his present campaign trip, he put in a long distance phone call to Gov. Jim Cox, Democratic candidate for President against Harding in 1920 and grand old man of the Democratic Party. Though the conversation was about other things, Governor Cox made this suggestion:

Cox

"I can tell you how to carry Iowa, Mr. President."

"How?" asked the President.

"Give 'em rain today."

Mr. Truman chuckled.

"The Republicans will probably promise them rain," continued Cox, "and then take credit for it when the equinox sets in."

U. S. Hesitates

Future historians may chalk up a certain moment of American indecision last July alongside the indecision of the French on March 6, 1936, when Hitler invaded the Rhineland.

At that time, the French army could have stopped Hitler cold. Later it became known that Hitler had even given his military chiefs orders to retreat if the French army moved. But the French hesitated, debated, did nothing.

Last July when the Russians first clamped down the Berlin blockade, the U. S. likewise hesitated. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, commander of America's political Corregidor, proposed sending an armored train loaded with supplies through the blockade.

He was convinced the Russians would not fight. All intelligence reports indicated that the Kremlin had given firm orders to the Red army not to shoot. Moscow could not, Clay was convinced, afford a war.

His proposal was OK'd by the joint chiefs of staff and the National Security Council, but the State Department and later Truman, himself, said no. Whether they were right or wrong is for history to decide, but the Berliners are wagering that Clay's strategy would have called Russia's bluff.

Now, however, Russia has brought more divisions of the Red army into Germany, has its prestige at stake with the entire world, and, according to many experts, would fight.

Dewey's Secretary for Air?

The big airlines and aircraft manufacturers are promoting Congressman Carl Hinshaw of California to be Secretary of Air in case Dewey is elected.

It was Hinshaw who got Congress to pass heavy subsidy increases for the "big five" airlines. One of the five even sent a mainliner all the way from New York to Washington to take a party of Hinshaw's relatives and friends on a sightseeing trip over the Capital.

G. I. Came First

"Sergt. Johnny Davies is waiting to see you, sir."

Truman Urges Healthy U.S.A.

There is nothing likely to lose more votes among doctors than compulsory health insurance. Yet the other day, President Truman, conferring with representatives of the American Hospital Association, went right down the line for compulsory health insurance and seemed to have some pretty good arguments to back him up.

Both sides got a little hot under the collar about it.

Hospital Association President Graham Davis started the argument by warning Truman that compulsory insurance would "inhibit the activities of voluntary hospitals." Half of the six billion dollars spent annually on American hospitals, Davis warned, is contributed by private philanthropists.

The Rev. George Lewis Smith, president of the Catholic Hospital Association, backed Davis up on this, adding that one of every four patients goes to a Catholic hospital.

Mr. Truman listened patiently, then lit into his callers.

One-third of the men who reported for the wartime draft were turned down for physical and mental reasons, the President told the private hospital representatives.

Right in the Nation's Capital, the President continued, there is such a shortage of hospitals and beds that members of his own White House staff have trouble getting medical attention.

By this time, the allotted 15 minutes calling time was up. And with both sides getting hot under the collar, the hospital authorities departed.

Note—Most doctors who have tried compulsory health insurance praise it highly, claim it gives them a steadier income and their patients better health. People with health insurance, they say, come in to see the doctor regularly because it's already paid for, don't put it off until too late.
